State, Federal Agencies Join In Urging Pt. Reyes Park

CROWD ON HAND FOR HEARING —Olney Hall of College of Marin was packed for today's hearing on a Senate subcommittee on the proposal to create a national seashore area on the Pt. Reyes Peninsula. Behind table on platform are (from left) Rep. Clement W. Miller (D-Corte Madera), Sen. Clair M. Engle (D-Red Bluff), Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), Richard Callahan, subcommittee secretary, and George L. Collins of San Anselmo, regional director of planning for the National Park Service. (Independent-Journal photo)

A national seashore area on the Pt. Reyes Peninsula is economically feasible and would annually attract more than 2,100,000 visitors to Marin for a day's visit and another quarter of a million for an overnight or vacation stay, a Senate subcommittee was told today by the National Park Service.

Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), chairman of the subcommittee, presided at the hearing before more than 250 spectators in Olney Hall at College of Marin.

George L. Collins of San Anselmo, National Park Service regional planning chief, gave the interior and insular affairs subcommittee of the Senate public lands committee, the tentative economic feasibility report. He said that, as now planned, 53,000 acres would be needed for the project. Of this amount, 32,000 acres would be acquired solely for public use and 21,000 would be available for lease back to cattle and dairy ranchers.

Collins said 15 dairy ranches with 7,000 head of dairy cattle, and 10 beef cattle ranches with 3,500 head of cattle are included in the proposed park area. About half of the dairy land and half of the beef cattle land could continue operating under the park service's proposal, he said.

Oyster beds, an oyster cannery and three existing commercial fisheries also would be retained, he said.

Taxes paid on the property during 1958-59 totaled $68,696, he declared. Of this amount $36,089 is within the area which would be proposed as continuing in ranching.

"The economic survey so far indicates that the lands which would be removed from the tax rolls . . . would not necessarily result in increased tax burdens to other property owners," said Collins.

The project "is sound economically, socially and in every way," he said, "and we are dedicated to its establishment."

Collins spoke after Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service from Washington, D.C., reviewed and recommended the plan which would preserve the "intrinsic natural beauties of this area." These values "are, from the national point of view, of such natural and historical importance as to far outweigh the value of the area for subdivisions and unintegrated commercial use," said Wirth.

Experience in other areas indicated that assessed valuation in the vicinity of a park increased sharply, Wirth claimed. At the Cape Hatteras seashore area on the East Coast, the total assessed value of land within the county of the park increased 125 per cent from 1950 to 1958, he said.

He said the seashore project for Pt. Reyes offers the "greatest opportunity for the eco-

Larkspur Girl, 2, Drowns In Lake

Tragedy Occurs As Mother Dozes Nearby

A quiet family outing in the hills near San Quentin ended in tragedy yesterday afternoon when a 2-year-old Larkspur girl fell into Tub Lake and drowned while her mother dozed about 15 feet from the edg of the lake.

Arthur L. Poganski, foreman of the Ross Valley sewage treatment plant, dived into six feet of water to retrieve the body of Anna Maria Dorigo, then tried mouth-to-mouth respiration without success.

The mother, Mrs. A. J. Dorigo of 330 West Baltimore avenue, Larkspur, told Deputy Sheriff George Barnes she and another woman went to the lake with their children for an outing. They lay down near the lake with Anna Maria between them. The child was drinking from a bottle and dozed off. Mrs. Dorigo's two older children, Leroy, 13, and Robert, 11, went into the hills to play.

When Mrs. Dorigo awoke, Maria was gone. She called the other children and began a search, then called the sheriff for help about 3 p.m.

Deputy Barnes began an immediate search, together with Poganski and Gordon and Albert Von Der Werth, brothers who operate a shingle mill off Sir Francis Drake boulevard near the Hutchinson Quarry.

Poganski, an ex-Marine, dived into the lake near the spot where the women had been sleeping. He immediately came up with the girl's body.

Raccoon Bites Boys, Held For Rabies Study

A raccoon which nipped the fingers of two San Anselmo boys last night was under observation today at Marin County Humane Society for possible rabies.

Mrs. R. H. Hybert of 189 The Alameda said her son, Billy, 10, and a neighbor boy, Bruce Zaro, 9, of 162 The Alameda, captured the raccoon last night in the hills of San Anselmo. They used a burlap bag. Sometime during the capture, Billy said, he was nipped on the left hand, and so was Bruce.

Mrs. Hybert said her husband was taking Billy to a hospital in San Francisco today for treatment. She said she did not see the animal herself, but from descriptions given by the boys, the raccoon appeared normal. The youngsters said the 'coon got away from them once, but they recaptured it.

U.S. To Offer Builders Land Eyed For Park

Some of the land wanted by the state for development as a park at the Golden Gate will be offered for sale to subdividers, the General Services Administration announced today.

But another tract of land will be offered to the state at a discount, said George Phillips, regional commissioner.

Some 130 acres at Ft. Baker, east of Highway 101 between the Waldo tunnels and the Golden Gate Bridge, has been declared by the services administration "too valuable" to be used as a park.

Phillips confirmed an announcement from Washington by Harold J. Powers, former California lieutenant governor and now deputy administrator of GSA.

The state Legislature last month approved the expenditure of $250,000 to buy the land at Ft. Baker and 161 acres at adjacent Ft. Cronkhite and develop a park at the Golden Gate. The site acquisition money was based on an estimate of 50 per cent of the mar-

Kidnapers Silent As Deadline Passes

PARIS (UPI) — The 48-hour deadline for the safe return of kidnaped Eric Peugeot, 4, passed today, and the brutal language of the $100,000 ransom note raised new fears for the life of the heir to an automobile empire.

"I am at the end of my rope," said the boy's father, Roland Peugeot, 34. "Up to now I have had no news of my child. I repeat, I have no news. Only one solution remains: To wait and hope that I shall recover my child safe and sound."

Peugeot, vice president of the 300-million-dollar a year Peugeot automobile enterprises, was prepared to pay the $100,000 under any terms proposed by the kidnapers. But hours passed and he and his distraught wife, Colette, heard nothing.

Eric was kidnaped Tuesday from the playground of the Saint Cloud country club on the outskirts of Paris where he was playing with his brother and some friends. The kidnapers left a ransom note demanding $100,000 within 48 hours if he was to be seen alive again.

Details of the ransom note made public today showed that the man who kidnaped the boy and fled in a car with a blond male accomplice was violently anti-rich, a man with a chip on his shoulder who sounded as if he would stop at nothing.

"You are a member of the filthy rich," it said. "You must cough up 50 million francs ($100,000) if you ever want to see the kid alive again. Above all, not a word to the police or the newspapers."

It promised that instructions would follow. There have been three telephone calls, all by a man with a husky voice, but early tonight there had been no indication the money had ben paid. Police were holding off for a reasonable period.

The father went on a nationwide radio and television hookup last night to appeal to the unknown kidnapers: "Return my son to me. I shall not prefer any charges against you."

Bomber Lands Safely After Engines Fail

A B57 bomber suffered failure of both engines yesterday at an "extremely high altitude" over Hamilton Air Force Base, but landed safely at the base after making an "air start" of the engines while gliding at 9,000 feet.

The plane, one of several recently stationed at Hill Air Force Base, Utah, for use as target planes for Hamilton interceptors, was on an altitude training mission when the engine failure occurred.

The pilot, 1st Lt. W. W. Dodd, said he could not reveal his exact altitude at the time of the engine failure since it was classified information. However, he was wearing a pressure suit which is required for flights over 50,000 feet.

Dodd said such a failure is not unusual at high altitudes when there is turbulence in the air. The failure, he said, was caused by stalling of the plane's compressors.

Nicasio Dam Low Bid Far Under Estimate

A state of Washington contracting combine undershot estimates by nearly a million dollars with a low bid of $1,780,569 for the Marin Municipal Water District's Nicasio dam project, it was revealed today.

The crucial point had to do with highway construction, for which the bid turned out to be $952,775 as compared with an engineer's estimate by the county of 1,625,546.

Final award will be made by the district's board of directors next Monday at 4 p.m., it was decided at a meeting last night when eight bids were opened. Even the highest bid was $2,376,836, still well under the total engineers' estimate of $2,709,121.

The low bid came from Cherf Brothers, Inc., Sandkay Construction Inc., and Cheney Construction Co., jointly.

All told there were some 90 items to be considered, according to William R. Seeger, general manager for the district, but they summarized into five sections in which the low bid compared with engineer's estimate as follows:

Dam embankment: $318,314

Oakland Grid Pros Renamed Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland entry in the new American Football League changed its nickname today to Raiders.

The club sponsored a contest last month to pick a name and came up with Senors. The fans protested so much that general manager Chet Soda decided a new name would be in order and he and a committee picked Raiders.

NATURE AT PRETTIEST

Solons Impressed By Beauty Of Pt. Reyes

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Nature put on her prettiest dress at Pt. Reyes yesterday for a U. S. Senate subcommittee investigating the advisability of turning the peninsula into into a national seashore area.

As the party, headed by Sens. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah) and Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), approached the peninsula in two military helicopters, a veil of fog edged the shore and sent fingers of thin grey toward the interior.

But as the two olive drab flying bananas swung over the area being considered for the federal park, the fog lifted, clearing showing the bright green fields, the dark green forests, the white cliffs of Drake's Bay and deep blue and golden sands of the shoreline, the birds, and, in several places, seals cavorting in the water below.

The two helicopters, which carried the party of about 20 persons from San Francisco International Airport, flew over Bolinas, then followed the coastline to Drake's Bay. The whirlybirds circled Drake's Estero, continued along the coastline around the lighthouse on the tip of the point, and then the long straight beach to Tomales Point.

Heading south again, the 'copters flew over Tomales Bay, then over Bear Valley ranch and the heavily timbered area south and west of the ranch houses.

Here the senators got a look at one reason for proposing the park. Blue smoke from a dozen logging fires filled the skies and the smell of burning wood filtered into the helicopters.

One hillside looked like it was ablaze, but a closer inspection showed only several fires in which loggers were burning the residue of slash from their operations. The trees around the area were almost completely eliminated.

The two whirlybirds settled down in a green pasture on the Bear Valley ranch. Senator Moss and most of the party, including Rep. Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera and Conrad J. Wirth, director of the National Park Service, got into five cars for a land inspection.

But Senator Byrd, who had altered his schedule at the last

Air, Sea Units Rush To Aid Of Overturned Boat

Two rescue helicopters and a Coast Guard boat competed yesterday afternoon to help two Vallejo painters whose skiff overturned in surf half a mile off the Bolinas lagoon.

First on the scene was a Coast Guard whirly-bird from the Coast Guard Air Station at San Francisco International Airport. Another aircraft was sent from Hamilton Air Force Base but it turned back on learning all was well, as did the Coast Guard boat Ewing from San Francisco.

Gilbert Skog, 30, and Clifford Vintiss, 33, had been fishing for bass when their boat capsized. In an effort to help, another boat, occupied by Rev. Frank L. Isky, minister of the Bolinas Presbyterian Church, and Tom Blanchard, garage mechanic, also overturned.

All four were plodding in through the surf when the Coast Guard helicopter arrived, sized things up, and set down on the shore sand.

Vintiss was sent off to a nearby house for dry garments. Skog, suffering from shock and exhaustion, was taken aboard the helicopter and flown to a heliport maintained by the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco. Rev. Isky and Blanchard made their own way home.

Skog was kept in the hospital overnight, pronounced in good condition this morning, and was to be sent home today.

Satellite Success Boosts U.S. Stock

He was talking about Transit I-B, America's third successful space experiment in a little over a month.

"We're not completely satisfied," added Brig. Gen. Robert Greer, "because the orbit was not exactly the way we wanted it. But not long ago we would have been glad to get it up at all."

265 POUNDS

The 265-pound navigational satellite was rammed into orbit yesterday morning from Cape Canaveral, Fla., by a Thor-Able-Star rocket. It may pave the way for a network of transit satellites that could give ships, submarines and airplanes accurate position fixes in any weather, day or night, anywhere in the world.

Greer is attached to the office of the assistant Air Force chief of staff for guided missiles. His exuberant reaction to Transit I-B was matched by scientists at Cape Canaveral.

SCIENTISTS PLEASED

"We've been living under the shadow of the Russian sputnik and luniks too long," one said. "Our recent successes should put us back in the sunlight."

Another scientist commented, "Pioneer V, Tiros and Transit (all launched in the last 33 days) are highly advanced space devices. All are functioning with a spectacular degree of reliability and are providing valuable information.

"What strikes me is the amazing scope of the American space program in contrast with the surprising lack of it in the Russian program."

The Soviet Union, he noted, has not launched an earth satellite since Sputnik III on May 15, 1958. The Russians have been concentrating on moon shots and deep space probes.

"The Russians probably will come up with another spectacular launching before long," he added, "perhaps to Mars or maybe the first man in space. But this country has a few aces up its sleeve, too. Don't sell us short."

The Transit satellite, which has important military potentialities, was intended to go into a nearly circular orbit about 500 miles high, and to last for 50 years.

Instead it fell into an orbit varying from a high point of 479 miles to a low of 233 miles from the earth. And it may fall back into the atmosphere in about 16 months.

Still its two radio oscillators are working perfectly and will provide a significant test of the theory that underlies its potential as an all-weather navigational aid. Military sources said an actual fixing of a ship's position may be tried in a few days.

General Greer explained that a slight error in the launching angle apparently led to the elliptical orbit.

South African Negroes Plan New Boycott

COMBINED AP & UPI

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—The outlawed African National Congress has launched an underground move for a new native stay-home protest against South Africa's racial discrimination laws.

Police broke a similar demonstration last week by raiding the native township of Nyanga and beating blacks who refused to go to work.

LEAFLETS FOUND

Leaflets signed by an "emergency committee" of the African National Congress were found in Mofolo, 10 miles north of Johannesburg. They called on Africans to begin a week-long stay-home protest next Monday.

The move was seen as likely to touch off a new round of violence.

The country has been relatively quiet since a white assassin shot and seriously wounded Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd last Saturday.

Both the African National Congress and the Pan Africanist Congress have been outlawed by the government until next April. Most of the top leaders have been jailed.

POLICE STILL BUSY

South Africa's parliament went home today for Easter, but police raiders were as busy as ever.

About 500 so-called subversives are now believed in jail —more than 100 of them whites.

Attempts by opposition leaders in parliament to get details on the condition and fate of the detainees has brought only meager information from the government.

More than 60 Cornell University upper classmen are improving their own grades by tutoring freshmen in mathematics and physics.

Bev's Mother: 'If Only Errol Were Alive'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"If only Errol Flynn were still alive, my little girl wouldn't be in this mess," says the bleached-blonde mother of 17-year-old Beverly Aadland.

The late actor's youthful ex-mistress was described yesterday by juvenile authorities as a $100-a-date call girl who, since the age of 12, had "engaged in numerous acts of sexual intercourse."

Authorities filed a petition seeking to make Beverly a ward of juvenile court. She faces a hearing May 2.

STILL IN CUSTODY

Beverly has been held in custody since William Stanciu, a handsome aspiring actor, was shot fatally in her apartment last Saturday. Homicide detectives say they are satisfied with her story that Stanciu was shot during a nude struggle for his revolver.

"Errol Flynn was a real gentleman," said Florence Aadland, who approved of her daughter's relationship with the dashing actor who died of a heart attack last October at 50.

"It's these young Hollywood men who can get a girl in trouble," Mrs. Aadland said.

"Why, Errol Flynn loved Beverly and she loved him—it was a thing of beauty, real beauty," said Mrs. Aadland, a former showgirl.

OUT OF CHORUS

Flynn picked the girl out of the chorus of a Hollywood musical when she was 15. They traveled about the world together, including a trip to Cuba where they co-starred in a movie produced by Flynn. She was with him when he died in Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Aadland said she is disturbed that at the May hearing Beverly could be placed under court supervision until she turns 18 next Sept. 16.

"This could ruin her night-club career, and just when some really good offers were coming in," Mrs. Aadland said. Beverly has been singing at a Hollywood nightspot.

Groups Join Drive For City Cleanup

Representatives of the Novato Garden Group, 4-H Clubs, community improvement associations and the City of Novato have joined the campaign to "clean-up, paint-up and fix-up" the city during the first week in May.

At a meeting of a committee of the chamber of commerce headed by James Picchi, it was decided various sections of the city will be assigned to the participating groups.

All homeowners in the Novato area will be asked to cooperate in the face-lifting campaign, Picchi said. The next meeting of the committee was set for next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the chamber office in the Patio.

The Garmisch chief of police said he had no information that Steel, former husband of actress Anita Ekberg, might have disappeared while mountain climbing.

Hearing On Jet Noise

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A congressional hearing on airport jet noise will be held next Wednesday at San Francisco Airport, Rep. John F. Shelley (D-San Francisco) said today.

Drug Promotion Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators were told today that some companies use the same advertising techniques to peddle new drugs to physicians that are used to sell new automobiles to the general public.

Dr. Chauncey D. Leake of the Ohio State University Medical School said drug prices could be reduced if manufacturers toned down advertising and promotional campaigns.

Leake made his statements in prepared testimony to the Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly Subcommittee, which is investigating prices and profits in the drug industry.

School Books Censored

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Reports of book censorship at Andrew Hill High School will be investigated, according to school officials here.

The announcement by the Eastside School District came yesterday in the wake of parents' complaints that the novel "Catcher in the Rve" by J. D. Salinger had been removed from the recommended reading list for high school seniors.

It was also learned that protests from one or two parents had resulted in the removal of Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises," Huxley's "Brave New World," Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel" and Saroyan's "Human Comedy."

Race Violence Flares Anew In Two Cities

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Negro home in a white section of Atlanta, Ga., was bombed and a Negro man was shot by white teen-agers in Nashville, Tenn., in fresh outbursts of racial violence in the South last night.

The two incidents shattered an uneasy calm that prevailed over most of the South where Negro college students have been demonstrating against segregated lunch counters.

No one was in the Atlanta house when the dynamite charge went off. A Negro family had moved in furniture and planned to occupy the house in the near future.

However, residents of the all-white neighborhood were reported to be disturbed over the purchase of the home by Negroes. While the family was moving in furniture Tuesday, several white youths pelted the house with rocks.

In Nashville, police searched for five white teen-agers who shot Henry Stewart, 22-year-old Negro, in the arm. Officers said the youths shot Stewart from a speeding car.

CHESSMAN CASE HEADED AGAIN FOR HIGH COURT

U. S. Tribunal To Get Petition For Review Of Appeal Claims

An attack on Caryl Chessman's death sentence will be carried to the U. S. Supreme Court this week for the 16th time in 12 years.

Chessman requested Davis, veteran San Francisco criminal lawyer, to withdraw from the case in a bitter 10-page letter made public yesterday by the state Supreme Court.

Chessman, who has survived nearly 12 years in San Quentin Prison's Death Row and dodged eight previous execution dates, is now scheduled to die May 2. He was condemned for the "Red Light Bandit" kidnaping and sexual abuse of two Los Angeles women in 1948.

A. L. Wirin of Los Angeles, an American Civil Liberties Union counsel, said in New York he expects to petition the U. S. Supreme Court this week for review of appeal claims which California courts have rejected three times in three weeks.

The state Supreme Court brusquely announced the third rejection yesterday of the claims that Chessman's 12 years under death sentence constitute cruel and unusual punishment, and that life imprisonment was the maximum legal sentence for the original charges against him.

The Marin County Superior Court and the state District Court of Appeal previously had turned down the habeas corpus petitions which Chessman declared in his letter he had asked Davis not to file without personally visiting and consulting him at the prison.

Chessman called Davis' representation of him as a "wild roller coaster ride . . . that has continued to get bumpier."

He charged that Davis "disappeared" from the case between February, 1958, and October, 1959, and came back only when the case drew international attention.

Chessman was particularly bitter over Davis' claim that he will name the "real" Red Light Bandit. The condemned man wrote that if he had been willing to turn informer, he "could have avoided ever coming to Death Row."

STATE JOINS IN DELAYING TAX DEADLINE

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Tardy taxpayers note:

You can celebrate Good Friday and Easter without income tax worries.

The state, following the federal government's lead, decided yesterday to give taxpayers an extra three days to file their returns.

State Controller Alan Cranston said the Franchise Tax Board cannot legally extend the April 15 deadline, but won't start tacking on penalties until after midnight Monday, April 18.

He said it would avoid confusion which would result if the state and federal governments had a different deadline and "will permit taxpayers to observe Good Friday and Easter without bothersome worries about tax deadlines."

Marin Census Wrapup Expected By Tuesday

Marin County census enumerators hadn't cleaned up their work today as hoped. Latest hope is that next Tuesday will see the windup of the main job.

This word was obtained from census district headquarters in Santa Rosa by Mrs. J. Lee Chaille, crew leader for San Rafael.

"We're ferreting people out of nooks and crannies," said Mrs. Chaille. "It's the most complete census ever taken, as is shown by the fact that in Marin County several adults have been found who never were counted before."

One of the biggest sources of bother, Mrs. Chaille reported, has been failure of people to call back by phone in response to special slips left at home when the occupants were out.

She urged that anybody finding a slip lose no time in phoning to the enumerator in order to complete the census work in Marin as speedily as possible.

HEARING

But he added that the park should not be justified "on the basis of a dollar and cents benefit to anyone. . . . The real need is to preserve the area."

Marin County Supervisor Vera Schultz took the stand to express her stand "as an individual." All members of the board of supervisors were in the audience, although Supervisor William D. Fusselman sat just outside the door of the hearing room.

Mrs. Schultz said the board "has itself taken no official position" pending receipt of the completed land use and feasibility study being made by the National Park Service.

She said the people of Marin "desire to protect, as they share, this unique natural environment." But she warned the committee that the county must "safeguard its economic position (from) immediate tax loss," and that the federal government "should recognize its obligation to provide all services, such as fire and police protection, roads, and other services which would be required."

Opposition to the project, came from Supervisor James Marshall, in whose district the park is located.

Speaking "as a private citizen for myself and for the people whose very lives would be affected," Marshall declared, "I feel very strongly about the government taking over the ranches." He said the proposed leasing of the ranches back to the present owners "would not be satisfactory."

The supervisor, himself a rancher about five miles from the park boundaries, said the government should "seriously consider the scenic easement principle of preserving the ranches in private ownership."

However, he declared that if the "best interests" of the ranchers can be protected, he is "positive most of the opposition will disappear."

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel presented a detailed analysis of what effect the park would have on the county's tax revenues. He said if the ranch area were leased back to the ranchers and if the public utilities were retained, the county would "suffer a reduction of .58 of 1 per cent" of the county tax base. However, it would be a loss of 25 per cent of the tax base of the West Marin Union School District, 14 per cent of the Tomales Union High School District, 10 per cent of the Pt. Reyes School District and 9 per cent of the Bolinas School District.

The assessor said that if all 53,000 acres were removed from the tax rolls, an owner of a $25,000 home in San Rafael would have to pay an extra $2.02 per year. But the added tax for such an owner in West Marin School District would be $138.96, and the Pt. Reyes School District would be wiped out.

However, if the ranch lands were leased back to the ranchers and the public utilities retained, the total tax loss to the San Rafael householder would be 79 cents; $7.52 in Bolinas; $8.86 in Tomales; $40.77 in West Marin, and $13.25 in Pt. Reyes School District.

Broemmel said he would not estimate, "because of too many unknown factors," what additional revenue would accrue from services provided to visitors to the park.

Sen. Clair M. Engle (D-Red Bluff) brought applause from the audience when he stated he believes "that local people and tax agencies should not be required to carry the full burden" of an area of national importance. He suggested federal in-lieu payments as long as the local governments were suffering a loss from such a project, but no longer.

Broemmel said he thought "it was a sound idea."

William F. Upton, chairman of the Marin County Planning Commission, read a statement from the commission and presented supporting data, but said the commissioners "prefer to withhold judgment and preference . . . until more complete and reliable studies are available to us."

California's other senator, Thomas H. Kuchel, sent a statement in which he urged preservation of the area as "a desireable addition to the safeguarded and cherished portions of our state which lure both visitors and those who would make their homes here."

Representative Clement W. Miller (D-Corte Madera) asked whether Upton thought the county planning commission could control development of the Pt. Reyes Peninsula if it remained in private hands. Upton expressed doubt that this could be done. The planning commission said he supported Senator Engle's proposal that an interim in-lieu tax be paid the county until restaurants, motels, etc., developed to serve the park visitors.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) urged that rights of ways for highways be reserved in any Pt. Reyes development.

A telegram from Will Rogers Jr., newly appointed chairman of the state Park Commission, was read, declaring "we in California are desperately anxious to preserve the Pt. Reyes shoreline."

Supervisor Leigh Shoemaker of Sonoma County said, "Never in my life have I been so much impressed with what I saw" as he was on the tour of the peninsula yesterday. He supported Supervisor Marshall's feeling that dairy ranching should be retained, but said "we have a moral responsibility to look out for future generations."

Ernest Schallinger, chairman of the citizens' committee for development of Marin County, read a resolution recommending the park.

James Fletcher, chairman of the county parks and recreation commission, also read a resolution urging preservation "but only if a study does not show an economic liability."

Charles DeTurk, chief of the state Division of Beaches and Parks, read a statement from Gov. Edmund G. Brown declaring the state "is determined the Pt. Reyes seashore not become part of a vanishing shoreline."

DeTurk added that there is a public need for this land "and that need should dominate all discussion."

Robert D. Calkins of the state Fish and Game Department said his department is interested in the area only so far as fish and wildlife are maintained for future generations.

Richard M. Leonard, a director of the Wilderness Society of Washington, D.C., asserted the area needs to be protected and preserved.

Mrs. Ralph Revnolds, representing the California Roadside Council, said if the whole area cannot be purchased outright, "at least there should be acquired scenic easements."

Douglas S. Hertz, president of the Bolema Club and secretary of the Pt. Reyes Land and Development Co., which owns 415 acres atop Inverness Ridge, and secretary of Bolema Palisades, Inc., which owns 1,100 acres from the ridge to the ocean, spoke at length against the park proposal.

"Let me eliminate certain confusion in the minds of various organizations," said Hertz, ". . . as to the difference between acquisition for conservation and for recreation." Much of the acreage, he said, is inaccessible and thus would have no value to the public. Hunters in the Bolema Club have great difficulty "fighting their way through intense chaparral growth," he claimed.

Based on recent purchases, the cost of acquisition "is worth like 50 million dollars" than the $6,500,000 mentioned, Hertz claimed.

"Here is an impending boondoggle of immense proportions, developing right in our own back yard, at a frivolous, ill-conceived waste of our own money," he declared.

Alvin McCabe Dies At Home Of Gunshot

Alvin T. McCabe, 50, a retired railroad worker and former deputy sheriff, was found dead this morning in the back yard of his home at 1113 Fourth street, Novato.

Mrs. Yolanda McCabe called the sheriff's office to report she had found the body of her husband about 6 a.m. A .22 caliber single-shot rifle was beside him. He had been shot over the right ear.

Deputy Coroner Charles H. Johnson said death was self-inflicted.

McCabe in recent years had worked as a part-time bartender. His latest place of employment was De Borba's Inn in Novato.

Notes addressed to his wife and Coroner Frank J. Keaton told of poor health and indebtedness. The note to Keaton said: "I have been sick for some time, but wouldn't give up until now. I have too many bills facing me and no way to take care of them."

Other survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Royal Johnston of San Francisco and Mrs. Maria Tumelty of Walnut Creek, and three grandchildren.

CENSUS CONTEST ENTRIES SENT IN FROM ALL CITIES BUT ROSS

Residents of every Marin city except Ross have some definite ideas of what the census will show for population of their home towns.

But on one in Ross — up to today — has hazarded a guess in the Independent-Journal's census contest as to how many people will be shown there by the federal census now under way.

One entrant even gave an estimate for a non-existent city: Kentfield. Since it is unincorporated, Kentfield will not be reported separately when the U. S. Bureau of the Census announces city populations some time next month.

There's still plenty of time for Ross residents—and others—to submit their estimates in the census contest. Closing date is next Wednesday.

There are prizes of $100 for the nearest-to-correct guess of the total county population, $25 for the nearest-to-correct guess in each city, and $25 for the closest estimate of the Independent-Journal's paid circulation on April 30.

Boys Admit Taking Radios

Two 12-year-old boys admitted to Mill Valley police yesterday having taken 13 transistor radios worth $650 from Brown's Home Furnishers at 38 Miller avenue Monday night.

They also admitted entering the store April 6 and taking two repeater B-B guns.

The youngsters were cited to juvenile authorities.

One boy told the officers he took the guns, wrapped up, to school one day and asked his teacher to keep them in the closet for the day, saying they were an experiment.

High bidder was Parish Brothers, Inc., at $2,376,836.80.

It is expected that work will start May 1, to be finished by Mid-October to impound up to 7.5 billion gallons of water, said Seeger. Capacity of the now largest reservoir, Kent Lake, is 5.5 billion gallons. The new lake will be five miles north of Nicasio.

The board also approved application of the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce to hold its annual fish derby in Phoenix Lake on May 7. About 600 to 700 youngsters are expected.

It was decided that the 1960 fishing program on the five lakes of the district will be the same as last year, entailing a permit for $3 additional to the usual state license. Trout fishermen may cast their lines every day but Sundays, holidays included.

The board approved plans and specifications for North Marin balancing tanks excavation on the Smith ranch by White's Hill, and bids are to be received April 27.

ket value of the land, and would not be enough to buy the property at public auction.

The GSA is willing to let the Ft. Cronkhite land go at a discount to the state, Phillips said, and added, "We don't feel we are interfering a great deal with the state park plans by putting the Baker land up for sale to subdividers."

He said that under the law, the services administration required to dispose of surplus land in a manner that will bring the best value and use.

"The Ft. Baker land is ideally suited for a real estate development," Phillips said. "It would be developed into a one-family residential or multiple residential area."

Officials of the state Division of Beach and Parks, however, are unhappy about the announcement. Calling the Golden Gate a place of "history and romance," they plan to push for state development.

One official has stated the state has second call on the land after federal agencies.

"We have no obligation to offer the land in such a manner," Phillips commented.

dioed for an ambulance and firemen. San Rafael firemen applied a resuscitator, and the ambulance rushed the victim to Marin General Hospital. She was pronounced dead on arrival there.

No one saw the girl fall into the lake. However, Tony Loftin, 14, of House 3, San Quentin Village, told officers he heard a splash. He said he was sitting on the other side of the lake.

He noticed the two women lying by the lake. He had seen the little girl between them, but, after the splash, she was gone. But Tony thought the splash might have been caused by a rock thrown into the water.

About 20 minutes later, the boy said, the women got up and began looking for the youngster.

The girl's father, Arthur Joseph Dorigo, is division manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co. in San Francisco. The family moved from San Francisco to Larkspur about two and one-half years ago.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Valente, Marini, Perata and Co. in San Francisco.

John Bargalotti Final Rites Held

Private funeral services for John Bargalotti, who died Tuesday at a local hospital, were held today at Keaton's Mortuary.

Bargalotti, 75, was a Northwestern Pacific Railroad freight clerk at the San Anselmo depot for 40 years. He retired in 1950.

He had lived at the Burchard Apartments, 1330 Fourth street, San Rafael. He was a native Californian.

He is survived by a brother, Louis of San Rafael, and a sister, Rosaland Vallier of San Francisco.

Thomas Shea, 77, Dies In Hospital

Thomas J. Shea, 77, a Novato resident for 17 years, died this morning at a local hospital. He had resided at 865 Atherton avenue.

Shea was born in San Francisco Dec. 21, 1882. He was a sheet metal worker until his retirement some years ago.

He is survived by a sister-in-law, Marie Shea of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the W. C. Lasswell funeral home, 6154 Mission street, Daly City. Burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.

Funeral Held For Marinite's Brother

Funeral services for Burton Fay, brother of Earl Fay of Belvedere, were held yesterday at Santa Rosa Memorial Park, Santa Rosa. Burton Fay died Saturday in a Santa Rosa hospital after a month's illness.

He was 71 and a native of Eureka. He had lived in Santa Rosa for six years and was a retired lumberman.

Besides his brother Earl, who is a printer for the San Francisco Shopping News, he is survived by his wife, Gussie Fay of Santa Rosa; a son, Donald Fay of Arcata, Humboldt County; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Jarett of Santa Rosa, and Mrs. Betty Jane Bloom of San Francisco; another brother, Russ Fay of San Leandro, Alameda County; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

'DON'T CALL ME HONEY'

Juanita Battles For Her Liquor License

Juanita Lois Musson,. 34, wearing a black muu muu and a cheerful smile, took the stand in San Rafael City Hall yesterday to fight for the right to continue serving beer at Juanita's Gallery in Sausalito.

She was called before the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, which alleges that she is unfit to have a liquor license because of her arrests for drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

Henry Long, supervising agent for beverage control agency, told hearing officer Ivores Dains that the hefty divorcee had six convictions between October of 1957 and December of 1959.

Before she launched into her loquacious defense, Juanita shook a water jug on the table before the hearing officer. "Is there any water in these jugs? I'm gonna need a shot before I start."

After gulping a cup of water, she spoke for a half hour, alternately defending her moral character and attacking Sausalito police officers, who, she said, "are out to get me."

In July of 1958, she was arrested for drunkenness. The arresting officer was George Alberigi.

"The minute he lays a hand on me, I go berserk," Juanita declared: "I'll wrestle Alberigi any time!"

"This has nothing to do with the case," Long objected.

"It certainly does," Juanita shot back. "Anytime anyone twists your arm and throws you down, honey, you'd resist too."

"Don't refer to me as honey," Long admonished.

The hearing officer said he was giving Juanita plenty of leeway because she did not have a lawyer with her.

"Give me plenty of rope and I'll hang myself," Juanita chuckled as she fingered her necklace.

She then thanked the hearing officer for letting her have her say, greeted Officer Alberigi and Chief Howard Goerndt, and ambled out of the hearing room.

Dains took the case under submission. A decision will come from Sacramento later.

Drake High Senior To Compete In Speaking Contest

The winner of this annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth contest will go on the 11th annual tour to the East.

The regional contest will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Odd Fellows Hall, in Sacramento.

Boys Slightly Hurt As Car Overturns

Three Novato youths in a 1931 coupe suffered cuts and bruises in a skid and overturn Tuesday on Highway 101 about 600 feet south of Lincoln avenue overpass in San Rafael. They were not hospitalized.

Robert Lewis Cook, 17, of 845 Wilmac drive, told the California Highway Patrol he was southbound in the outside lane about 45 to 50 miles an hour when the car drifted off to the shoulder and capsized. With him were Donald Cook, 16, of the same address, and Guy Sandel, 16, of 55 Hillside terrace.

Judge Fines Salesman For Drunken Driving

Clarence Gilbert Hughes, 53, of 4985 Ranch road, Corte Madera, must pay a $150 fine and remain on probation six months for his first drunken driving offense.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court sentenced Hughes, a salesman, yesterday for driving while intoxicated on Highway 101 on April 4.

THREE TICKETS ENOUGH, POLITE PEN PAL INFORMS METER MAID

San Rafael's efficient meter maids are accustomed to all kinds of excuses and outrageous outbursts from traffic violators. But this one took Meter Maid Edith Weldon by complete surprise yesterday.

She had issued three pink tags on a dilapidated model A Ford on Fourth street because it had no license plate in front.

But the owner of the car is apparently a gentleman more polished than the broken down relic he owns. In place of the front license plate was a large blue card with this polite note:

"To my 'favorite' meter-maiden. Dear Miss (?) Weldon. In reply to the correspondence which you seem to have started through your last three letters, I am writing this note. I have taken your past suggestions (in the form of pink notes) to heart and I am now in the process of obtaining a new license plate. Since I have a limited buget, I will not be able to get the license plate until tomorrow. Please accept this humble substitute. Your pen pal, BYS 272."

His Honor's Now A Grandfather

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court became a grandfather Tuesday night.

His daughter, Joan Fennone, gave birth to a seven-pound eight-ounce boy at Providence Hospital in Oakland. Mrs. Fennone's husband, Thomas, is an Oakland attorney.

April 12 is getting to be a memorable date for Judge and Mrs. Haley. Their first daughter, Patricia, was born on April 12, 1934. Now they have become grandparents for the first time on April 12, 1960.

California Druids Denounce Britisher's Chessman Plea

California Druids don't want anything to do with James Christian Duncan, 72, a Britisher who wants Gov. Edmund G. Brown to spare the life of convict Caryl Chessman.

Duncan recently wrote Brown that he plans to march to San Quentin Prison in his white robes to plead for the convict's life. He asked Brown to accept him as "the oldest member of the Druid order."

Today, John R. Flor of Larkspur, noble grand arch, announced that the advisory board of the United Ancient Order of Druids of California will have no part of Duncan.

In a lengthy resolution sent to Brown, Duncan and several newspapers, the advisory board said Duncan's action "is abhorrent to our Druidic principles" and that his assertion he represents Druids is "without foundation."

The resolution also says the California Druids maintain "a position of non-intervention on questions of a religious or political nature or on questions concerning legislative enactments as defined by the Penal Code of California."

DURANTE PUTS HIS SCHNOZZLE TO WORK

Comedian Jimmy Durante had a big advantage as he and 5-year-old Eve Gardner of Old Bethpage, Long Island, engaged in an impromptu egg-pushing contest with their noses during an Easter egg coloring party yesterday at New York's St. Moritz Hotel. The colored eggs will be distributed Sunday to children staying in the hotel. (AP Wirephoto)

Castro-Led Forces Battle With Rebels In Mountains

HAVANA (AP)—Rumors persisted today of small clashes in the mountains of eastern Cuba between insurgent bands and armed peasants and troops reportedly led by Fidel Castro and his army commander.

Official sources in Havana remained silent on the rebel hunt. But Castro appeared to be making a personal effort to track down insurgent leader Manuel Beaton, a former captain in Castro's revolutionary army who reportedly took to the mountains with 50 anti-Castro guerrillas.

A government official in Santiago, capital of Oriente Province, reported that Castro-led forces combing the Sierra Maestra captured Beaton's second-in-command and two other guerrillas.

Maj. Rene Vallejo Ortiz, chief of the Agrarian Reform Institute in Oriente, said Castro has been directing troops and peasant militia since Monday.

Sewer Board Approves Pumphouse Remodeling

The job of remodeling the pumphouse of the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District has received final approval of the board members. It is expected to cost $6,000.

Board chairman Bruce J. Gillette said the approval was given at last night's meeting and that work on the pumphouse, on Bell lane, will commence right away.

The Russian alphabet is largely made up of what were originally Roman, Greek and Hebrew letters.

TWO NEW PRODUCTIONS

San Francisco Opera Plans Its 1960 Season

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Opera Company announced today it will present, for the first time in its history, Bellini's "La Sonnambula" and Berg's "Wozzeck" during its 1960 season.

The company has also scheduled revivals of Puccini's "La Fanciulla del West," and Wagner's "Lohengrin."

Other operas in the repertoire include "Die Frau Ohme Schatten," "Aida," "Simon Boccanegra," "Der Rosenkavalier," "Carmen" and "Cosi Fan Tutte."

The season will begin in San Francisco Sept. 16 with "Tosca." Performances of "Carmen" will be presented in Berkeley on Oct. 16 and in Sacramento on Oct. 23.

The company travels to Los Angeles Oct. 28 for a series of 18 performances, including "Madame Butterfly." Three operas will be presented in San Diego on Nov. 3, 10 and 17.

Singers making their San Francisco Opera debuts will be sopranos Anna Moff and Doris Yarick, mezzo-soprano Janis Martin, contralto Jean Madeira, tenor Ticho Parly; baritone Ned Romero, bass-baritones Robert Anderson and James Standard, and basses Kurt Boehme and Andrew Foldi.

Those returning after an absence include sopranos Brenda Lewis, Leonie Rysanek, Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Sylvia Stahlman, and Renata Tebaldi; baritone Tito Gobbi; and bass Richard Wentworth.

Returning from last season will be sopranos Mary Costa, Sena Jurinac, Dorothy Kirsten, and Marianne Schech; mezzo-sopranos Margot Blum, Irene Dalis, and Katherine Hilgenberg; tenors Howard Fried, Richard Lewis, Raymond Manton, Jon Vickers, and Giuseppe Zampieri; baritones Geraint Evans, Colin Harvey, Paul Schoeffler, Robert Weede, and Mario Zanasi; and basses Lorenzo Alvary, Salvatore Baccaloni, and Giorgio Tozzi.

Conductors listed are Kurt Herbert Adler, Leopold Ludwig, Francesco Molinari-Pradelli, and Silvio Varviso. Paul Hager and Dino Yannopoulos will share stage director responsibilities.

Sausalito Would Keep Playground

Vestrymen from Christ Church, Episcopal, Sausalito planning commissioners and members of audience, agreed last night that part of the present playground leased by the church to the city should be saved for Sausalito children.

The church plans to build a parish hall on its property on the site of the present tennis court, located across San Carlos avenue from the church. Adjoining the court is the present playground. In asking for a use permit at last night's planning commission meeting, the church had in its plans parking for 21 cars on the site of the playground. The number required for offstret parking is five.

The commission approved unanimously the permit to build the parish hall, contingent on determination by the city attorney that it is a permitted use.

A woman from the audience made a plea that the playground be saved since it is one of the few flat, well-protected and fenced areas where children can play.

Francis Constable, Sausalito architect of the parish hall, spoke for the vestrymen, saying, "This area could continue to be used as a playground." He said the entire area could be used as long as the church could have access.

Cyril G. Hansen, chairman of the church building committee, said arrangements could be made for the city to lease "at least a portion on somewhat the same terms we have now." He said it could be on a self-perpetuating lease on a 90-day termination clause.

Commissioner Carl G. Wooley said he was strongly in favor of retaining the playground and the other commissioners concurred.

The commission also:

1. Approved variance and a use permit for Lang Construction Co. to construct four apartment buildings on one lot at Sacramento avenue and Highway 101 service road.
2. Approved an application of Rob Rose to split two lots on Toyon lane, each having more than 8,000 square feet.
3. Held an informal discussion on proposed rezoning of land belonging to Roger Heiser, located between Hecht avenue and Sausalito boulevard, and set a public hearing for May 11. Heiser showed a model and plans of two apartment houses he plans to build with a total of 64 units, having three stories and roof deck parking. The area is zoned for duplexes.

Writer Protests Letter Quotations

Charles V. Snyder of 41 Westbrae drive, Fairfax, complained today that his letter to the Fairfax City Council protesting about dogs running loose was not quoted correctly in Tuesday's Independent-Journal.

A check with the original letter showed that Snyder did not write, as he was quoted, "Some law must be made." Instead, he wrote, "Some action will be expected!"

He did not write, "My neighbors loose their dogs on my property after I go to sleep, but that "they turn the dogs loose during the night when every one is supposedly asleep."

He did not write, "After complaining to one dog owner for the fifth time he threatened me with a gun." Instead, he wrote, "One owner even threatened to shoot me on my fifth complaint to him."

The inaccurate quotations, which were jotted down by a reporter during reading of the letter at the city council meeting, "twisted" his comments, Snyder complained.

In Ireland you can rent a horse-drawn, gypsy-type wagon to wander through country lanes away from the highways for $37.80 a week. The wagons, equipped with stove and refrigerator, have berths to sleep four.

SHE'S THE PRINCESS—Peggy Anne Perry, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Perry of 967 San Antonio road, Petaluma, has been named District 3 Dairy Princess competition to be sponsored by the American Dairy Assn. of California April 28 through May 1 at Los Banos.

Logger To Plead To Morals Charges

A 38-year-old logger who lives on a 110-foot boat at Gate 4 in Sausalito appeared in Marin court yesterday on charges of statutory rape and perversion involving a 15-year-old girl.

Daniel Elwin Huff won a continuance until April 22, when he will plead to the charges. He is currently free on $2,625 bail, and is represented by attorney Joseph A. DeGioia of Mountain View.

Sausalito Police Chief Howard Goerndt and Inspector Donald E. Midyett of the Marin County district attorney's office arrested Huff Tuesday. The logger is accused of committing the crimes on March 20 and 27 on the houseboat. He is married and the father of four children.

The girl said she was forced by Huff to submit to indignities under threat of violence.

Young Animal Lover Wins Scholarship

A Marin County teen-ager who loves animals so much she rides a bicycle 10 miles each day from her home to feed them has won a $300 scholarship award at the 1960 Junior Grand National Junior Livestock Show.

The money, from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, yesterday was awarded to Lauren Sievers, 19, of Lagunitas. The livestock show closed yesterday.

Miss Sievers, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, will use the money to further her education next September at Chico State College. She has attended San Francisco State College for a year and now has a part-time sales job and does typing to get enough money to go back to school.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Sievers. Her father is a merchant mariner with American President Lines.

Mrs. Sievers said, "We live out here on a steep hillside under some trees, and the kids have to go 10 miles round trip by bicycle to Woodacre every day to feed their animals."

Miss Sievers won her scholarship on her 4-H Club record book and an interview. She exhibited a fat lamb and a Jersey calf at the livestock show.

Bar Owners Deny Illegal Beer Sale

Operators of Jim's Tavern in Larkspur vigorously denied yesterday that they had ever sold beer to minors, at a hearing before the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

Liquor officials accuse James M. and Phyllis Vercillino, the owners, of selling beer to an 18-year-old youth on Sept. 2, 1959. The Vercillinos denied the youth ever came to their tavern.

The hearing was held in San Rafael City Hall.

NOT IN THE TUNNEL — Dr. Barbara Moore, the British hiker who plans to cross the United States in 60 days, consults a map and Highway Patrolman Wallace Erskine on how to get through Sausalito. She could not use a tunnel on the Waldo grade because it is only for cars. (AP Wirephoto)

Woman Walker Heads For Sacramento Stop Tonight

By DONALD G. DAVIS

A woman vegetarian today swung off on her second day of her hike across the United States.

Dr. Barbara Moore, who performed all sorts of walking feats in Britain before setting out to tackle the United States, left Sonoma this morning after tramping across Marin yesterday.

She flashed through Vallejo after taking for breakfast no more than orange juice and a banana. She said she will be in Sacramento by nightfall.

With Dr. Moore it isn't a case of planning to be at such and such a place, or thinking maybe she would be there. With Dr. Moore it is will, will, will.

The determined 56-year-old, slightly built woman is not just trying to prove she can walk. There is more at stake.

"You can arrest senility," she said. "I've done it. I can have a baby. I can have one at 100. It's just theory when you talk about it and I'm walking to prove it."

Yesterday in Marin, she said she was too busy to talk, and left an Independent-Journal reporter and photographer in a cloud of dust, whizzed up the highway and sat down to chomp on an apple in comparative privacy.

Without slowing her pace, Dr. Moore huffed and puffed about her troubles. She had been detoured from Highway 101 on her walk north and south and had to walk through Sausalito instead of the Waldo Tunnel. The tunnel, she was told by California Highway Patrolmen, is for cars only.

She had been reported as someone miffed about the three-mile detour, but Capt. Theodore F. Parnow of the San Rafael office of the CHP said he had been told she was perfectly lovely about it.

By the time she reached San Rafael she was hungry. Someone, to whom she had entrusted her money, passport and food, had forsaken her, at least temporarily. She said something about a car "coming to meet me, but they just haven't come along."

"I've no time to talk. I've got to make Route 40," she said briskly.

She made Sonoma last night and left at 6 a.m. today without saying goodbye to her host. Only the barking of four dogs in the yard announced her departure.

Sometime after she left Marin, she apparently made contact with the car. Because this morning she was carrying a leather toilet article kit and complaining that a second expected car from New York had not arrived.

A five-foot seven-inch woman, weighing 133 pounds, the doctor makes an unsual sight as she pounds the pavement dressed in black jacket, slacks and red and white polka-dot scarf.

Russian-born Dr. Moore also is in pursuit of Mervyn Evans and Patrick Maloney, two British Royal Air Force sergeants who set forth on a similar cross-country walk Tuesday. The servicemen stayed in Sacramento last night.

Said Dr. Moore, "I'll beat them, no matter what."

NO BLISTERS — Mervyn Evans (left) and Patrick Maloney of the Royal Air Force rest in Sacramento where they spent last night at the end of their second day of a projected hike across the United States. They are a day ahead of Dr. Barbara Moore. She says she will catch them. They say they aren't competing. (AP Wirephoto)

Administration Plea For New Jobs Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration requests for more than 1,200 new government jobs were denied today by the House Appropriations Committee in an $8,142,223,900 omnibus money bill for the year starting July 1.

The proposed new jobs would have been scattered through more than a score of miscellaneous agencies whose appropriations are covered in the bills.

REQUESTS TRIMMED

New funds approved were $270,729,600 less than President Eisenhower had requested but were $1,108,360,200 more than the same agencies were given for the current year ending June 30.

Included were funds for a pension for Eisenhower starting next year, $5,322,902,000 for the Veterans Administration, 60 million dollars for airline subsidies, 150 million dollars for slum clearance and urban renewal grants, five million dollars to start an experimental program on housing for needy elderly persons, and $144,836,000 for public building construction in 20 cities.

PRESIDENT'S PENSION

The President's pension is provided under a law which now applies to Herbert Hoover, Harry S. Truman and the widows of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Eisenhower had requested funds for about 8,200 new jobs in the various agencies, the biggest increases being 5,025 for the Federal Aviation Agency and 1,300 for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The committee cut 907 from the aviation agency and 373 from the space agency requests.

HAREM SCARE 'IM

Young Gorilla Leaves Two Brides At Altar

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—It was supposed to be Terrible Tim's wedding night but he turned timormous Tim at the sight of the brides-to-be. Weeping and wailing Tim fled back home to "mama."

After all, it's asking a lot of a fellow to cut the apron strings when he's just 13 months old. A gorilla couldn't do it. And that's what Terrible Tim is.

This thing all started last June when a Kansas City veterinarian, Dr. Deets Pickett, captured Tim and two females in Africa. The girls, Jeannie, now 22 months old, and Katie, 25 months, were shipped straight to the Kansas City Zoo.

Tim was a puny 5-pounder at the time, so Dr. and Mrs. Pickett took him into their home temporarily.

Tim responded to the Picketts' tender care, gaining 17 pounds in 10 months.

Still, when the Picketts took Tim to the zoo last week he found himself grossly overmatched. Jeannie weighs 38 pounds now and Katie, at 45 pounds, is a muscular frump.

"We didn't realize until we got him at the zoo that he was just a baby," Zoo Director William T. A. Cully told the City Park Board last night.

Cully decided to leave Tim in the cage overnight, hoping he would adjust. But soon an attendant was on the telephone pleading for help. Tim was crying and having one temper tantrum after another.

"I brought him home with me but he wouldn't eat," Cully said. "He just ran all around the house, leaping over furniture and squalling."

What's obvious, said Cully, is that Tim needs loving attention all the time and no ape can handle the job. So Tim is back home with Mrs. Pickett and he is doing very nicely, thank you.

Dr. Pickett suggested to the board that the zoo provide Tim with human companions 24 hours a day until Tim pulls himself together and faces life like an ape.

Bike Riders Hit By Cars

Two small boys came to grief on bikes hit by autos in separate accidents yesterday afternoon.

Both were in "good condition" in Marin General Hospital today.

Charles B. Langlais, 6, suffered a broken leg when he pedaled out of a private drive at 375 Summit drive, San Rafael, near his home at 275 Summit drive. Sue Schall, 31, of 1436 Lincoln avenue, was driving east at an estimated 30 miles an hour in the car which struck him.

Michael J. Clifford, 7, of 25 Alta Mira court, Kentfield, was struck at the intersection of Toussin street and Geary avenue in Kentfield by a car driven by John F. Allen Jr., 51, of Corvallis, Ore. The car was almost halted at the time of impact and the child's injuries were minor.

Rating System Explained To Novato Fire Commissioners

Further discussion of Novato's proposed fire alarm system was held last night by fire district commissioners, with Fred Kaiser, representative of the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau, present to explain the bureau's rating system.

The proposed alarm system, which would raise the department's rating with the underwriters' bureau, would place 19 alarm boxes throughout Novato's downtown district and at each school in the district.

No cost estimate for the system has been given and it will probably be six months before a decision on the installation is reached, said Fire Chief George J. Cavallero.

Votes from the recent fire commission election which returned Commissioner Peter J. Ferrarese to office were canvassed. Two absentee ballots brought Ferrarese's total vote to 249. His opponent, California Highway Patrolman Keith C. Craig, received 114 votes.

Ferrarese will be sworn in for his new term by the Marin County court clerk prior to the commission's next meeting April 27, at which time the new board will be organized.

Corte Madera Fire Budget Approved

Corte Madera volunteer firemen last night approved a tentative 1960-61 budget of about $17,000, including some $6,000 worth of capital improvements.

The proposed improvements include installation of five additional hydrants in the town and such additions to the fire trucks as installation of a three-way radio and power steering. Capital improvement funds come from the local sales tax.

About $11,000 of the tentative budget is earmarked for operating expenses.

YMCA Members Slate Car Wash

Marin County YMCA clubs have started a fund drive to help build up the YMCA in Indonesia.

As part of a world service drive, each club has promised to donate $20. The county pledge is $800. In order to raise the funds one of the clubs will wash cars at a dollar each at the Union Gas Station at Second and Lincoln in San Rafael from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow.

Members will pick up cars. Anyone interested may call Paul A. Miller at 138 Mission avenue, San Rafael.

The Connecticut Safety Commission reported that during the past five years four out of every five pedestrians killed by a motor vehicle were men.

EVEN TEMPER EARMARK OF SAFE DRIVER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Want to know if you're a safe driver?

You probably are if you're politically conservative, have moderate habits, intellectual interests, a happy home life, a tolerance toward your fellow man and an even temper.

So says Dr. Frederick L. McGuire. He told the Western Safety Congress those are some hallmarks of the safe driver.

Hundreds Hit Closing Of HAFB Flats

About 500 postcards and 28 letters have been received by the Army Engineers protesting the proposed closing of Hamilton Air Force Base tide flats to fishing to provide a safety zone for firing practice, the district engineer's office in San Francisco reported today.

Col. John S. Harnett, district engineer, said efforts will be made to find a solution mutually acceptable to the Air Force and the protestants. If that fails, a hearing on the application will be scheduled, he said, but it will be at least 30 days before any hearing is held.

PROTESTS

Among those protesting by letter, said Colonel Harnett, were the state Department of Fish and Game, state Division of Small Craft Harbors, state Land Commission, Marin Rod and Gun Club and Associated Sportsmen and Wildlife Inc. As today was the final day for protests, others might be received in late mails, the district engineer noted.

A compromise appeared possible following a meeting yesterday betwen representatives of the Air Force and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

CLUB MEETING

Paul Ware, rod and gun club secretary, announced Hamilton representatives would attend the club meeting tomorrow night at the Pt. San Quentin clubhouse and answer questions from the membership regarding the Air Force's application to close the area behind the base rifle range to boat traffic.

The area in question is a two-and-one-half mile stretch of water and mud flats in San Pablo Bay.

TOUR AREA

Rod and gun club representatives were shown the range and other base installations yesterday by Col. Estes Sherrill, wing director of operations, and his assistant, Capt. Kenneth H. Kronlund.

Colonel Sherrill said the Air Force is willing to suspend operations of the rifle range during the peak of the bass fishing season and offered the range for the use of civilian riflemen.

minute to make the flight, stayed with the helicopters for a return to the San Francisco air. port. He was scheduled to fly out of the airport later in the afternoon for Yosemite Park.

Before he left, Senator Byrd, often called the guardian of the Senate's purse strings, declared: "I was very much impressed with what I saw of Pt. Reyes. If it comes up in the Senate, I've seen it and will be able to say something about it. The hardest thing will be to get it up before the Senate."

Nature continued to put on a show for the visitors. Not only were the wildflowers in bloom and the grasses and trees green as the cars drove from the ranch toward the ocean, but the animals cooperated as well.

Several deer were spotted. An obliging bobcat raced along just ahead of the senator's car. Then the caravan stopped quickly and members grabbed for their cameras. A six-foot mountain lion was stalking something through the grass along the hillside, not 100 yards from the cars. But he was startled by the arrival of man, and turned and loped into the safety of the underbrush before a single shutter could click.

The cars stopped at the U ranch of the Bear Valley spread and all except the drivers walked along the beach about half a mile, then cut back through the fields to the cars. Senator Moss picked a wild strawberry (too green to eat) and examined the wildflowers and other plants.

The party included all of the Marin County Board of Supervisors except William Fusselman; Planning Director Mary Summers, who flew in from Los Angeles and just had time to change into a pair of trousers (no skirts allowed on a helicopter); Sonoma County Supervisor Leigh Shoemaker, and Lawrence C. Merriam and George L. Collins, regional director and planner respectively for the National Park Service, plus staff members of the Senate committee and the park service.

They went to the West Marin schoolhouse at Point Reyes Station to see a motion picture of the proposed park, prepared by the Sierra Club, then went to Inverness Lodge for a dinner hosted by the county supervisors.

In brief speech after being introduced by Chairman Walter R. Castro, Senator Moss called Pt. Reyes "One of the most beautiful and varied of the seacoast areas I've ever seen." The senator is chairman of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Subcommittee on Public Lands.

Representative Miller said he is "devoted to the area" but that he would "listen to the evidence" in today's hearing. "If the results are favorable, I will go all out for it; if not, I won't press further. However, I believe that the salvation of the area will be such a park, but I won't stand for anything that doesn't safeguard the ranchers."

Wirth was more positive. "I've seen this area before, as long as 25 years ago, and my opinion has not changed. We will submit a factual presentation to the committee, but admittedly we're biased. We believe in parks; we're in favor of Pt. Reyes, and we'll recommend its establishment," he said.

Then the party broke up to get some rest in preparation for today's public hearing on the proposal.

West Marin Lions Choose Officers

Novato Jaycee Election

Youths Lose In 'Game' With Officer

Three juveniles fram Sausalito played hide and seek with a Mill Valley police officer last night in their trimmed-down Model A Ford and turned out to be the losers in the game.

William Walsh was patroling on Throckmorton avenue in the business district at 8:45 p.m. when he saw three young men in a Model A Ford which had no fenders, improper tail lights and no license plate light. When he drove toward the car, the driver turned on West Blithedale avenue to escape. Walsh said he followed but the car sped away from him at speeds of 50 and 60 miles per hour in the residential section.

Walsh searched and found the ancient Ford on Blithedale terrace off Eldridge avenue. The three juveniles were lying on the floor of the car.

The driver was cited for speeding, driving without due caution, failure to yield to red light and siren and no front fenders, tail lights, license light, hand brake nor wipers.

Walsh said when he asked the driver why he did not stop, the boy said his father told him never to get mixed up with police.

Meeting Postponed

The Larkspur Recreation Commission postponed its scheduled meeting last night because of lack of a quorum, Secretary John Barry reported.

STOCKS TODAY

Resuscitator For Belvedere Asked

Purchase of a new resuscitator which has been in use on a trial basis by the Belvedere Volunteer Fire Department was recommended at last night's meeting by Chief Lawrence T. (Buck) Mersereau.

The resuscitator, which Mersereau feels is an essential item of equipment, would be available to both the fire and police departments.

The recommendation for purchase will be sent to the city council.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Should Donations Of Blood Be Given On Good Friday?

Tomorrow is Good Friday, the anniversary of the day on which Jesus Christ died on the Cross.

Tomorrow too, a mobile blood procurement unit makes a regular visit to Marin County to accept donations for the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank.

Isn't this a peculiar day on which to make such a trip? Is the need for blood so critical that a scheduled trip couldn't be cancelled on such a holy day?

We asked these questions and got some disquieting information.

Although Marin County residents have been increasing the amount of blood they are donating, the amount they are using is increasing at a much more rapid rate. In February this year, for example, donors gave 198 pints of blood as compared with only 99 in the same month a year ago. However, Marin's three general hospitals used 376 pints of blood in February this year as compared with only 186 pints in February 1959.

Thus while In February 1959 Marin used 87 more pints than it donated, this February our people needed 178 more pints than we gave even though we doubled our giving.

The same situation existed during January and December, too, only the donations in those two months did not increase as much as they did in February.

Actually, over that three months period, Marin hospitals have needed and used 80 per cent more blood than a year ago while the donors have contributed an increased supply of only 36 per cent.

There are many reasons Marin hospitals are using more blood. Major one, of course, is the increasing population. Another reason is improved facilities at all three hospitals which, with more physicians in Marin, have increased use of the county's surgical and other facilities.

An added factor to this larger need is the necessity for a large reserve supply. A year ago the three hospitals were adequately supplied if they together had 200 pints of the various blood types on hand. Today they must have 400 pints in their inventory to meet the daily requirements and anticipated emergencies.

So you can see why the mobile unit must come to San Rafael on Good Friday. The need for blood is great.

Come to think of it, it might be quite appropriate to make a blood donation tomorrow. If you think so too, the unit will be at the Elks Club between 2:30 and 6:30 p.m.

A Flower For Easter

Lilies are traditional as the Easter flower and lovely they are. A common Marin wildflower which resembles an Eastern Orthodox cross when its four-petaled blossom opens is another reminder of the Resurrection holiday.

We refer to wild mustard which is blooming now in almost all parts of Marin. The picture of a cross which they present is so striking that the botanical family to which they belong is called Cruciform. That some of these are veined blood-red aids the illusion that they are Nature's reminder of the Easter story.

Wild mustard comes in many colors —from the purest white to a reddish brown, with side colors of violet and pink. It is almost always in bloom at Easter time in Marin.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

HOLY THURSDAY

At the Last Supper, the Divine Master stressed over and over again that love of others for His sake should be the distinguishing mark of His followers.

Not only did He institute the Holy Eucharist as an abiding example of God's continuing love for man, but He also said:

1. "By this will all men know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another."
(John 13:35)

2. "If you love Me, keep My commandments."
(John 14:15)

3. "He who loves Me, will be loved by My Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him."
(John 14:21)

4. "This is My commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you."
(John 15:12)

5. "Greater love than this no one has, that one lay down his life for his friends."
(John 15:13)

See that all that you think, say and do is dominated by a divine love for mankind, and the more meaningful and dynamic your life is bound to become.

Deepen in me, O Holy Spirit, such a love for others that I may always seek their good.

HAL BOYLE'S COLUMN

That Rut Middle-Aged Man Rebels Against Is Actually His Refuge

To the outside eye the average middle-aged man looks about as settled as an old farm barn and as romantic as a broken umbrella.

He has a slightly seedy look of responsibility and respectability, and his face wears the vaguely harassed air.

But inside his own head the middle-aged man is a quite different fellow.

He is a dreamer. And the dreams he dreams are every bit as wild and unrealistic as those of any adolescent boy.

Pause at any office water cooler in the land and sooner or later you will hear some careworn codger give wistful voice to this classic daydream of masculine middle age: "Boy if I was just a bachelor again and had my present income to spend on myself. Men get married too young. I'd like to have a year off from marriage — just one year."

It is too bad some philanthropic foundation doesn't now and then issue grants to middle-aged men to test the truth of their dreams. Nothing would frighten them more.

FOR THE FINE fancy freedom the ordinary middle-aged man claims he craves is the last thing, which, in fact, would give him real satisfaction.

When a man has a mortgage on his house and has made a down payment on his ulcer, it is too late for him to essay the role of a wandering Casanova with either competence or enjoyment. It is too late also for him, in most cases, to abandon happily the discipline of his daily job.

If he were given the chance to live out his fondly held dream, within a week or month the pitiable wretch would be clamoring to return to the chains of his old duty.

BUT THE middle-aged man's dream of escape from routine does him no harm.

One of the pleasantest things about dreams is we do not have to make them come true — and find out they are really only nightmares.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Surprised At What Appeared In I-J

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

When I read my paper Friday (April 8), I was surprised. An article reporting on the discussions of the Citizen's Advisory Committee of the Tamalpais Union High School District credits me with quotes, some of which I said and some of which I did not say.

I don't believes I said "Low income families in the redevelopment projects have low average intelligence quotients." I said something more like "There is concentrated here a large number of low income families. The average IQ (or in effect ability to advance academically) of low income groups is lower than average." And it is lower still than average for the Tam district.

I don't believe this is a sociological surprise or even newsworthy. This is one of our educational problems. And it is one of the reasons for slum clearance, dispersal and redevelopment.

The purpose of this committee is to report to the others what the "grass roots" feeling is in his own area. I knew what I should honestly say would not be popular. I said what I did where I did because that is the proper place for it. It's a lot easier to say nothing now and sabotage it later. I said what I know to be true now, based on statistical facts, and what I believe will happen, based on the information presented. I don't see how you can ask for more.

A statement I made which was not quoted was to the effect that there is a great deal of personal respect and understanding between people in the two communities who have come to know each other, and better integration than one will find in most of Marin, and I invited them down to see; this in spite of the fact that we squabble every so often, usually about the financial problems of our common districts.

And when I say that, based on the information given us, the educational level in the proposed high school will not be as good as the other high schools, I am as much concerned about the kids from Marin City as I am with those of Sausalito.

I know, as a former school teacher and a present parent, that pupils extend themselves if they have to and relax to what is par for the course if they don't. I believe those who have wings should be encouraged to fly and not be allowed to become dodo birds. I know that teen-age people are very strongly influenced by their schoolmates, and so does every other parent.

It is a really tough job to attempt to stimulate pupils whose background reflects the limited environment which was the lot of their parents. It takes time and effort. And pupils who don't require so much attention look good by comparison (especially to themselves!).

Another very disturbing factor to me, again based on facts presented to us, is that the high school at Marin City is apt to be filled with pupils from that area alone, and will accidentally end up a segregated school in an already segregated community. To me this is a violation of the basic principle of redevelopment. Segregation, even accidental segregation, merely compounds an already difficult socio-economic problem for the people caught in it.

While it is true that it is not the responsibility of the Tamalpais Union High School Board to attempt to integrate the educational program in its high school in an already segregated community, it is their responsibility to cope with the results of it. Unless we are quite sure this will not happen we should not take the first step toward it.

A twin campus program with physically limited Tam High School was proposed as one possibility. Another is to select a site which will provide for expansion as needed on such a scale that segregation cannot be the result.

If the population forcast figures have been revised since the fact sheets were issued the question will be asked: "What kind of school will this be, and for what children?" We need to really know the answers. . . .

We have up to three years to make a firm commitment so the housing authority may receive its credit of $500,000 against its federal loan (not reported in the article). We in fairness should try to do it sooner than that. And we must seriously consider the redevelopers desire to have a high school on the project which will upgrade it.

I favor using the Marin City site if segregation can be avoided. If it can't, I favor a larger site elsewhere. We have some time, and we should not make a hasty decision for or against it when a little more planning could possibly obtain better results.

The other needs on the ballot are immediate, for pupils who are already here, and I can recommend their passage. This is why I do not favor placing the whole package on one ballot. . .

A British playwright was feeling very sorry for himself because it was his 50th birthday. Bernard Shaw, 90 himself, heard the playwright's moans and told him sternly, "You should be happy instead of downcast, you foolish fellow! You have escaped the forties, which the old age of youth, and are embarking on the fifties, which are the glorious youth of old age!"

A Roman guide waxed indignant when one of his tourists did not properly appreciate the crumbling remains of the Forum. "Have you any idea," demanded the guide, "what it costs the Italian government to keep these ruins in ruins?"

A poet who chooses to sign his efforts "W. W. Watt" submits:

"I have only this to remark about floor plugs:

"No matter how many you have, you need more plugs."

Gas Economy Run Had A Marin County Angle—I Made The Trip

In response to virtually no public demand whatever (and this is something into which I mean to look without delay) I hasten to put down a few little-known facts about the Mobilgas Economy Run of last week.

One of the general misconceptions is that the 2000-mile run had no Marin County angle to speak of. Well, I am a loyal citizen of Marin County and I was there.

It may be added that there is nothing like travel through the wilds of Southern California, Kansas, Oklahoma, and the frigid steppes of Iowa and Minnesota, to send one back determined to stay in Marin County however much that may be against the public interest.

THE RUN also traversed parts of Arizona and New Mexico, states for which I have a certain kindly tolerance and where there are educational things to be noted.

In Tucumcari, for instance, the local Chamber of Commerce put in each room a nice beaded bolo-type necktie with its uniting disc bearing the ancient Indian Thunderbird recently adopted by Ford.

Turn this device over and on the back you find stamped the words "Made in Hong Kong."

To me this was proof positive of the anthropological theory that the American Indian originated in Asia.

SOME MIGHTY fine economical driving was done by operators of the 56 contesting cars who showed sound sporting spirit with nobody putting sugar in anybody else's gas tank. One reason was that every car carried an official observer who wouldn't even let anybody put gas in the gas tanks except at proper times and places.

The same sporting spirit was in evidence in our Comet press car of Clymer Publications in Los Angeles. Nobody killed anybody.

Clymer, our host, is an old time motorcycle racer who drives a car like a motorcycle and goes around corners dragging one foot.

Fred Hayward, editor of the Horseless Carriage Club's magazine admires antique cars and is convinced that man was made to go no faster than 55 miles per hour even down-hill.

As is notorious, I am a fearless four-gear artist and I never did solve the mystery of that Comet's automatic transmission. There must be SOME way to make more complications and general fun.

ANYWAY, we tootled along at our various paces and beyond any question set a Run record for economy spelled backward, which is ymonoce and obviously nothing to appeal to any red-blooded American. Sounds pretty Russian if you ask ME.

We made jack-rabbit starts, opened our windows when it was hot, ran our heater when it was cold, didn't look ahead and told stories instead of tending to business.

Those devoted boys and girls who were contesting, on the other hand, really slaved to save gasoline. They started slow, ran to the tight average, looked 'way up the road to keep from being suckered in behind a truck up a hill, kept their feet light on the throttle and lived pure lives.

Hardly sounds worth while to imitate them, but no question about it, they set a mighty fine example for the American driver. And why an oil company sponsors the idea of saving fuel really beats me.

Up to the 1960 Mobilgas Economy Run, I thought nobody but airplane pilots got only head winds. But believe it or not, four out of our five driving days to Minneapolis the run drew head winds, or at the very least some mighty tough quartering winds.

This was along with flood, heavy traffic and other matters supposed to afflict every run.

New Unemployment Law Will Cost Employers 43 Million Dollars

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Another ride on the well-known government gravy train, at the expense of California employers, gets under way this week. The State Department of Employment announced that some 67,500 unemployment insurance beneficiaries will be entitled to an additional six to 13 weeks of benefits, starting now.

The department was careful not to put in its press release the amount of money this will drain out of the unemployment insurance fund. But the best estimates available indicate the charge could go as high as $43 million.

THE ADDITIONAL free ride for the rocking chair contingent results from a 1959 legislative act, adopted under the Gov. Edmund G. Brown program of "responsible liberalism."

The act in brief provides that the extended benefits shall be paid when unemployment covered by the code equals or exceeds six per cent of covered employment.

Irving H. Perluss, director of the department, said the officials computation is that the average of weeks of unemployment claimed during January through March of 1960 of 222,146 was 6.02 per cent of the average of covered employment of 3,689,966 for the four calendar quarters which ended Sept. 30, 1959.

THUS, FOR TWO hundredths of one per cent, employers of California are being forced to pay out up to $43 million in benefits which would have been saved except for the "responsible liberalism" program of Governor Brown.

The additional payments, it is believed, will have a tremendous adverse effect on the merit ratings of some employers. These ratings call for decreases in the amount of unemployment contributions paid if the employment in the concern affected is reasonably regular.

However, if additional benefits are paid, the added funds out of the employer reserve could easily affect the reserve accounts employers maintain with the department. Higher taxes are required if these fall below certain levels.

SOME INDICATIONS are to the effect that the added benefits will be recurring, year after year, as the quarter ending March 31 usually is the lowest employment period in the state. Christmas help has been laid off, and the agricultural season has not yet gotten under way, so naturally, unemployment is higher than during the other quarters of the year.

Unemployment insurance when originally adopted was designed to bridge the gap between jobs, for workers who were actually out of jobs, and needed insurance for grocery and other expense money.

The original intent of the law, adopted in 1935 as a depression measure, never was to provide unemployed individuals with a living while they pick and choose their own jobs.

MANY EMPLOYER representatives decry the fact that the government has turned unemployment insurance into a device for supporting the idle while they refuse work, and relax on government money gouged out of the employer, until a job comes along they will consider taking. Several investigations over the past years have proven this policy is growing, rather than decreasing.

Few people, many employers point out, would be without jobs today if they really wanted to work.

EVERY CROWD HAS A SHOW-OFF

Mrs. Joy Cutchshaw of Dallas, Tex., found these baby rabbits in some shrubbery. She tried to arrange them in tumblers for a "formal" portrait. All cooperated but one. The little show-off at right hopped from his tumbler as the photographer tripped his shutter. The result: This perfect handstand. (AP Wirephoto)

Leftist Asked To Become Italian Premier

ROME (UPI) — President Giovanni Gronchi turned today toward the left and asked former Premier Amintore Fanfani to try to form a government and end eight weeks of political crisis.

Fanfani served as premier only 15 months ago, but was ousted by the conservatives in his own Christian Democratic Party because of his leftist tendencies.

DECISION RESERVED

Fanfani reserved decision on whether to try to form a new government which would have to depend on splinter groups in the National Assembly to stay in power.

Even though the new premier-designate is considered of the left, he still can expect opposition from the powerful Communist and leftwing Socialist parties in Parliament.

The "little professor" also would get bitter opposition from all parties right of center and from some factions within his own party. Fanfani delayed his decision until he consults those party factions.

HIS STATEMENT

"Given the difficulties and the extreme delicacy of the situation," Fanfani said today, "I was not able to take upon myself the duty of assisting the work of giving a government to the country."

Fanfani first tried as premier in 1954 but was rejected by the Chamber of Deputies. After the 1958 general elections in which the Christian Democrats won a plurality, Fanfani captured leadership of his party and became premier July 2.

TEACHER LEADS A DOUBLE LIFE

Mrs. Lewis Mendelson teaches a sixth grade class in a Salem, Ore., school during the daytime. Her pupils see her as she appears at left, demurely dressed, wearing glasses, and with a pencil behind her ear. But at night Mrs. Mendelson looks as she is shown in the photo at right as she plays the role of a vamp in a community theater production. (AP Wirephoto)

Foreign Ministers Wind Up Meetings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Western foreign ministers wound up a three-day strategy session today with general agreement on Allied policy for the May summit meeting in Paris with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

After forging a revised German-Berlin plan and reaffirming their demand for controlled disarmament, the Western powers put together a number of secondary suggestions for reducing tension in the cold war.

Leaving the final two hour talk, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said it had been a "very satisfactory meeting."

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said, "We reached agreement on everything."

Also sitting in on today's conference with Herter, de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak.

One of the principal ideas under discussion today was a British plan, viewed without too much enthusiasm by the United States, to ask Russia to join in an agreement to restrict arms shipments to turbulent Africa.

Radio System Hailed As Air Collision Preventer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said today it has found a low-cost radio system that could eliminate 99 per cent of mid-air collisions.

More than that, the service said, the system also would perform navigation and traffic control chores. The Army reported the proposed setup would pave the way for eventual automation of flight control.

Three scientists at the Diamond Ordnance Fuse Laboratories here evaluated a number of proposed collision-avoidance systems. They endorsed one called NATCAS, which is short for navigation, air traffic control and collision avoidance system.

They said NATCAS operates under all weather conditions, is low in cost and simple in design, preserves military and security, and is suitable for all sizes of aircraft.

NATCAS would enable traffic controllers on the ground to keep a constant check on all planes aloft. Planes also could be controlled by automatic signals from unattended radio devices on the ground.

The system would warn a pilot of the danger of collision and indicate what action to take.

Pony Express Men Missing

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Three California horsemen reriding the old Pony Express trail through Nevada have not been heard from or sighted since they started across the deserted trail from Salt Lake City, Utah, last Saturday.

Jack Nolan, a 28-year-old Culver City gunsmith, picked up the traditional mail pouch from another rider Saturday at 3:20 p.m. and reportedly headed across the state line.

The trail through Nevada runs south of the Ruby Mountain range, north of Austin and then into Carson City, the only major population center it meets in Nevada.

The team originally estimated the ride through Nevada would take five to six days.

The trail, which began in St. Joseph, Mo., ends in Sacramento.

Dixie Board To Sign To Buy School Site

Dixie School District trustees are expected to sign a contract next week for the purchase of 10 acres of land on which a new school will be built.

The land, part of the Freitas ranch, will cost $6,300 an acre.

The site is adjacent to the Terra Linda High School site on Nova Albion way in Terra Linda Valley. Negotiations for purchase of the site have been going on since August of 1959.

The final contract is expected to reach the board in time for its April 20 meeting, Supt. Dennie B. Willis reported today. The part of that meeting devoted to signing the contract will be public.

A second portion of the meeting, for teacher contract consideration, will be closed, Willis said.

Willis said construction of the new school will not begin until some time in 1961, with eight to 10 classrooms planned to begin the project. At a later date, the classrooms is expected to be brought up to 20.

Construction funds will be gained through a state loan, as the district is bonded to its limit, Willis said.

The board did not hold its regular board meeting last night for lack of a quorum. The next regular meeting will be April 27.

Chandelier Available

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A local banker has replaced a half-ton chandelier with modern fluorescent lighting as part of a remodeling program. Now the bank can't decide what to do with the chcandelier.

A spokesman said: "There's always the alternative of scrapping the fixture but we would be happier giving it intact to some church, for instance, where it would continue to be used for lighting purposes."

Run Through Glass Door Injures Boy

A San Francisco youth suffered multiple cuts yesterday when he ran through a plate glass door at a Belvedere home.

Aluminum-Domed Shop Center Set

Sam Neider, San Francisco real estate investor, has announced plans for a shopping center and bowling alley to be housed in aluminum geodesic domes at Strawberry Point on Highway 101.

He said that it will be the first aluminum shopping center in the United States. One of the Bucky Fuller designed domes will be about 200 feet in diameter, 75 feet high and will hold several stores, Neider said. Stores will be placed in a half circle around the large dome and there will be a mall between stores and dome.

A second, smaller dome, will house a bowling alley. The domes are to be purchased from Kaiser Industries.

Work on the project will begin by fall, Neider said, provided plans are approved.

Safeway Stores has taken a survey of the area and indicated it would like to place a store into the center, he said.

The center, Neider said, will be part of a development in the Strawberry Point area consisting of Harbor Point Beach Club, for which tennis courts have now been constructed; Harbor Point subdivision; Harbor Cove, next to De Silva island and facing Highway 101, and Harbor Vista, the hilly area immediately behind the proposed shopping center.

The center will have one-half mile frontage on the highway. Entrances will be via the service road.

Neider said he plans a small but complete shopping facility.

"It will have everything," he said, "a place to have one's watch fixed, shoes repaired, cleaning and laundry done and book rentals made." These are in addition to the market and other services.

Brown Signs Bill Permitting School Science Property

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More California school children will have a chance to observe nature at first hand under a bill signed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The measure, introduced in the 1960 legislative session by Assemblyman Myron H. Frew (D-Dinuba), permits county school supervisors to acquire property for outdoor science and conservation programs.

It also permits school authorities to exchange property received as a gift for other property held by federal, state and local governments.

Vandals Take Canopy From Display Plane

Somebody has sabotaged the Navy jet plane which is being groomed for public display at San Rafael's Albert Field.

The fighter, donated by the Navy and under alteration and repainting at Dave Wheeler's Marina, was stripped of its canopy sometime this week.

Recreation Director Joseph Rodota issued an appeal for anyone with any information on the canopy to call the recreation department or police.

"I doubt if we can ever get another canopy to replace the missing one," said Rodota. To the practical jokers who took the canopy, it may seem funny, but to the youngsters who are looking forward to the jet plane, it is an irreplaceable loss, Rodota declared.

BLIND BEGGAR CLIENT

Hallinan Returns To Court, Loses Case

Attorney Vincent Hallinan of Ross, suspended from the bar for three years, returned to the San Francisco courtrooms yesterday to defend a blind beggar.

He lost.

Hallinan, a veteran trial lawyer who was once sent to jail for contempt during an arduous defense of longshore leader Harry Bridges, got his three-year suspension from the state Supreme Court for income tax violations.

Of his latest client, accordionist Robert F. Greenswalt, 39, Hallinan said:

"This man is not a beggar. He's a wandering troubador who gives entertainment to people and asks nothing in return."

But the jury of seven men and five women found Greenswalt guilty of begging, as charged.

Greenswalt was allowed to remain free on $21 bail until Municipal Court Judge Byron Arnold considers Hallinan's request for a new trial. Hallinan contends the city ordinance against begging is illegal.

All Americans Count in the NEW 1960 CENSUS

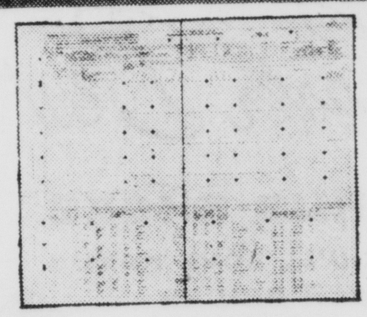
"ELECTRONIC BRAINS" TO PROCESS DATA FOR THE FIRST TIME

180 MILLION PEOPLE will be counted in the 1960 Census. Uncle Sam's biggest census job starts April 1 when 160,000 census takers set out to visit every dwelling place in the nation.

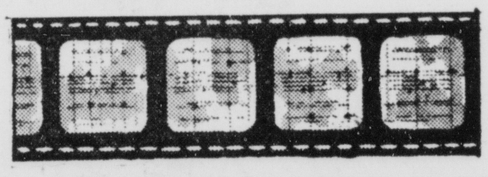
EVERY HOME IN AMERICA will get this census questionnaire. Watch the mail for your questionnaire. Filling it out in advance will save you time when the census taker calls. There are several simple questions about the persons in your household, and a few questions about the house itself.

U. S. Department of Commerce
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS
CENSUS ENUMERATOR
Official Credential
EXPIRES JUNE 30, 1960

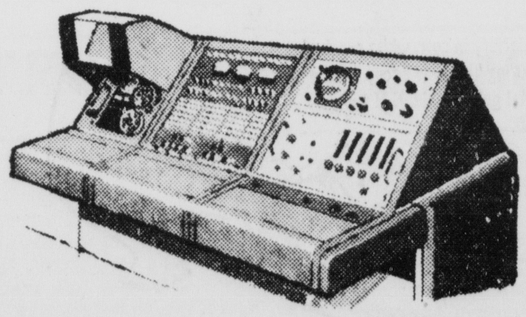


YOUR CENSUS INFORMATION will be transferred to a master sheet by the census taker. Most of your answers will then appear simply as a series of dots on paper.

CONFIDENTIAL PICTURE OF YOU. Under the law your census information is strictly confidential. No person, no government agency—not even the Treasury Department or the FBI—can find out anything about you from your census report. Modern processing further removes personal identity by reducing your report to a pattern of dots on microfilm.



This "FOSDIC" (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computers) will automatically "read" the microfilm dots and transfer data to magnetic tape for electronic tabulation and computing. Four of these machines will do the work of 2,000 clerks. Census information will be available faster than ever before to help plan for better living.



CENSUS COUNT DETERMINES YOUR REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS. All who work and plan for America's better future—educators, scientists, engineers, businessmen and clergymen—need the 1960 Census information.

Giant Candlestick Lights Up Tonight

PRESS BOX VIEWS

By JACK HANLEY

HANLEY

An era of baseball that died when they began needling the ball has been resurrected by the natural elements prevailing in Candlestick Park.

All of baseball's heirarchy have been conspiring against the pitchers for more than three decades and now nature has come to their aid. The hitters are moaning and the pitchers are smiling.

Candlestick is forcing a game of baseball that the present generation never saw. The big smash, the homer, was the thing to be admired hereabouts and thereabouts throughout both major league circuits since the fabulous Babe Ruth did magical feats even with an almost lifeless ball.

Ruth's prodigous homers prompted ball club owners into a silent, gentlemen's conspiracy that transformed baseballs into spherical jackrabbits. No harm was done, except to the pitchers. The sporting public, filing through the turnstiles, certainly wasn't duped. That's what the fans came to see — homers and more of the same.

EVEN FENCES were moved in or torn down like the old high barrier in Seals Stadium's left field to encourage the homer production.

Now, in the mysterious way she operates, Mother Nature has equallized all that in Candlestick. She is blowing and blowing a benign breeze on the pitchers and against the hitters. It's been a long time since the pitchers had a friend and the one they got on their side now is a mighty powerful one.

Bill White, the Cardinal center fielder, looked like a crazy ballet dancer as he tried to get under a couple of powerful shots off Orlando Cepeda's bat. He couldn't catch up with the first one that fell in for a triple He did get the second but only after crashing into the wire fence. In any other park, except perhaps Pittsburgh's Forbes Field, both of Cepeda's tremendous blows would have been homers.

HANK SAUER, a pretty fair home run hitter before age finally turned him into a scout, said that if the wind blows like it did opening day "Ten homers won't be hit in left field all season."

Bill Rigney, having properly evaluated the situation on Monday during the Giants' first practice session in Candlestick, played for a one run game Tuesday by ordering Jimmy Davenport's first inning bunt.

"It looks like that's the way we'll have to play it — start bunting right from the first," said Rigney.

Candlestick is going to be a low scoring park with a premium placed on base running. And that is something the present generation may appreciate more than the slam-bang game which still is in vogue elsewhere, but not Candlestick.

Relief Work For Spahnie

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Charlie Dressen, the Milwaukee Braves' manager, has a new job for Warren Spahn, his ace lefthander.

He plans to use the 38-year-old veteran in the bullpen—at least for the series with Philadelphia which starts tonight and continues Saturday and Sunday.

"I want to keep all my pitchers working," Dressen said last night. "I don't intend to start Spahnie again until next week but I want him to be ready to go in and help if we need him."

Spahn, who had a 21-15 season last year and won 20 or more games a year 10 times, pitched the opening game for Milwaukee against the Pirates Tuesday but was lifted in the eighth inning. Don McMahon, a big righthander relieved him and got credit for the victory. Spahn gave up seven hits and two runs before he was relieved.

Dressen also plans to have Juan Pizarro, a young lefthander who has shown promise but has lacked control this spring, in the bullpen with Spahn.

Dressen plans to start Carl Willey, a big righthander against the Phillies tonight and use Bob Buhl and Lew Burdette in the games Saturday and Sunday.

San Jose State Romps

SAN JOSE (UPI)—San Jose State swamped Long Beach, 21-1, yesterday in a college baseball game. The Spartans' John Jurevich whacked two homers.

Ripney Hails McCormick . . . 'Never Better'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I never saw him pitch a better game. He's getting stronger all the time."

Mike had a no-hitter going into the top of the eighth inning when Stan Musial slapped a hit to left field on a pitch Mike didn't even think was a strike.

Musial was erased on a double play but Leon Wagner homered in the inning and Alex Grammas collected a ninth inning single. That was all the damage. Mike didn't walk a batter and struck out four.

He said he was getting more spin on his curve ball and getting it over the plate.

"Before, the hitters would take the curve and I'd have to throw a changeup or the fast ball. They can't do that anymore," he said.

Even though he just reached voting age Sept. 29, Mike has been a Giant since 1956 when the club shelled out a $50,000 bonus to sign him as a San Gabriel prep.

BAD PITCH

He added, "Musial is one of the greats, but I feel I made a bad pitch."

The young hurler said Musial seemed fooled on two curves but with a count of two balls and two strikes he tapped an inside fast ball.

Stan said his first hit of 1960 felt great because at 39, "I'm a young man—not an old one."

McCormick posted a 12-16 record last season, but on several occasions lost low scoring games by one-run margins. This time the Giants saw to the run-making early, scoring three in the second and two in the third.

McCormick retired the first 17 men to face him. Then relief pitcher Ernie Broglio was safe on second baseman Don Blasingame's error.

HE FLOATS THROUGH THE AIR— Cardinals' Bob Nieman has both legs off the ground but he didn't have enough altitude to make first base safely in this fifth inning action at Candlestick Park yesterday. Willie McCovey already had the ball when photo was snapped. Umpire is Ken Burkhart and No. 3 is Cardinal Coach Harry Walker. (AP Wirephoto)

Sherry Loses As A Starter, May Return To Relief Role

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It's still too early to tell whether much relief is in sight for Larry Sherry, the premier pitcher of the 1959 World Series.

Last year, Sherry brought the Los Angeles Dodgers the kind of relief perennially promised in the exclamatory ads of the aspirin pushers, but he grew weary of this method of pain killing and asked for a chance to become a regular starter.

Last night — with nine straight victories behind him, including two in the World Series—he got the start and stumbled. The Chicago Cubs beat him 4-0 on homers by Frank Thomas and Ernie Banks and five-hit pitching by Glen Hobbie, who had never before managed to master the Dodgers.

Tonight the Dodgers meet St. Louis in the opener of a three-game series that will be interrupted by Good Friday. Left-hander Johnny Podres, 14-9 last year, will start for Los Angeles. Right-hander Ron Kline, who was 11-13 with Pittsburgh, will go for the Cards, who just lost two in a row at San Francisco.

One defeat will not dictate Sherry's destiny.

"I thought he pitched a good game," said Dodger Manager Walt Alston. "And this isn't going to change things one way or another.

"That home run ball he threw Thomas with two men aboard in the eighth was just about a perfect pitch—low and outside. Sherry couldn't have put it in a better place if he had walked it up to the plate.

"And I don't care who you are, you can't win a game unless you get some runs.

"My concern with Sherry is not whether he can go long enough to be a good starter. He came in early a couple of times last year and was still pumping in the ninth. My concern is where he'll do the club the most good.

"I know which way I'm leaning, but I haven't made up my mind yet. What I've been thinking is that Sherry might be able to save two or three games a week in relief—and he's not likely to win two or three as a starter."

Rigneymen Send Sanford Against Chicago's Drott

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Oh, to be in San Francisco now that April's here!

After two games, the Giants are undefeated. Willie Mays is hitting a juicy .625 and the pitching staff has turned in three-hitters back-to-back.

"The club is looking good," Manager Bill Rigney enthused after yesterday's 6-1 thumping of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"They don't appear ragged at all from the hot spring training in Arizona. I think the boys perked up fine in this new ball park."

The Chicago Cubs move into Candlestick Park tonight where they'll face Jack Sanford in the first of a three-game series. He will be opposed by Dick Drott, the fireballing Sub right-hander who is overdue to have a fine season. Game time is 8:15 o'clock in Candlestick's first night time venture.

Lefty Mike McCormick, taking his cue from Sam Jones who held the Cardinals to three hits on opening day, turned back the Redbirds with the same number of safeties yesterday.

SPOILER STAN

Mike didn't allow a hit until the eighth inning when Stan Musial led off with a single to left field. This was old stuff for "The Man" who last April wrecked no-hit bids by Glen Hobbie of the Cubs and Sanford.

After Musial's single, Bob Nieman hit into a double-play but Leon Wagner followed by clouting his second home run here in as many days.

"That McCormick has sparked up since I last saw him," said Wagner, who is an ex-Giant. "He just used to rear back and throw. Now he works the corners more."

Mays had a great afternoon at the plate. He smashed a two-run double off losing pitcher Wilmer Mizell in the second inning and collected a total of three singles in five times up. Mays got his third hit of the day when he deposited a neat bunt down the third base line in the sixth inning and easily beat it out.

"I think I've only bunted twice before," Mays said. "I still prefer to swing."

And swing he did in the eighth inning when he towered a long drive to right field which looked like a fifth hit. But Wagner caught the ball close to the fence.

KIRKLAND HOMERS

A two-run homer by Willie Kirkland accounted for more Giant tallies in the third inning. Kirkland unloaded after Orlando Cepeda had led off with a double.

All told, Mizell was clubbed for five runs and six extra-base hits before Ernie Broglio relieved him with none out in the third.

Yes, nearly everybody is happy in Giantville. The one exception could be Willie McCovey who struck out three times yesterday and hit into a double play.

MAUCH TAKES OVER

Quits Phils Job Surprise! Sawyer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Eddie Sawyer unexpectedly resigned today as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and was succeeded by Gene Mauch.

Mauch, 33, has been manager of the Minneapolis Millers, a Boston Red Sox farm, in the American Association.

"I have an announcement to make that will be a shock and a great surprise to you," Carpenter said. "And I might add a great disappointment to me.

"I spoke to Eddie Sawyer on the phone last night and he resigned as manager."

Sawyer then spoke for himself.

"I just don't care to manage a major league club," he said. "I would like to stay in baseball but have no plans at this time."

SECOND TERM

This was the second term as Phils manager for Sawyer, a 49-year-old former professor at Ithaca College in upstate New York. He first took over the Phils in 1948 and guided the 1950 "Whiz Kids" to the National League pennant. He was let go on June 28, 1952 and succeeded by Mayo Smith.

Sawyer returned as Phils manager in July of 1958. The club finished last under his leadership in 1959, but that season was written off as one in which the Phils were experimenting largely with younger players.

The same policy was in effect this season. The Phils generally were picked to finish last in the National League race. Philadelphia lost its season-opening game to the Cincinnati Reds Tuesday, 9-4.

Mauch was in infielder with Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Milwaukee.

Giants' No. 1 Female Fan Opens Season

By JOHN R. WARD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Don't let these wise guys kid you. The Giants' 1960 baseball season doesn't really open until tonight.

That is because the club's most rabid female fan—Mrs. John (Roberta) Morrison—wasn't present Tuesday and yesterday when the hometown heroes did in the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Well, I'll be there tonight," Roberta declared. "And those Chicago Cubs better look out. Why I'll bet Willie Mays wallops two homers against them and Cepeda (Orlando) and Kirkland (Willie) ought to get at least one apiece."

During one Giants-Cub contest last year she taunted Chicago players—and fans—with such abandon that one gentleman from Chicago, sitting two rows below her, dared to object.

Then she proceeded to give him such a bad time he left the stadium. And other Chicago visitors moved uncomfortably from the neighborhood of Mrs. Morrison's seat.

Last year the Giants played in Seals Stadium. It could become as cold as a gambler's stare out there at night. Everybody took blankets and vacuum jugs of hot coffee. But not Roberta.

"It gets kinda windy down at Candlestick Park, Roberta. Are you going to take a blanket this year?"

"Not on your life," she retorted. "Whaddaya think? I'm going down there to see a ball game—not to go to bed."

Veteran Benefits To Change July 1

Veterans today were advised that provisions of the new pension act which will take effect July 1 require that benefits be reduced to $40 a month after two months of Veterans Administration hospitalization.

Formerly pension benefits were reduced one-half or to $30 a month if the veteran had no dependents and remained in a V.A. hospital or domiciliary for more than six months.

In releasing the information, W. P. Duhamel, Marin veterans service officer, said more information is available on the program at his office at 519 Fourth street, San Rafael.

Camp Unit Plans Training Program

The Northern California Section of the American Camping Assn. will hold its annual camp counseling day training program May 21 at Camp Lilienthal in Fairfax.

Zella Davis, a Girl Scout executive, is in charge of a committee that has arranged to cover such topics as camp-inspired music, adventuring in nature, camp crafts, relationships among camp staff and campers, and American Camping Assn. standards.

Hart Stops Kalingo In Video Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky Kalingo, the Philippine welterweight champion, is going back to Los Angeles where it's warm after being cooled off in Chicago in more ways than one.

Sugar Hart of Philadelphia, seventh rated contender, scored a fifth round technical knockout over Rocky last night, spoiling his scheduled 10-round national television debut in Chicago Stadium. Hart weighed 152, Kalingo 145.

Dr. Irving Slott of the Illinois Athletic Commission examined the 24-year-old Kalingo between rounds and ruled he was in no condition to continue. He was dazed, and a cut in scar tissue over his left eye was bleeding freely.

"During most of my training in Chicago, the weather was cold and I'm not used to it," said Kalingo. "I caught cold in my head and I always felt tired. By the third round, I could hardly get my arms up. When I moved in to punch, I couldn't draw back. That's when Hart connected.

"I want to go back to California where it's warm. I would like to fight Hart again there, or in Hawaii."

WISCONSIN TRAGEDY

Fighter Near Death; Dad Absolves Sport

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — University of Wisconsin boxer Charlie Mohr remained near death today but his father said, "Don't blame the sport."

Charles Mohr Sr. was asked if he blamed boxing for his son's very critical brain injury and he said, "Absolutely not."

The father, who has remained around the clock at the hospital with his wife, two daughters and numerous friends, said boxing had always been Charlie's main interest and that he and his wife had approved their son's participation in the sport.

Mohr left the ring under his own power, but collapsed in the dressing room. He was rushed to the university hospital and has been unconscious since that time.

Dr. Manucher Javid, who performed surgery on Mohr late Saturday and early Sunday, said the young boxer suffered "acute sub-dural hematoma, with marked brain damage and with irreversible damage to the mid brain." He said Mohr could continue in his present state indefinitely.

The future of boxing at the University of Wisconsin will be taken up by the school's athletic board as a result of the injury suffered by Mohr.

The Madison Capital Times, afternoon daily here and a long-time foe of the sport, came out Tuesday for its abolition after Mohr was hurt. Other sources friendly to boxing in the past have said the sport may be on its way out at Wisconsin.

Olympic Stars Quizzed On Personal Life

ROME (UPI) — What makes Sammy run . . . and jump . . . and pole vault?

Looking ahead to this year's Olympic Games at Rome, the organizing committee has airmailed thousands of highly-personal questionnaires to men and women athletes throughout the world.

In addition to the usual queries dealing with name, birthplace and nationality, the form has divisions dealing with drinking, smoking and whether the athletes were breast or bottle fed as babies.

The question on sexual behavior has a sub-division devoted to temperament. Married athletes are asked whether they are making a success of their union and whether it is "good, mediocre or bad."

The "social level" division is indicated by three cross marks, apparently upper crust, lower level or in-between.

The first revelation of the survey was printed in the official Olympic Bulletin, which admitted that some of the questions of the special committee are "unusual."

More than 7,000 athletes from about 90 countries who are expected to compete in the 1960 Games will receive the questionnaire.

The form for women athletes is printed on powder blue paper with the coat-of-arms of the she-wolf of Rome and is headed, "Medical Scientific Form For The Olympic Athlete."

One of the leading questions on the female questionnaire asks if the applicant feels she has grown the same as, is superior to, or is inferior to persons of her same age. It also includes queries dealing with diseases from which she suffered, traumas and operations.

The organizing committee neglected to state whether candidates will be obliged to answer all questions, but the survey is expected to touch off an uproar in athletic circles.

Tacoma PCL Debut Postponed—Rain

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—Wet grounds today caused postponement of the scheduled split doubleheader between the Tacoma Giants and the Portland Beavers which was to have marked the return of the Giants to the Pacific Coast League for the first time in 55 years.

The two games will be played Saturday, the first starting at 1:30 p.m. and the second at 8 p.m. Opening day tickets will be honored at that time.

Reed Witt Upset In Orinda Tourney

Reed Witt, Larkspur's young tennis champion, was a surprise loser yesterday in the annual Orinda Country Club Junior Tennis Tournament.

Upsetting the top-seeded Marin County ace in the boys 18 and under age division was Nick Hoogs of Berkeley. The score was 6-4, 1-6 and 7-5.

L.A. Practice Hurler Elected To Council

TORRANCE (AP) — George Vico, batting practice pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers, has been elected to the Torrance City Council.

Vico, former first baseman, went up to the Detroit Tigers from Portland in the late 40's and hit a home run in his first time at bat in a major league game. He later played for several Coast League teams, including Hollywood.

LINCOLN QUITS BASKETBALL POST AT SRHS

Bob Lincoln, coach of San Rafael High School's varsity basketball team, has announced his resignation from the San Rafael faculty to accept a similar position in the Hayward School District. The resignation becomes effective at the end of the present semester.

Lincoln, who guided San Rafael to the North Bay League championship in the 1958-59 season, said he tentatively is scheduled to be assigned to Castro Valley High School's physical education department. "It is my belief I'll be named head basketball coach over there," Lincoln said.

USF Clobbered, 29-9

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Los Angeles State rolled over USF, 29-9, in a wild baseball game yesterday. Tom Calabese of the winners collected two doubles and a homer while knocking in four runs.

Ram Quarterback Signs

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Frank Ryan, second string quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, has signed contracts with the club for 1960 and 1961, General Manager Elroy Hirsch announced today.

Heat Is Off Rodgers; Maybe He'll Arrive As Valuable Utility Man

CONNOLLY

It could very well be a Horatio Alger or Dick Merriwell story. I mean, of course, the lowdown on Andre Rodgers, Giant utility infielder, whom stout hearted Horace Stoneham figured to be a savvy guy and who was rushed too fast while still a preliminary boy.

Andre turned out to be a monumental 1959 flop as a batter, as an infielder and above all as a fighter. He even admitted over the radio that he "froze" at bat and in the field.

As the 1960 season wears on don't be surprised if the mighty flop player of '59 becomes the standout performer this season in utility roles.

Andre hit the Giant front office like a hurricane. Boss Stoneham and his "brain buster scouts" bluntly, boldly and sharply advised the Giant boss to insist on Rodgers becoming the 1959 regular shortstop.

Stoneham bowed to his own advisors and Rodgers was ordered to take over at shortstop, Spencer was sent to second base, Danny Boy O'Connell to the bench to make room for the kid who was expected to shine like a 100-karat diamond. Scouts, advisors to Stoneham and even Skipper Bill Rigney were genuinely sincere in the belief that Andre could cut the mustard.

AND WHAT happened?

Rodgers laid the biggest egg outside of an Easter bunny parade that has ever been dropped in the National League since Rube Marquard was named the $100,000 lemon.

And now after an elapse of a year, the ghost of the same Andre Rodgers begins to appear again. But this time the kindly and soft hearted Stoneham isn't demanding that Rodgers play regularly.

And there is no one we'd sooner see make good than the quiet kid from the Bahamas.

RODGERS began his sixth year in professional baseball this week. He busted in in 1954 and in 125 games at Olean, a Giant farm club, went to bat 440 times, clouted out 126 hits, including 9 homeruns for a .286 average.

In 1955 at St. Cloud, another Giant farm club, he played in 123 games, went to bat 452 times, hit 175 base knocks and collected 28 homers, for a 387 average. He also drove in 111 runs.

At Dallas in 1956 he earned the call to New York in 1957, then to Minneapolis late in 1957 and back to S.F. in 1958, being shipped later to Phoenix to establish his best season in top flight ball.

Whenever Andre played regularly he was a potent factor in home runs and driving in runs. He was top among the leaders in everything, including fielding.

SO IN 1960 Andre COULD arrive.

Manager Rigney stated cautiously that he has a warm spot in his heart for Rodgers. He thinks he might be an all around utility infielder replacing Jimmy Davenport at third base in emergencies or Eddie Bressoud at shortstop or even Willie McCovey at first base.

So you see Andre has a lot of fellows pulling hard for his success.

And maybe now that the stage-fright period is past, the Bahamas kid could come through. He was a much better batting prospect at Phoenix than his teammate, McCovey, so why shouldn't he deliver?

Keep your fingers crossed and light a few candles. It could HELP a nice polite young fellow with a British accent and all the cockney manners.

St. Vincent's '9' Boasts Unbeaten Baseball Record

St. Vincent's School for Boys of San Rafael is compiling an enviable record in practice baseball games and appears ready to make a strong run for a championship in the Marin County CYO League starting later this month.

The St. Vincent's team ran its consecutive win streak to five games by beating the Big Rec Team in San Francisco, 17-2 on Saturday and outslugging Mission Delores, 17-11 Sunday.

Sunday Terry Clarity poled a home run and Abury Lessard drove home six runs to highlight the victory.

Thus far this season St. Vincent's team, composed of fifth and sixth graders, has scored 60 runs on 59 hits while opponents have managed only 16 runs and 15 hits.

Freighter, Fishing Boat Collide Out Of San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Japanese freighter and a fishing boat collided about 15 miles off the Golden Gate today with damage to the fishing boat's bow and steering gear.

No injury was reported among the crewmen.

The freighter, the Nevada Maru, sailed from San Francisco at 1:30 a.m. for New York. It collided with the Martiri at 3:01 a.m., seven and one-half miles southeast of the San Francisco lightship.

The Nevada Maru and Coast Guard vessels stood by while the Martiri, which carries a crew of five, proceeded under its own power toward San Francisco.

Henry Hank Vows He'll Be Champion

"I wouldn't want to fight Sugar Ray because he's too old," said Hank. "You can get hurt when you're too old. And Robinson has always been my idol."

The hard-punching Detroiter, who can't buy a fight in his home town, said he thinks he can kayo any middleweight in the world, including National Boxing Association Champion Gene Fullmer.

"I'll keep knocking them out until I'm ranked No. 1, then they'll have to give me a title shot," he said. Hank, winner of six straight fights, four by knockout, is ranked No. 3 by the N.B.A. and No. 4 by Ring Magazine.

His last start was a six-round kayo over light heavyweight contender Sixto Rodriguez of San Anselmo, Calif., in a nationally - televised affair in which he broke his right hand with the final punch. But the hand has healed and Hank is scheduled to meet Rory Calhoun in a 10-rounder April 25 at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

"He's had to fight light heavy weights to get recognition," said Manager Jim Bowlin, a Detroit car dealer who has handled Hank since he turned pro in 1953 when just 17. "But he'll never move into the 175-pound division. He's a natural middleweight.

NO HURRY

"If he has to wait for a title shot, then he'll wait," Bowlin said. "He's the youngest ranking middleweight and the guys at the top are all up in years."

Hank, who has 20 knockouts in 52 victories against 10 losses and a draw, is a masterful combination boxer.

He came to Detroit as a child from Greenville, Miss., and is married and the father of five children.

"Hank's got the middleweight division all sewed up," said Bowlin. "The only thing that can beat him now is overconfidence."

HAMILTON RING CHAMP UPSET IN TOURNEY

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—Ken Suhovsky scored an upset yesterday in the Air Force Boxing Tournament semi-finals by outpointing the defending welterweight champ.

Suhovsky, 1959 Eastern Golden Gloves champ from New York, used two-handed flurries to beat Dean Harrison of San Francisco and Hamilton AFB. Harrison was last year's inter-service runner-up and Pan-American trials champ.

Harrison was thrown off stride and forced to counterpunch instead of following his normal aggressive style against Suhovsky, who is competing from Kessler AFB, Miss.

Redwood Loses In South S.F. Tourney

Redwood High School's Giants suffered a 5-0 blanking at the hands of Serra High yesterday in the consolation bracket of the South San Francisco Invitational Baseball Tournament.

The Giants were held to two hits.

Angluin-King Favored In Marin Golf

Dave Angluin and William King of San Rafael assumed the favorites' role this week as they entered the semi-final round of the Marin Golf Club's men's two-ball championship tourney.

They'll meet Doug Cowan and Stan Mertel, also of San Rafael, in one of the semi-final matches that will be played before next Monday. The other semi pits Gordon Wardlaw of Kentfield and Ron Gemmell of Mill Valley against Bill Rutherford of Larkspur and Col. McConnell.

The Angluin-King duo upset tourney medalists Colin Hill and Syl DeMaestri by a 2 and 1 margin last week. The Cowan Mertel team scored a 3 and 2 margin over Herb Prodger and Patrick McGrath; Wardlaw-Gemmell edged Jack Countryman and Bob Vannucci, 2 and 1 and Rutherford-McConnell won 5 and 3 over Ed Wright and Nate Blumenfeld.

Scorer Changes Mind, Gives Moon A Hit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The official scorer has changed his ruling on a first inning play in the Tuesday Chicago-Los Angeles baseball game, giving Dodger Wally Moon a base hit.

The change takes an error from Ernie Banks, Chicago Cub shortstop. In the play, Dodger Jim Gilliam slid into second base as Moon's hit went by Banks, then advanced to third.

Finsterwald Tourney Pick

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y., were the early favorites in a field of 150 pros and amateurs opening play today in the $17,500 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

Finsterwald, the 1959 winner, copped the Los Angeles Open and has placed third in his last three tournaments. Nieporte took the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., two weeks ago.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, the millionaire golfer from White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., will be looking for his seventh win here. The gallery favorite finished in the money in last year's tournament on the par 71 Starmount Forest Country Club course.

Eighteen holes will be played daily through Sunday with the big cut coming after the second day.

Other top entries included Gary Player, the 24-year-old British Open Champion from South Africa, Bruce Crampton of Australia and Stan Leonard, the longtime Canadian PGA champ.

Absent was Masters Champion Arnold Palmer, who has played here twice, the last time in 1957. Doug Ford, 1958 winner, notified tournament officials he would be unable to play because he is undergoing dental treatment in New York this week.

Golf Trick Shot Artist To Perform

Marin County golf fans will be in for a special treat on April 24 when the famed trick shot artist, Count Yogi, is scheduled to perform at the Indian Valley Golf Course in Novato, it was announced yesterday.

Jim Perrin, professional at the Novato course, said Count Yogi, who has been featured on a number of television shows, will play a nine-hole match and follow it with an hour-long exhibition.

In the "best ball" match the Count will team with LaVerne Carroll, 20-year-old member of the Indian Valley club, against Perrin and Club Champion Fred Volz. Said Perrin, "The Count said he guarantees we will lose to him and his partner. Well, we'll see."

Count Yogi has been widely-acclaimed for his bag of magical tricks on the fairways. Perrin said no admission would be charged to the exhibition.

Champs Tourney To Be Televised

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Finals of the eighth annual $42,000 Las Vegas Tournament of Champions golf matches will be nationally televised by NBC on May 8, network spokesmen announced today.

Sports Commentator Chick Hearn will handle the stroke-by-stroke coverage of the event and Braven Dyer will broadcast color.

RECREATION REPORT

Hunt, Fish For Fun, Not Just For Food

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Extensive plans for recreation in California submitted recently by a committee working to evolve a "master plan" for fun in this state, appear to take hunting and fishing into consideration, but to offer the public a wholly new concept of the purposes of this sport.

For the plan, which is not yet available in book form, contemplates education of the public into the satisfaction of the hunt, and emphasizes less concern with the game bag.

For years now, the game bags of Californians have been dwindling. Time was when a hunter or fisherman could go forth and bring home enough meat to make the trip worth while.

That time is gone forever, with the increase in population, the lessening of the areas in which the public can hunt and fish, and with the increasing number of hunting and fishing licenses issued

The study committee which developed the recreation report, headed by Ed Dolder, who formerly was a public information man for the state division of beaches and parks, and who now is considered, by some people at least, as something of an expert on recreation, apparently recognizes this fact in its suggestion that the joy of hunting be placed over and above the bag limit. The suggestion also indicates there may be an idea in the heads of those responsible for fish and game development that even the present pitiful bag limits be cut down even more.

It may be well to review the antecedents of modern hunting and fishing. In the early days of the nation, the hunter went forth to bring home a deer and furnish meat for the table. The Pilgrim fathers hunted wild turkeys to furnish a Thanksgiving repast.

Over the years, hunting and fishing developed into a so-called "sport" rather than a meat-for-the-table operation, until in this present day and age, the fish and meat actually brought home from a sportsman's trip is probably the most expensive food that a family can buy.

So hunting and fishing has developed into a recreation whereby the sportsman, with a high-powered rifle and perhaps a couple of dogs, pits his skill against an unsuspecting buck deer, which has about as much chance as a snow-ball in the nether regions of escaping, once his trail is whiffed out.

Now the state wants to maintain its all-powerful bureaucracy in educating the public to go into the hunting and fishing areas, and have no concern about the bag limits it might bring home.

A good question is, whether it's worth going forth at all under these circumstances. Why waste time pitting skill against the woods knowledge of the deer, the pheasant, or the quail if the pleasure of the hunt is more important than the game which is brought home for the table?

Like many another early day recreation, hunting and fishing are fast becoming sports of the past in California, and will continue so as population increases. Meanwhile, bureaucracy will continue to attempt to pick up the pieces at the public's expense.

2 Of 3 Boys Trapped On Trestle Die

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A train was thundering toward him at more than 70 miles an hour. Twenty feet above a creek on a railroad trestle, Billy Messer, 9, had only one chance to live.

Trapped on the tracks and killed were Kenneth Ellis, 11, and his brother, Dennis, 7, who lived across the street from Billy in surburban Fridley.

FBI Arrests 2 For Airliner Bomb Jokes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A construction company sales engineer and a mild-mannered glass worker yesterday became the fourth and fifth persons arrested within the past seven days for joking that bombs had been planted on airliners.

Julius Roudolph Radwanski, 38, of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation last night at Columbus, Ohio, for allegedly telling an airline clerk his suitcase was heavy because it had a bomb in it.

Glass worker William A. Grant, 45, of Belmont (San Mateo County) was arrested by the FBI earlier yesterday in San Francisco.

Both were freed on bail. They face possible one-year prison sentences and $1,000 fines if convicted.

Radwanski's bag was searched, but no bomb was found. His Columbus-to-Pittsburgh flight was delayed 32 minutes.

Grant was seeing his wife off on a San Francisco-to-Los Angeles flight when he asked a ticket agent about taking out an insurance policy for his wife. The agent told him his wife would have to sign it. The agent said Grant then commented, "Well, I guess the bomb won't do any good, then."

That flight was held up 33 minutes while Mrs. Grant and her luggage were searched.

Grant is scheduled for a hearing Tuesday, and Radwanski is to appear in U. S. District Court at Columbus Wednesday.

He is being sent to the San Diego Naval Training Center for nine weeks of recruit training.

Wheel, Tire Stolen From Parked Auto

Charles Bruce Moyer of 113 Bolsa avenue, Mill Valley, left his car parked at East Blithedale avenue and Tower drive Tuesday morning to commute to work. When he returned in the evening, he found the right rear of the car resting on its brake drum.

Someone had stolen the wheel and tire worth about $80, he told sheriff's deputies.

Worship Topic For Lutheran Altar Guild

"Worship" is being emphasized in April by the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Peace Lutheran Church, which is located at Tennessee Valley road and Highway 1, Mill Valley.

The league's Altar Guild, which handles all properties pertaining to worship, will present a program at the League's monthly meeting Wednesday.

Topic of the program will be: The History and Biblical Background of the Lutheran Liturgy. Following this topic a corporate communion service will be held. "All ladies of Peace Lutheran Church are welcome to attend this program," said Mrs. George Blackmore, Altar Guild chairman.

Other guild members who will participate in the program are Mesdames Charles Campomenosi, Fred Mauroni, Donald Tauer, Russ Troup, John McPartland, Fred Schmidt, Miss Etta Peterson, and Capt. Marguerite Tussey.

Mrs. Robert Weil, church organist, will also participate by interpreting how music fits into the liturgy.

Lodge Supper Party To Be Wednesday

Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge No. 305 and Mt. Tamalpais Lodge No. 399, IOOF, will give a public pot luck supper and "ham whist party," Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley.

On the committee for the 6:30 p.m. supper will be Mesdames William Roberts, John Luetke and Richard Bennett, and in charge of the 8:30 p.m. whist party will be Frank McKay, Herbert Maxey and Al Hughes.

Proceeds will go to the Odd Fellows' and Rebekahs' blood bank fund.

Tennis Women Make Plans For Tourney

Should there be a wind Tuesday morning, any kite-like objects seen in the sky may be Mill Valley Tennis Clubwomen carried off by the open umbrellas they will be carrying as handicaps in a "Crazy Tennis" Tournament.

Invitations read "Tennis???? —10 a.m.—3 on a side (instead of doubles)—Bring an umbrella."

Planned by women's social chairman Mrs. C. Philip Seymour as the activity to precede the club's regular monthly luncheon, the matches will include players at every level of proficiency. Tennis togs or casual dresses will be order.

Mrs. Melvyn Klyce will be in charge of the unusual tournament, and her assistants will be Mesdames David Stephens, Aubrey Harwood and Eugene Crawford.

Sherry at 12:30 p.m. will precede the 1 o'clock luncheon to be served under the direction of Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Lloyd F. Postel.

Luncheon reservations must be made by noon tomorrow, either with the club managers or Mesdames Semour or Klyce.

New P-TA Formed At Hall School; Tea Is Planned

An installation tea will be held on Thursday, April 21 at 3:15 o'clock in the multi-purpose room of the Henry C. Hall School in Larkspur.

The family of Henry C. Hall has been invited to attend the event. A new P-TA has been formed at the school which has been served this past term by the Larkspur-Corte Madera school unit. This new group will have Mrs. Myron Kaplan as its first president.

Serving with Mrs. Kaplan will be Mrs. Arthur Storhaug as vice president; Mrs. Carl Osterlye as corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jerome Kay, recording secretary; Mrs. John Offenbach, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Easter, auditor; Mrs. Abe Kupperberg, historian; and Mrs. John Lippitt as parliamentarian. Installing the new officers will be Mrs. Kenneth Dunn who is extension chairman for the Ross Valley P-TA.

Besides installation of the new officers, the program will consist of offering for acceptance the by-laws of the new group, and the signing of charter members. A suggestion box will be available at the meeting for anyone wishing to offer ideas for programming, future projects, etc.

Refreshments will be served. Hostesses for the afternoon will be mothers of fourth grade students.

Dessert-Card Party

A dessert-card party which will be held simultaneously in many homes throughout the Belvedere-Tiburon area will be held by St. Hilary Women's Club on Wednesday, June 8 starting at 1 p.m. Co-chairmen will be Mesdames Joseph Keller and J. H. Kinser.

CLEO BARRY WEDS AT HOME RITES

The bride wore a white brocade gown designed with scoop neckline, fitted bodice and full short skirt. Gardenias and forget-me-nots were in her bouquet.

A reception at the home immediately followed the noon ceremony. When the newlyweds left for Lake Tahoe on the honeymoon trip the bride was wearing a small black and white check sheath.

The bride who has another sister, Margo Barry, who resides at home, is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin and is employed by the First Western Bank in San Francisco. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Owens of Port Washington, N.Y.

The new benedict, an employee of Borden's was graduated from Drake and attended College of Marin. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Eling of Kentfield. He has two sisters, Mrs. Larry Vivier of San Anselmo and Geraldine Eling of Kentfield. He is the grandson of Mrs. Rose Mamas of San Francisco.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Barry wore a beige silk suit. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige print dress.

Corte Madera Section Has A Brunch

More than 150 members of the Evening Section of Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club and their guests enjoyed a Sunday morning brunch recently in the sun drenched patio of the Corte Madera Recreation Center with Mrs. Ernest McCutchen as chairman. Mr. McCutchen, the chef, was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stanich, Bob Mason and Andy Vireno.

Proceeds of this annual fund raising project will go to the health and welfare fund for children in the community.

At the recent meeting of the evening section Mrs. Philip Trau was elected chairman; Mrs. McCutchen, co-chairman; Mrs. Richard Mills, secretary; and Mrs. Wilbur Williams, treasurer.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mesdames McCutchen, Peter Fitzhugh, Richard Mills.

Novato Club Bazaar Termed A Success

Eight hundred and forty-eight dollars was cleared by the various groups who participated in the Garden Bazaar put on by the Garden Group of the Novato Community cluz at the Brice Market on April 7-9. The bazaar was so successful that the Garden Group is already planning a similar but larger bazaar for the spring of 1961 and is considering having a one-day sale next fall.

People throughout the community were most generous in their donations as well as their patronage. Mrs. Ray Foster received the $10 award offered by the Garden Group to the largest donator.

Novato Camp Fire Groups Host Dad-Daughter Dinner

It was the fifth annual dinner to be held here and was attended by 200 dads, daughters, Camp Fire Guardians, leaders, and District Board members. Special guests from the Marin County Council were Mrs. Edward Zeller, San Rafael, president; Mrs. Paul Talbot, San Anselmo, and Mrs Hartley Sater, San Anselmo, camp chairmen, and Mrs. Sandra Keene, field director.

After dinner, which each girl provided for father and herself, the special guests were introduced by Howard Dank, chairman of special events. Mrs. Zeller gave a short talk expressing her enthusiasm for the growth of the Camp Fire program in Novato. Mrs. Sater spoke on Day Camp activities for this coming summer and Mrs. Talbot gave the fathers and girls an informative outline of the daily routine at Camp Kilowana, the resident camp on Mt. St. Helena. Mrs. Keene then showed slides taken at the summer camp.

Following this camp information, a program was presented including a skit by the Tam Lo Kon Da Camp Fire Girls, a demonstration by the Ko Pi Ya Camp Fire Girls, songs by the Dancing Blue Birds, the Swans Blue Birds, and the Tulip Blue Birds, dances by the Hummingbird Blue Birds and the Miwok Blue Birds, and a puppet show by the Mea Zo Ton Camp Fire Girls.

Table decorations for the evening were made by the girls including place cards, place mats and center-pieces. These followed the theme chosen for the dinner and resulted in colorful tables and gave a festive air to the evening.

Marin World Wings Auction Set April 20

The Marin Unit of the San Francisco Bay Area Chapter of World Wings International, Inc., (eight-year-old organization of ex-Pan American World Airways stewardesses) will hold its first auction of the year at the home of Mrs. Paul C. Vogelheim, 150 Woodbrine drive, Mill Valley, Wednesday evening, April 20.

Co-chairmen and co-hostesses for the event are Mrs. R. J. Burkhard of Greenbrae and Mrs. Vogelheim. Aiding the North Marin co-chairman is Mrs. R. E. Hall of San Rafael and aiding the South Marin co-chairman is Mrs. M. W. Schoder of Mill Valley Mrs. W. F. Cozad of Novato and Mrs. Thomas H. Kewin (Marin County chairman of World Wings), served on the committee planning the event.

Members will meet at 8 o'clock at a Mill Valley exchange shop (228 E. Blithedale) which is their headquarters for receiving items to be donated directly to Sonoma State Hospital and the Senior Citizens Center in San Rafael. (The purchase of any item put for sale by a member in the shop goes toward aiding Sonoma's Volunteer Services.) The purposes of meeting at the shop will be to familiarize new members with the facilities and to give all members an opportunity to present and discuss more efficient and fruitful means of handling current projects as well as a chance to advance ideas involving future plans.

At 9 o'clock, the group will progress to the home of Mrs. Vogelheim for the auction. Mrs. Vogelheim has had previous experience as an auctioneer at fund raising events so that the evening promises to be both entertaining and financially successful. Members will bring for auction: clothing, jewelry, bric-a-brac, and small furniture, as well as their own creative art productions such as paintings, mosaics, needlework, mobiles and artificial floral arrangements. Half the auction price will be deposited in the group's fund which goes directly to the rehabilitation of teen-age residents of Oak Lodge at Sonoma State Hospital. The other 50 per cent is returned to the member who contributed the article to go toward the purchase of materials and supplies to encourage that member's pursuing her own creative talents toward the production of more items for future auctions. Any items not sold at the auction will be presented for sale by the owner to the Mill Valley exchange shop previously mentioned. Dessert and coffee will follow the auction.

Final Leadership Training Series Will Be April 26

Tuesday morning, April 26, the last formal session will be held of the current leadership training series sponsored by the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters, and the P-TA Council.

The announcement was made by the branch's status of women chairman Mrs. Robert E. Eddy, who has served as coordinator of the series which started last October.

The meeting is set for 10 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Edmond Gross, Mill Valley P-TA Council president.

For the past three months, Dr. Samuel N. Le Count, director of adult education at the College of Marin, has been assisting the group at its bi-monthly sessions and will be the leader at the final one.

He announces that the group will explore the statement that "Individuals show an apathy towards any kind of community action, particularly in the realm of local government."

In addition to the discussion at each session, individual participants have been giving reports on their research. At a recent meeting Mrs. Horace O. Schwartz of the P-TA Council discussed methods of evaluating the work an organization has done.

Using the "Adult Leadership" magazine as a guide, other members have covered different aspects of organization work, according to Mrs. Eddy.

She also reported that the success of the group has prompted plans for another workshop. It will start in the fall, and current participants will continue attending. Invitations will also be extended to newly elected officers and chairmen of the three sponsoring organizations. Further details will be announced.

Garden Party Planned By Women's Club

A garden party is being planned by the St. Hilary's Women's Club to be held at the Belvedere Lagoon home of Mrs. Robin McCrea on Thursday, April 21. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m. followed by a social hour of fun and prizes.

Summer straw hats which have been decorated by the members will be on sale according to Mrs. C. J. McDermott, president. Those attending are asked to bring a cellophane or saran wrapped gift as a donation to the Village Salvage Shop.

Purpose of the affair is to help parishioners become better acquainted. Hostesses will be members who live in Strawberry and Bayview Heights.

St. Brigid's Final Slide Series Set

Two prominent Sausalitans will provide the material for the final "picture show" in the St. Brigid's Guild series that is scheduled for Wednesday April 20 in the Guild Hall of Christ Episcopal Church, Sausalito.

Starting at 8:15 p.m., and open to the public, the program could well be titled "Olympics Re-visited." In two parts, the first will be Marvin Becker's color and sound movie showing the readying of Squaw Valley for the VIII Winter Olympics. Readers of the Independent-Journal will have seen the story of Becker's assignment as official Olympics photographer in last Saturday's Marin Magazine section of the I-J. The 28 minute film has been see by millions and includes sequences filmed during the North American Ski Championships.

The second part of the program comprises the best of Dr. Emmet L. Rixford's color slides taken during the skiing, skating and hockey events while he and Mrs. Rixford were at Squaw Valley.

Mrs. Robert F. Crowell, president of St. Brigid's promiss a treat for those who were unable to make the trip, for those whose viewing was limited to black and white TV, and pleasant memories for those who did attend in person. Mrs. S. C. Stapp, chairman for the evening, has asked Robert Gunn to be master of ceremonies and Carl W. Spring will operate the projectors.

Twin Cities P-TA Installation Tea Planned April 20

The Larkspur-Corte Madera unit of P-TA will hold an Installation Tea on Wednesday, April 20 in the school cafeteria at 3:15 p.m.

The new president will be Mrs. H. C. Stephensen. Other officers to be installed are Mesdames Martin Van den Akker, vice president; Frank Miller, corresponding secretary; Christian Hansen, recording secretary; Gilbert Slusher, treasurer; Wayne Hansen, auditor; Ralph Potter, historian; and Mrs. James Lewis, parliamentarian. Serving as installation officer will be Mrs. Primo Pinotti.

Speaker for the afternoon will be Prof. Gunnar Sausjord, professor at San Francisco State College. Professor Sausjord's topic will be "Comparative Education" in which he will discuss the areas of difference between European and American education.

Garden Section To Tour Arboretum

The Outdoor Art Club Garden Section's monthly meeting Tuesday will be combined with the California Garden Club's day at Strybing Arboretum, Golden Gate Park.

A tour of the arboretum is the main part of the program. Those planning to go are to meet at 10:30 a.m. at the Arboretum information booth, or in case of rain, at the Academy of Sciences at the Morrison Planetarium.

Planned as a "fun affair," will be a contest with unusual plants from the arboretum awarded as prizes for those wearing the best hats of their own design made from any fresh fruits, flowers or vegetables.

Garden section chairman Mrs. Robert Ayers announces that no reservations are necessary but that members should bring a "nose bag" lunch, and coffee will be served.

Those wishing transportation have been requested to call Mrs. Howard Lieben.

Dorcas Circle Plans April 21 Style Show

Against a background of tinted tree branches with crepe paper blossoms, 30 models will show their own creations in the Spring Silhouettes Fashion Show in the Novato Community Methodist Church The event, sponsored by women of the Dorcas Circle, will take place at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 21.

While the show is being presented for the benefit of the church, at the same time it has served as a creative project for circle members. Each model has selected outifts which she has made for herself.

Leading the fashion parade will be Mrs. Betty Farrar, professional model from San Rafael. Other members of the church who are participating include:

Many children's fashions will also be shown this year, with the following young people taking part: Susan Ball, Bobby Means, Paula and Sharon Vincillione, Amy Johnson, Tammy Sheppard, Robin Halpenny, Judith and Jan Burden, Donna and Deirde Anderson, Lynn Cartwright, Charlene and Karen Dougherty, Sharon Bowen, Foncine Grant, and Bobbette Fleishman.

Mrs. Robert Williams will present the commentary during the program, while Mrs. Lowell Swift will provide organ music. Other committees include Mrs. Paul Vincillione and Mrs. William Wilson, coordination; Mrs. Jack Lewis and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, publicity; Mrs. Kenneth Crabtree, Mrs. Ray Dougherty, Mrs. Frank Eaton, refreshments; and Mrs. Robert Harmon and Mrs. Jack Macado, decorations.

Following the show, refreshments will be served in the church social room.

Tennis Club Spring Dance Set April 23

The Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club will be transformed into a "Japanese Garden," when the Belvedere Tennis Club holds its annual spring dance on Saturday, April 25. Decorating the club will be a fountain, parasols and showers of spring flowers according to decorations chairman Mrs. Alexander Tarics.

Invitations to the black tie affair have been sent to 150 members and guests by Mrs. Warren Finke. Mrs. Albert Seidel, in charge of reservations, reports a full house is anticipated.

Other committee heads who are assisting general chairman Mrs. Martin Stuart are Mesdames John Hoefer, Bruce Manheim and Gerald Jampolsky, cocktail and dinner arrangements and James W. Clark, publicity.

Novato Girl Scouts, Brownies Fete Patients At Haven Cottage

Patients at Haven Cottage, Sonoma State Home, were treated to a pre-Easter party Saturday when Girl Scouts and Brownies of Novato presented the children with decorated baskets filled with candy and staged an Easter egg hunt on the grounds of the hospital.

Novato Scouts first became interested in the Sonoma State Home during the Christmas season of 1958. A Friendship Service Project was started in Intermediate Troop 144 at which time the Scouts voted to "adopt" a cottage of 40 girls. Plans were made under the direction of Mrs. John Coulter, Troop Committee chairman, which included cookies, gifts and Yuletide songs.

The Girl Scout Laws in part read, "A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others. A Girl Scout is a friend to all." After permanent adoption of Haven Cottage, Scouts of Troop 144, who were 12 years of age at that time, realized the significance of the Scout Law in connection with the work they were doing. At Sonoma State Hospital the girls could see a real need and could experience the joy of being helpful with those whose capabilities were limited.

AT CHRISTMAS

In preparation for Christmas of 1959, Troop 144 held a Silver Tea to collect money for the purchase of gifts for the cottage which had grown to a total of 64 girls. Scouts of Troop 350, under leadership of Mrs. Henry Thorn, made cookies which were taken to Sonoma by Troop 144 along with other refreshments and gifts. During February of 1960, Troop 144 assisted the girls of Haven Cottage in making valentines and in March they helped the patients with crayon coloring. Girls of Troop 309, under leadership of Mrs. H. B. Farmer, joined Troop 144 in order to give all the patients a manicure. The nail polish was particularly appreciated by a little blind girl who enjoyed the feel of the smooth nail coating.

The following Brownie Scouts made and donated baskets for the recent Easter party: Troop 319, directed by Mrs. Leo Chaiko and Mrs. Milton Rapini; Troop 423, directed by Mrs. A. S. Butti and Mrs. Frank B. Henry Jr.; Troop 263 directed by Mrs. Roy Kanaff and Mrs. Glenn Simmons; Troop 298, directed by Mrs. Louis Skiownek and Mrs. L. A. Herbel; Troop 325, directed by Mrs. Orrie Bennett and Mrs. E. F. Jorgensen; Troop 314, led by Mrs. David Milano, wrapped eggs and tied ham with ribbons for the hunt, and Troops 144 and 309 dyed eggs for the hunt.

Other troops in Novato which have donated baskets to be used in hospital wards are Troop 361 under the co-leadership of Mesdames Ronuls Garskis, Arthur G. Jones and R. W. Parfitt; Brownie Troop 294, directed by Mrs. Amos Brown and Mrs Robert Sherman and Brownie Troop 212, under the leadership of Mrs Roland Vetter and Mrs. Robert Morse.

IS COORDINATOR

In addition to being Committee chairman for Troop 144, Mrs. Coulter also acts as coordinator for Sonoma State Hospital activities among all Girl Scouts in Novato. Mrs. H. B. Farmer coordinates community activities of Novato for the hospital. Troop 144, under leadership of Mesdames Eugene DeBrecht, Ray Patterson and Earle Stewart, visits Haven Cottage once a month to visit with the patients. Members of the troop are Linda Cole, Gail Coulter, Kathy DeBrecht, Jean Fagnani, Norene Jordan, Sheila Locke, Cathy Owens, Jane Patterson, Marie San Filippo, Peggy Sorenson, Jackie Stewart, Charlene Jones, Dorothy Wigner, Judy Stewart, Lee Zepp, Judy Stinar and Marion Mahaffy.

Mrs. Nelson King President Of Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae

At a recent meeting of the Marin Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae held at the San Anselmo home of Mrs. Kenneth Dunn, Mrs. Austin Burch, outgoing president, handed the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Nelson King of San Anselmo. Other new officers assuming their duties this month are: Mrs. William Findeisen, vice president; Mrs. Stanley Borgus, recording secretary; Mrs. James Mahan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dunn, treasurer; Mrs. Eugene Monceau and Mrs. Robert Banfield, alumnae recommendations co-chairmen; Mrs. Victor Rowe, Panhellenic representative; Mrs. Robert Sisler magazine chairman; Mrs. Merritt Robinson, publicity chairman and Crescent correspondent.

The officers have planned an interesting year including a barbecue in early June to be at the Allen-Olingers' home, a salad luncheon and swimming party in September, and a few night meetings with programs.

A monthly bridge group which includes husbands has proved popular this year. The next party will take place at the Kent Woodlands home of the Peter Phelps' on Friday, April 22 at 8 p.m.

The regular 12:30 dessert meeting will be Tuesday, April 19, at the Greenbrae home of Mrs. John Neuenberg.

Hostess duties will be shared by Mrs. Arnold Gustavson. Philanthropy projects will be discussed. This year in addition to giving money for camperships to Dr. Olney's Diabetic Camp in the Sierra, the group will again staff the Coffee and Iced Tea Booth at the Sunny Hills Grape Festival. The national philanthropy of the sorority is maintaining two camps for underprivileged children, one in British Columbia, the other in Colorado.

Any Gamma Phis are welcome to the bridge group or regular meetings and may make reservations with the hostesses.

Final Plans Given For Guild Dance

Plans are progressively real beat for the "Party Pad" dinner dance to be staged by the Sleepy Hollow Guild of Sunny Hills at their annual dinner dance, 7:30 p.m., Saturday, April 30. Locale will be the Sleepy Hollow Center.

Additional committee members include: Mesdames Frank Spicer and Russell Chatham, hors d'oeuvres; Mesdames Harry Allen and Edward Ranahan, entertainment; Mesdames Harold Parish and John Gaylord, arrangements; Mrs. Peter Helms, prizes; Mrs. Lyle Bramson, refreshments; Mrs. Russell La Belle, press relations, assisted by Mesdames George Peet and Harold Lang.

Tickets for the "Party Pad" may be obtained for the first time for friends of Sunny Hills and the Guild, as always before the party has been for members only. They may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Ballachey, 1320 Butterfield road, San Anselmo, or from Mrs. Alfred Porter, 5 Luzanne Circle, San Anselmo. Reservations are limited, so, first come, first served.

Proceeds will go towards support of Sunny Hills Grape Festival to be held for the 61st time this first Saturday in October, at the grounds in San Anselmo.

MV Branch AAUW To Be Represented On Meet Program

The Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women has been honored for the second consecutive year with an invitation to be represented on the program at the state division's annual convention, according to president Mrs. Joseph C. Brewster.

Publicity chairman Mrs. Ross S. Shade will participate in a publicity roundtable on Thursday evening, May 12, opening day of the three-day convention to be held in San Jose.

Mrs. Shade, a Connecticut College philosophy graduate, will discuss "Planning for the Year." She considers the invitation an "appropriate swan song, since July 1 will mark the end of my fifth year as an AAUW branch publicity chairman."

She said that the topic assigned her will "prove how valuable hindsight can be, because I could have done a better job knowing what I do now."

Mrs. Brewster said that branch convention delegates will be named at a later date.

Hill Intermediate P-TA Hears Talk On Scholarships

"Why be so concerned with scholarships? Because there is a need to urge youngsters on," said Mrs. Ruth Mayo, head of the Novato High School counseling department, who spoke at the Hill Intermediate P-TA recently to give parents information on scholarships.

Mrs. Mayo said there were two kinds of scholarships, those for money, to be used as the student sees fit, and those for tuition to a particular college or for particular training. There are national scholarships which are highly competitive, and local ones which are less competitive.

During the business meeting before the program the installation of officers was made. Those installed were Mrs. W. J. Groves, president; Mrs. J. F. Giari, first vice president; Robert Paterson, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Henshillwood, treasurer; Mrs. Vernon Hales, secretary; Mrs. George Pelmear, historian; John Laycock, auditor; and Mrs. Charles Coniglio, parliamentarian.

The meeting was opened by the Tam Lo Kon Da Camp Fire Girls giving the flag salute, and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mesdames Don Murray, R. E. Thomas, and K. E. Baldwin.

Junior Museum League Spreads 'Easter Dreams' At Focus Show

Not everyone was dreaming about the Giants at Candlestick Park on Tuesday! A happy group of mothers and children, plus a generous sprinkling of aunts, grandmothers and grandfathers, too, were enjoying "Easter Dreams," an hour of fashion and fun at Rickey's popular Fashion Focus luncheon honoring the Junior Museum Service League.

Spreading the Easter dream dust along with Peter Rabbit were seven attractive Junior Museum Service League members, one sub-teen daughter and two high-schoolers, delightfully outfitted by a charming Belvedere shop to spell spring success whether sunning or swimming, sailing or shopping or sallying forth after dark on important evenings.

Other assorted children from four to 12 were completely Easter dreamy in the newest wash and wear delights for Sunday time or funday time selected by Bobbie Bell to keep young ladies and gentlemen always "best dressed."

Tuesday's "Easter Dreams" really began at the entrance where black and white bunnies lunched on lettuce nodding a reminder that Marin's Junior Museum is a fascinating place to learn more about the wonders of nature and wildlife in our county.

Not just at Easter time, but the year round the Junior Museum Service League is busy raising funds to supplement the yearly Jr. Museum budget so that many more children and adults can develop a deep appreciation for the wonderful world around them.

Special Fashion Focus guest was Peter Rabbit (known around her regular habitat at Katherine Branson School as Barbie Scott) who hopped around to give Easter goodies to the children delighted to discover that "seconds" were completely permissible at the smorgasbord.

Fashionable Easter dreams included:

"Easter Sunday," the perfect day for Fred Rothschild's green gold silk suit, with patent accessories for Mrs. J. W. Scott, squired by son Charles and son Richard.

"Travel Time," the wrinkle free answer for Mrs. Clyde Stevens, a delightfully flared skirt in Midriff Magic's new lacy look Arnel jersey, elasticized waistband to cinch the matching sleeveless blouse; traveling companion, daughter Shelly, pretty in blue and white silk cotton sashed, and edged with lace trim.

"Town Time," Franklin Wraps heavy wool jersey, jacket, short and saucy, to top an Acrilan classicly pleated ivory sheath, Mrs. Jack Countryman to show it becomingly.

"Come for Dinner," a twirling skirt of white pique dropping from a square necked bodice in a contemporary swirl of charcoal, spice and cinnamon, Mrs. Marion Scott to model it with daughter, Pamela, a beguiling picture in pink cotton batiste with pink eyelet apron and fetching hat.

"Spring Dance," delighting the stag line, Darby Stevens, a student at Miss Hamlin's, waltzing in Lorrie Deb's delightful summer formal, the white, almost strapless, bodice a pretty foil for a skirt bordered in yellow and brown toned poppies.

Next Tuesday, "Spring Fever" invades Rickey's at the Fashion Focus luncheon to be spread with the fashion flair of the Blessed Sacrament Women's Guild and fashions for a frolicking spring from a San Rafael style shop. Reservations may be made by calling Rickey's.

Planners Eye Slope Policy In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Planning Commission, meeting in the firehouse recreation room because the city council chambers were taken by the people taking part in the election tabulation, discussed a slope policy for Mill Valley Tuesday night.

The policy, concerning subdivision lots which are increased in width and size according to increases in natural ground slope, came before the commission in March in relation to the Garden Hill property of jeweler Manuel Gomez.

Gomez was unable to attend Tuesday night's meeting and asked that the discussion be continued until April 26. This was so done. The commission recommended to the city council that subdivisions containing five or more lots be held up pending the outcome of discussions on the slope policy.

The commission also:

1. Granted a use permit to Stenmac, Inc. for establishment of a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. station on a portion of the American Legion property at 465 Miller avenue. The commission continued a request for subdivision of the same property into two lots.

2. Denied request for a variance to Spiliotis and Co. of San Rafael to permit construction of a 25-unit apartment project at 230 Miller avenue.

3. Approved plans for a plumbing office and shop for Dill and Sederberg at 290 Camino Alto.

ROOM FOR LAMPS—The Bowman Electric Co. show room is decorated and carpeted in a neutral background to display this array of electrical fixtures. All shapes and shades of woods, plastics and even baskets are included in this group. Shown also are two types of air conditioners.

Bowman Electric Firm Opens New Quarters

Owner Joel P. Bowman said complete installation of fixtures and equipment in the new building is still about a week away, but the show room is completed and open to the public.

Bowman moved his firm from 5768 Paradise Drive in Corte Madera because of the need for larger quarters, he said.

A native of Tennessee, Bowman has been a Corte Madera resident since 1923 and is a graduate of Marin schools. He became a journeyman electrician in 1940 and a licensed electrical contractor in 1946, establishing Bowman Electric Co. in the latter year.

From one truck and a helper, Bowman Electric Co. now has 16 service trucks and 30 employees. Four of these trucks are occupied with emergency repair work throughout the county. Eight trucks are engaged in installation of electrical equipment in new residences, and four trucks in new commercial work.

Bowman estimated that his company installs 60 per cent of the electrical work in new Marin residences, averaging about seven residences per day.

A new 24-hour service, seven days a week, is now being installed and service telephone numbers will be announced in Novato, San Rafael, Corte Madera and Mill Valley, he said. This service will be available for any electrical emergency, large or small.

South Marin Scouts Set Jubilee Camporee

The overnight competitive camp is expected to draw about 275 Boy Scouts from a dozen troops in Southern Marin. The camporee is part of the national program of conducting an annual outing celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scouts, according to Roy Whitford, Marin Council staff adviser to the district.

Competitive events, particularly a hike which will feature stops at which Scout patrols, composed of five to eight boys, will be tested in basic camping skills, will highlight the camporee. Explorer Scouts from Posts 2 and 34 will act as judges at the testing points, Dale Tupper, 133 Locust ave., Mill Valley, adviser to Post 34, announced.

The 40th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense) which has headquarters at Ft. Barry, made arrangements for the use of the Ft. Cronkhite area by the Scouts. Special hiking trails have been established by the Explorers. Along the trails the Scouts will be tested on measuring distances without using measuring instruments, rope lashings, fire building, map reading, compass reading and first aid.

The hike will take place on Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

From 2 to 3:30 p.m., guided tours of the 40th Brigade's Nike Hercules air defense missile base at Ft. Cronkhite will be conducted for the Scouts.

Invited civic and community leaders will join with the Scouts and Scouters to participate in the Golden Jubilee Camporee. This event will feature troop competitive skits, songs, stunts and a special anniversary skit, according to Tupper. "Parents are also invited to the campfire ceremonies," he said.

Sunday will be highlighted by a game period—the "Fun-O-Kee" — appropriate religious services, a fire fighting demonstration and awards to participating patrols.

"After that, at about 2 p.m., it'll be up to the Scouts to get tired scoutmasters home," Whitford said.

Veteran Telephone Worker Retires

A 42-year telephone career concluded here with the retirement of D. E. MacDonald, veteran Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. repair foreman in San Francisco.

MacDonald retired on Bell System pension April 1, after having accumulated telephone service dating back to 1917.

He started his phone career in Erie, Pa., and came to work for Pacific Telephone in September of 1945.

MacDonald lives at 1798 Grant avenue, Novato, with his wife, Loraine.

Marin Doctor To Talk On Tranquilizer Drugs

Dr. Edward E. Shev of San Rafael, head of the encephalography department at Marin General Hospital, will speak on toxic effects of tranquilizer drugs to the 12th annual meeting of the American Academy of Neurology April 30 in Miami Beach, Fla.

He has recently returned from Europe where he presented a paper at a medical meeting in Marseilles, France.

Youth Practicing With Fishing Pole Snags Automobile

A 12-year-old Novato boy, who said he was just practicing how to cast with his fishing pole, snagged a shiny new car on Chase street in Novato Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bennie M. McKay of 671 Peach street complained to sheriff's deputies that the boy became "sassy" when she stopped to reprimand him. Sgt. Edward Levine said that her 1960 sedan showed small scratches on the grill and right front fender where the line, leader and sinker landed.

Sergeant Levine reported that the boy's mother promised to punish the boy. She explained it was an accident, and her son was just practicing how to cast. Officers told the boy to practice his casting off the public highways.

Today is Thursday, April 14, the 105the day of the year, with 261 more to follow in 1960.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the first abolition society was organized in Philadelphia with Benjamin Franklin as president.

In 1828, the first edition of Noah Webster's Dictionary was published.

In 1865, John Wilkes Booth crept into an unguarded box at Ford's Theater in Washington and shot President Abraham Lincoln, wounding him fatally.

Here's Proper Way To React To Letters From The Teacher

What do you do about letters-from-the-teacher?

You know the letters? They start, "I regret to tell you that your boy again is causing trouble in my classroom." I've sent such letters. I've received 'em. They make me uncomfortable. You, too?

Some parents always jump to their son's defense. The teacher is wrong. She has it in for their boy. He couldn't have done those things.

Are you like that? I hope not. If so, you are your son's worst enemy.

Other folks go to the opposite extreme. They take a strap and start walloping before they investigate. The teacher is always right, and their child wrong in their minds. They whip first, and ask questions afterward. That's not right, either.

I hope you'll take letters-from-the-teacher seriously. But I hope you'll talk things over with your son before you punish. Try to be fair-minded. More than 99 times out of 100 you'll find he is guilty. But he should see that you are trying to be just. Then draw your own conclusion. Punish him if it seems necessary. You want him to be a good citizen. You don't want him to cause trouble at school. Take appropriate steps to guide him.

If you conclude the teacher has made a mistake? Then go see her. Try to find a polite way to tell her. If you aren't too defensive you may be able to get your point across.

Teachers are human. Once in a while they misjudge children—even our sons.

(A) Talk with your doctor about these suggestions: (1) Have a regular mealtime. Give your boy good food, properly prepared. Let him have a reasonable period in which to eat. (2) If he refuses, try not to fret. But don't let him eat anything until the next meal. He'll come around.

Safe School Bus Drivers Honored

Seven school bus drivers with a total of 35 years of accident-free service behind them were honored yesterday by the North Marin Assn. of Insurance Agents at a luncheon at Novato Joe's.

Receiving certificates and pins attesting to their records of safe driving were:

From the San Jose School District, Ann Avilla, eight years without an accident, and Lois Catteyson, five years.

From the Novato Unified School District, Lena M. Blaski, nine years; Florence D. Price, seven years; Margaret L. Anhorn, three years; Antone A. Mello, two years Valerie E. Hansen, one year.

During this time, the drivers have maintained records free from claims of any kind, pointed out William E. Cole, servicing agent for the Novato district and chairman of the meeting.

Guests of honor included Novato Supt. William J. J. Smith and representatives of the San Jose and Novato school district boards.

The San Jose district driver awards were made by Carl Hall, safety engineer for the Royal Indemnity Co. Awards to the Novato district drivers were given by Phillip W. Herman, Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. safety engineer.

Marinites To Be Judges In Contest

Two persons from Marin have been selected to serve on a six-judge panel to select Bank of America Achievement Award zone winners from among 32 public high school seniors in Solano, Marin, Napa and Sonoma counties.

4-H Club Winners

The Novato Aggie 4-H Club has won $30 for placing second in a national Farm-City Week contest. Sponsored by the National 4-H Club News, the contest was based activities during a week in November.

Semiconductors: They're Small, But A Big Industry

There already is more than what might be called "normal" talk about semiconductors in Marin. There is going to be a lot more, because the Fairchild Semi-Conductor Corp. will have a plant in operation this fall in San Rafael.

Business Week magazine recently carried a lengthy special report on the semiconductor industry—an industry that has annual sales of half a billion dollars.

Semiconductors were invented about a dozen years ago and the industry's basic recipes were written by Bell Telephone Laboratories. They are small devices. Some are small as peas; some are so small seven of them can be placed on the face of a dime. It is an industry full of brains, with more persons carrying doctorate degrees than in any other industry in the nation.

Semiconductors at first were crude transistors—a device to control and amplify electrical signals—but now are so refined that they can be used in everything from midget radios to mammoth computers.

In this, the fastest growing part of the electronics industry, innovation makes for growth, and improvement depends on personnel and refinement of old techniques. It is an expanding business in an expanding market and profits are high.

In a plain electrical conductor, current flows through a copper wire like water through a pipe, but in a semiconductor electrons can be—in a sense—frozen. By addition of energy, current will flow again. The semiconductor's ability to carry current, however, depends on impurities.

There are two types. In the N-type, the semiconductor contains an impurity the atoms of which have an extra electron. Perhaps only four out of five of the atoms of an impurity will fit into a semiconductor made of silicon. The extra atom is available to carry current.

In the P-type there is an impurity that contains one less than enough atoms to "stick." This leaves a hole roughly equivalent to positive charges and will absorb an electron, then reappear. By jumping along, electrons carry current.

Most semiconductors are of the type that contain a crystal of both N-type and P-type regions. This brings up a device called a diode. This is a one-way electrical gate. Inside a semiconductor crystal which has an impurity there is a "junction" where the impurity changes from N-type to P-type. Current in one direction puts a negative charge on the P-type crystal and a positive charge on the N-type. Extra electrons are pulled away from this "junction" area, but when the current is reversed electrons will flow toward the "junction," permitting current to pass.

Then we get to the transistor. This is a sandwich. The two outer layers are either both P-type or N-type, and the center is the opposite type of these. No current can flow from the top to the bottom layer, except when a small amount of current is injected into the center layer.

The result of this is that a bridge is created permitting a much larger current to flow from top to bottom. This process is known as amplification—one of the big things a semiconductor does—and the current can be increased up to 40,000 times.

Semiconductors, or to be more accurate, semiconductor components — transistors and diodes and the like—started out because there was a crisis in the electronic industry. Business Week quotes Dr. Aniel Noble, executive vice president of Motorola, Inc., as saying "equipment had to have so many components of limited reliability that the total system's reliability was zero—it wouldn't work."

Semiconductors have, in many ways, taken the place of the vacuum tube, hailed as quite a discovery in its day.

The market today includes orders from the military that represent about half the new industry's income. Thousands of transistors may go into a single missile. On the civilian side, the little units are vital, and compared to vacuum tubes cheap, for computers. The semiconductors can do a job that would require literally thousands of bulky tube parts.

In time, semiconductors may be used to eliminate interconnections or to transform a radio chassis from a big collection of parts to something the size of a thimble. Big collections of circuits may be combined into an arrangement called "solid state" circuits—elements that can control current without moving parts, heated filaments or vacuum gaps.

Research built the industry and the starter was the Bell laboratories. Early transistors worked but scientists were not sure how, and the first ones were weak and fragile. Metallurgists and chemists were working with something that one of them said was "like trying to separate a pinch of salt evenly distributed through a trainload of sugar when you didn't even know the impurity was salt."

By 1951, an improved transistor was made to work. There was another breakthrough three years later when a way was found to purify germanium, a metal used in some semiconductor manufacture. Ways were found, too, of improving the "sandwich," and in 1955, the diffused base—or mesa—transistor was developed. Under a microscope little mounds left by an etching process look like the flattened hills or mesas of western deserts.

Mechanization has increased yield at factories, and factories and companies have increased.

In the Bay Area, the Shockley Transistor Corp. provided the brains and men for another company: the Fairchild Semiconductor Corp. that is building a plant in San Rafael.

Four years ago, William O. Shockley, one of the three Nobel prize-winning inventors of the transistor, set up on his own after leaving Bell. He gathered young scientists, but in 1957, eight of Shockley's young Ph.D.s, somewhat unsettled under what they called the company's "stultifying pace" moved out.

Under the leadership of Dr. Robert N. Noyce, they got financial backing from Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp. which wanted to diversify its manufacturing. Fairchild Semiconductor began to make money in 1958, and last year sales were more than seven million dollars.

Recently, there was a similar movement within Fairchild. One of the employees, who worked there only a year, took with him eight Fairchild people when he left to form Rheem Semiconductor, a division of Rheem Manufacturing Co. A factory was built near Fairchild on the peninsula. Fairchild has filed a suit against some of its former employees saying they took with them some confidential material.

Both firms are turning out silicon products.

GLORIOUS VIEW
Level Knoll-Top

Within TOUCHIN' distance of the stars, yet within WALKIN' distance to grammar and high school. Custom-built, this well-laid-out ranch home of 3 bedrooms and 2 baths is only five years old. Central hall plan, family room with double fireplace and sliding glass doors to patio area that is nicely landscaped for minimum care. Kitchen is large and has an unusual number of natural wood cabinets. So "liveable" you will want to start arranging your furniture in it the moment you step in. For you who love a view but don't want to be remote, this home has everything.

Ross Players Rehearsing 'Sabrina Fair'

Rehearsals are under way for the Ross Valley Players' third major production of the season, "Sabrina Fair," with John King as director. It will open for four weekends starting April 28 at the Barn of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The play, a four-act comedy, concerns itself principally with Sabrina Fairchild, daughter of the wealthy Larrabee family's chauffeur. After an absence of several years, she returns from Paris to the estate and proceeds to have a profound effect upon each member of the Larrabee family.

Set designer is Jack Lee. Dick Webster is stage manager.

Marine Corps To Close S.F. Offices

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Offices here for the Marine Corps Department of the Pacific will be closed in June for economic reasons, the department announced yesterday.

The administrative headquarters is commanded by Maj. Gen. Francis M. McAlister. He has a staff of 94 Marines and four civilians.

Most functions now assigned to the San Francisco office will be assigned to Washington, D. C. Others will be transferred to Treasure Island and to the 12th Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment district, San Francisco.

Reserve Squadron To Hold Air Force Night

The 9364th Air Reserve Squadron will hold an open house Air Force Night starting at 7:45 p.m., April 20, at Bermuda Palms, San Rafael.

Lt. Col. O. R. Street of San Anselmo, commander of the squadron, said parents and young men interested in the Air Force Academy will be shown a film on the school.

Marin's Share Of Tax Funds Raised

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—State Controller Alan Cranston announced today he has apportioned $76,843,122—half to the 58 counties and half to the 363 cities—from motor vehicle license fees.

The apportionment was an advance distribution of 75 per cent of the estimated total of fees which the state will collect during the six-month period ending May 31.

Marin County received $310,745, as compared with $307,501 for the same six-month period of 1959, ending May 31.

Apportionments to Marin County cities included: San Rafael $58,003; Belvedere $6,202; Corte Madera $18,602; Fairfax $16,496; Larkspur $18,356; Mill Valley $33,140; Novato $50,910; Ross $8,431; San Anselmo $41,065, and Sausalito $20,006.

State, Federal Agencies Join In Urging Pt. Reyes Park

CROWD ON HAND FOR HEARING —Olney Hall of College of Marin was packed for today's hearing on a Senate subcommittee on the proposal to create a national seashore area on the Pt. Reyes Peninsula. Behind table on platform are (from left) Rep. Clement W. Miller (D-Corte Madera), Sen. Clair M. Engle (D-Red Bluff), Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), Richard Callahan, subcommittee secretary, and George L. Collins of San Anselmo, regional director of planning for the National Park Service. (Independent-Journal photo)

A national seashore area on the Pt. Reyes Peninsula is economically feasible and would annually attract more than 2,100,000 visitors to Marin for a day's visit and another quarter of a million for an overnight or vacation stay, a Senate subcommittee was told today by the National Park Service.

Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), chairman of the subcommittee, presided at the hearing before more than 250 spectators in Olney Hall at College of Marin.

George L. Collins of San Anselmo, National Park Service regional planning chief, gave the interior and insular affairs subcommittee of the Senate public lands committee, the tentative economic feasibility report. He said that, as now planned, 53,000 acres would be needed for the project. Of this amount, 32,000 acres would be acquired solely for public use and 21,000 would be available for lease back to cattle and dairy ranchers.

Collins said 15 dairy ranches with 7,000 head of dairy cattle, and 10 beef cattle ranches with 3,500 head of cattle are included in the proposed park area. About half of the dairy land and half of the beef cattle land could continue operating under the park service's proposal, he said.

Oyster beds, an oyster cannery and three existing commercial fisheries also would be retained, he said.

Taxes paid on the property during 1958-59 totaled $68,696, he declared. Of this amount $36,089 is within the area which would be proposed as continuing in ranching.

"The economic survey so far indicates that the lands which would be removed from the tax rolls . . . would not necessarily result in increased tax burdens to other property owners," said Collins.

The project "is sound economically, socially and in every way," he said, "and we are dedicated to its establishment."

Collins spoke after Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service from Washington, D.C., reviewed and recommended the plan which would preserve the "intrinsic natural beauties of this area." These values "are, from the national point of view, of such natural and historical importance as to far outweigh the value of the area for subdivisions and unintegrated commercial use," said Wirth.

Experience in other areas indicated that assessed valuation in the vicinity of a park increased sharply, Wirth claimed. At the Cape Hatteras seashore area on the East Coast, the total assessed value of land within the county of the park increased 125 per cent from 1950 to 1958, he said.

He said the seashore project for Pt. Reyes offers the "greatest opportunity for the eco-

Larkspur Girl, 2, Drowns In Lake

Tragedy Occurs As Mother Dozes Nearby

A quiet family outing in the hills near San Quentin ended in tragedy yesterday afternoon when a 2-year-old Larkspur girl fell into Tub Lake and drowned while her mother dozed about 15 feet from the edg of the lake.

Arthur L. Poganski, foreman of the Ross Valley sewage treatment plant, dived into six feet of water to retrieve the body of Anna Maria Dorigo, then tried mouth-to-mouth respiration without success.

The mother, Mrs. A. J. Dorigo of 330 West Baltimore avenue, Larkspur, told Deputy Sheriff George Barnes she and another woman went to the lake with their children for an outing. They lay down near the lake with Anna Maria between them. The child was drinking from a bottle and dozed off. Mrs. Dorigo's two older children, Leroy, 13, and Robert, 11, went into the hills to play.

When Mrs. Dorigo awoke, Maria was gone. She called the other children and began a search, then called the sheriff for help about 3 p.m.

Deputy Barnes began an immediate search, together with Poganski and Gordon and Albert Von Der Werth, brothers who operate a shingle mill off Sir Francis Drake boulevard near the Hutchinson Quarry.

Poganski, an ex-Marine, dived into the lake near the spot where the women had been sleeping. He immediately came up with the girl's body.

Raccoon Bites Boys, Held For Rabies Study

A raccoon which nipped the fingers of two San Anselmo boys last night was under observation today at Marin County Humane Society for possible rabies.

Mrs. R. H. Hybert of 189 The Alameda said her son, Billy, 10, and a neighbor boy, Bruce Zaro, 9, of 162 The Alameda, captured the raccoon last night in the hills of San Anselmo. They used a burlap bag. Sometime during the capture, Billy said, he was nipped on the left hand, and so was Bruce.

Mrs. Hybert said her husband was taking Billy to a hospital in San Francisco today for treatment. She said she did not see the animal herself, but from descriptions given by the boys, the raccoon appeared normal. The youngsters said the 'coon got away from them once, but they recaptured it.

U.S. To Offer Builders Land Eyed For Park

Some of the land wanted by the state for development as a park at the Golden Gate will be offered for sale to subdividers, the General Services Administration announced today.

But another tract of land will be offered to the state at a discount, said George Phillips, regional commissioner.

Some 130 acres at Ft. Baker, east of Highway 101 between the Waldo tunnels and the Golden Gate Bridge, has been declared by the services administration "too valuable" to be used as a park.

Phillips confirmed an announcement from Washington by Harold J. Powers, former California lieutenant governor and now deputy administrator of GSA.

The state Legislature last month approved the expenditure of $250,000 to buy the land at Ft. Baker and 161 acres at adjacent Ft. Cronkhite and develop a park at the Golden Gate. The site acquisition money was based on an estimate of 50 per cent of the mar-

Kidnapers Silent As Deadline Passes

PARIS (UPI) — The 48-hour deadline for the safe return of kidnaped Eric Peugeot, 4, passed today, and the brutal language of the $100,000 ransom note raised new fears for the life of the heir to an automobile empire.

"I am at the end of my rope," said the boy's father, Roland Peugeot, 34. "Up to now I have had no news of my child. I repeat, I have no news. Only one solution remains: To wait and hope that I shall recover my child safe and sound."

Peugeot, vice president of the 300-million-dollar a year Peugeot automobile enterprises, was prepared to pay the $100,000 under any terms proposed by the kidnapers. But hours passed and he and his distraught wife, Colette, heard nothing.

Eric was kidnaped Tuesday from the playground of the Saint Cloud country club on the outskirts of Paris where he was playing with his brother and some friends. The kidnapers left a ransom note demanding $100,000 within 48 hours if he was to be seen alive again.

Details of the ransom note made public today showed that the man who kidnaped the boy and fled in a car with a blond male accomplice was violently anti-rich, a man with a chip on his shoulder who sounded as if he would stop at nothing.

"You are a member of the filthy rich," it said. "You must cough up 50 million francs ($100,000) if you ever want to see the kid alive again. Above all, not a word to the police or the newspapers."

It promised that instructions would follow. There have been three telephone calls, all by a man with a husky voice, but early tonight there had been no indication the money had ben paid. Police were holding off for a reasonable period.

The father went on a nationwide radio and television hookup last night to appeal to the unknown kidnapers: "Return my son to me. I shall not prefer any charges against you."

Nicasio Dam Low Bid Far Under Estimate

A state of Washington contracting combine undershot estimates by nearly a million dollars with a low bid of $1,780,569 for the Marin Municipal Water District's Nicasio dam project, it was revealed today.

The crucial point had to do with highway construction, for which the bid turned out to be $952,775 as compared with an engineer's estimate by the county of 1,625,546.

Final award will be made by the district's board of directors next Monday at 4 p.m., it was decided at a meeting last night when eight bids were opened. Even the highest bid was $2,376,836, still well under the total engineers' estimate of $2,709,121.

The low bid came from Cherf Brothers, Inc., Sandkay Construction Inc., and Cheney Construction Co., jointly.

All told there were some 90 items to be considered, according to William R. Seeger, general manager for the district, but they summarized into five sections in which the low bid compared with engineer's estimate as follows:

Dam embankment: $318,314

Bomber Lands Safely After Engines Fail

A B57 bomber suffered failure of both engines yesterday at an "extremely high altitude" over Hamilton Air Force Base, but landed safely at the base after making an "air start" of the engines while gliding at 9,000 feet.

The plane, one of several recently stationed at Hill Air Force Base, Utah, for use as target planes for Hamilton interceptors, was on an altitude training mission when the engine failure occurred.

The pilot, 1st Lt. W. W. Dodd, said he could not reveal his exact altitude at the time of the engine failure since it was classified information. However, he was wearing a pressure suit which is required for flights over 50,000 feet.

Dodd said such a failure is not unusual at high altitudes when there is turbulence in the air. The failure, he said, was caused by stalling of the plane's compressors.

NATURE AT PRETTIEST

Solons Impressed By Beauty Of Pt. Reyes

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Nature put on her prettiest dress at Pt. Reyes yesterday for a U. S. Senate subcommittee investigating the advisability of turning the peninsula into into a national seashore area.

As the party, headed by Sens. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah) and Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), approached the peninsula in two military helicopters, a veil of fog edged the shore and sent fingers of thin grey toward the interior.

But as the two olive drab flying bananas swung over the area being considered for the federal park, the fog lifted, clearing showing the bright green fields, the dark green forests, the white cliffs of Drake's Bay and deep blue and golden sands of the shoreline, the birds, and, in several places, seals cavorting in the water below.

The two helicopters, which carried the party of about 20 persons from San Francisco International Airport, flew over Bolinas, then followed the coastline to Drake's Bay. The whirlybirds circled Drake's Estero, continued along the coastline around the lighthouse on the tip of the point, and then the long straight beach to Tomales Point.

Heading south again, the 'copters flew over Tomales Bay, then over Bear Valley ranch and the heavily timbered area south and west of the ranch houses.

Here the senators got a look at one reason for proposing the park. Blue smoke from a dozen logging fires filled the skies and the smell of burning wood filtered into the helicopters.

One hillside looked like it was ablaze, but a closer inspection showed only several fires in which loggers were burning the residue of slash from their operations. The trees around the area were almost completely eliminated.

The two whirlybirds settled down in a green pasture on the Bear Valley ranch. Senator Moss and most of the party, including Rep. Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera and Conrad J. Wirth, director of the National Park Service, got into five cars for a land inspection.

But Senator Byrd, who had altered his schedule at the last

Air, Sea Units Rush To Aid Of Overturned Boat

Two rescue helicopters and a Coast Guard boat competed yesterday afternoon to help two Vallejo painters whose skiff overturned in surf half a mile off the Bolinas lagoon.

First on the scene was a Coast Guard whirly-bird from the Coast Guard Air Station at San Francisco International Airport. Another aircraft was sent from Hamilton Air Force Base but it turned back on learning all was well, as did the Coast Guard boat Ewing from San Francisco.

Gilbert Skog, 30, and Clifford Vintiss, 33, had been fishing for bass when their boat capsized. In an effort to help another boat, occupied by Rev. Frank L. Isky, minister of the Bolinas Presbyterian Church, and Tom Blanchard, garage mechanic, also overturned.

All four were plodding in through the surf when the Coast Guard helicopter arrived, sized things up, and set down on the shore sand.

Vintiss was sent off to a nearby house for dry garments. Skog, suffering from shock and exhaustion, was taken aboard the helicopter and flown to a heliport maintained by the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco. Rev. Isky and Blanchard made their own way home.

Skog was kept in the hospital overnight, pronounced in good condition this morning, and was to be sent home today.

Satellite Success Boosts U.S. Stock

He was talking about Transit I-B, America's third successful space experiment in a little over a month.

"We're not completely satisfied," added Brig. Gen. Robert Greer, "because the orbit was not exactly the way we wanted it. But not long ago we would have been glad to get it up at all."

265 POUNDS

The 265-pound navigational satellite was rammed into orbit yesterday morning from Cape Canaveral, Fla., by a Thor-Able-Star rocket. It may pave the way for a network of transit satellites that could give ships, submarines and airplanes accurate position fixes in any weather, day or night, anywhere in the world.

Greer is attached to the office of the assistant Air Force chief of staff for guided missiles. His exuberant reaction to Transit I-B was matched by scientists at Cape Canaveral.

SCIENTISTS PLEASED

"We've been living under the shadow of the Russian sputnik and luniks too long," one said. "Our recent successes should put us back in the sunlight."

Another scientist commented, "Pioneer V, Tiros and Transit (all launched in the last 33 days) are highly advanced space devices. All are functioning with a spectacular degree of reliability and are providing valuable information.

"What strikes me is the amazing scope of the American space program in contrast with the surprising lack of it in the Russian program."

The Soviet Union, he noted, has not launched an earth satellite since Sputnik III on May 15, 1958. The Russians have been concentrating on moon shots and deep space probes.

"The Russians probably will come up with another spectacular launching before long," he added, "perhaps to Mars or maybe the first man in space. But this country has a few aces up its sleeve, too. Don't sell us short."

The Transit satellite, which has important military potentialities, was intended to go into a nearly circular orbit about 500 miles high, and to last for 50 years.

Instead it fell into an orbit varying from a high point of 479 miles to a low of 233 miles from the earth. And it may fall back into the atmosphere in about 16 months.

Still its two radio oscillators are working perfectly and will provide a significant test of the theory that underlies its potential as an all-weather navigational aid. Military sources said an actual fixing of a ship's position may be tried in a few days.

General Greer explained that a slight error in the launching angle apparently led to the elliptical orbit.

South African Negroes Plan New Boycott

COMBINED AP & UPI

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—The outlawed African National Congress has launched an underground move for a new native stay-home protest against South Africa's racial discrimination laws.

Police broke a similar demonstration last week by raiding the native township of Nyanga and beating blacks who refused to go to work.

LEAFLETS FOUND

Leaflets signed by an "emergency committee" of the African National Congress were found in Mofolo, 10 miles north of Johannesburg. They called on Africans to begin a week-long stay-home protest next Monday.

The move was seen as likely to touch off a new round of violence.

The country has been relatively quiet since a white assassin shot and seriously wounded Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd last Saturday.

Both the African National Congress and the Pan Africanist Congress have been outlawed by the government until next April. Most of the top leaders have been jailed.

POLICE STILL BUSY

South Africa's parliament went home today for Easter, but police raiders were as busy as ever.

About 500 so-called subversives are now believed in jail—more than 100 of them whites.

Attempts by opposition leaders in parliament to get details on the condition and fate of the detainees has brought only meager information from the government.

More than 60 Cornell University upper classmen are improving their own grades by tutoring freshmen in mathematics and physics.

Bev's Mother: 'If Only Errol Were Alive'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"If only Errol Flynn were still alive, my little girl wouldn't be in this mess," says the bleached-blonde mother of 17-year-old Beverly Aadland.

The late actor's youthful ex-mistress was described yesterday by juvenile authorities as a $100-a-date call girl who, since the age of 12, had "engaged in numerous acts of sexual intercourse."

Authorities filed a petition seeking to make Beverly a ward of juvenile court. She faces a hearing May 2.

STILL IN CUSTODY

Beverly has been held in custody since William Stanciu, a handsome aspiring actor, was shot fatally in her apartment last Saturday. Homicide detectives say they are satisfied with her story that Stanciu was shot during a nude struggle for his revolver.

"Errol Flynn was a real gentleman," said Florence Aadland, who approved of her daughter's relationship with the dashing actor who died of a heart attack last October at 50.

"It's these young Hollywood men who can get a girl in trouble," Mrs. Aadland said.

"Why, Errol Flynn loved Beverly and she loved him—it was a thing of beauty, real beauty," said Mrs. Aadland, a former showgirl.

OUT OF CHORUS

Flynn picked the girl out of the chorus of a Hollywood musical when she was 15. They traveled about the world together, including a trip to Cuba where they co-starred in a movie produced by Flynn. She was with him when he died in Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Aadland said she is disturbed that at the May hearing Beverly could be placed under court supervision until she turns 18 next Sept. 16.

"This could ruin her night-club career, and just when some really good offers were coming in," Mrs. Aadland said. Beverly has been singing at a Hollywood nightspot.

Groups Join Drive For City Cleanup

Representatives of the Novato Garden Group, 4-H Clubs, community improvement associations and the City of Novato have joined the campaign to "clean-up, paint-up and fix-up" the city during the first week in May.

At a meeting of a committee of the chamber of commerce headed by James Picchi, it was decided various sections of the city will be assigned to the participating groups.

All homeowners in the Novato area will be asked to cooperate in the face-lifting campaign, Picchi said. The next meeting of the committee was set for next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the chamber office in the Patio.

Actor Steel Missing

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (UPI)—British actor Anthony Steel was reported today to have been missing from a Bavarian hotel for a week. The wife of the hotel owner said she filed a missing person report with local police because Steel has been missing from his room since April 7.

The Garmisch chief of police said he had no information that Steel, former husband of actress Anita Ekberg, might have disappeared while mountain climbing.

Hearing On Jet Noise

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A congressional hearing on airport jet noise will be held next Wednesday at San Francisco Airport, Rep. John F. Shelley (D-San Francisco) said today.

Drug Promotion Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators were told today that some companies use the same advertising techniques to peddle new drugs to physicians that are used to sell new automobiles to the general public.

Dr. Chauncey D. Leake of the Ohio State University Medical School said drug prices could be reduced if manufacturers toned down advertising and promotional campaigns.

Leake made his statements in prepared testimony to the Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly Subcommittee, which is investigating prices and profits in the drug industry.

Sells Himself

Company officials weren't too upset. The man asked for a new private line, extension dial, night lamp and two color phones.

Familiar Name

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Only the name was familiar at the spot where Air Force Lt. Tom Barnett parachuted to earth from his crippled F102 jet fighter.

The young pilot ejected from the flamed-out jet at 25,000 feet above Ohio and drifted for a number of miles as icy winds carried his parachute along. He finally landed near the Ohio River — on Barnett Ridge.

Thai Air Chief Killed

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The chief of Thailand's air force, Air Chief Marshal Chalermkiat Watanangura, was killed in a plane crash today as he was returning home from a meeting in Formosa of anti-Communist air commanders in the Pacific area.

Watanangura's wife and 16 others reportedly died in the wreckage of the four-engine Thai air force transport.

New U.S. Atom Offer

GENEVA (AP) — The United States offered today to negotiate an immediate agreement to ban production of fissionable materials for military purposes.

U.S. Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton told the 10-nation disarmament conference the United States is willing to throw open all its nuclear plants to international inspection and control if the Soviet Union does likewise.

School Books Censored

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Reports of book censorship at Andrew Hill High School will be investigated, according to school officials here.

The announcement by the Eastside School District came yesterday in the wake of parents' complaints that the novel "Catcher in the Rye" by J. D. Salinger had been removed from the recommended reading list for high school seniors.

It was also learned that protests from one or two parents had resulted in the removal of Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises," Huxley's "Brave New World," Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel" and Saroyan's "Human Comedy."

Jet Crash Kills 2

PERRIN, Mo. (AP)—A crippled Air Force B47 crashed in a pasture near here yesterday, killing two airmen. Two others bailed out of the six-engine jet plane and escaped with minor injuries.

Winds On Rampage

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Hurrican force winds and rain hit the state of Washington last night, knocking down trees and power lines and putting three radio stations off the air.

Sixty-mile-an-hour winds in the Seattle area knocked over a small plane at the Renton Municipal Airport and damaged another at the Seattle-Tacoma Airport.

About 150 men the entire repair force of the Puget Sound Power and Light Co., were called out to handle utility wires ripped down by the wind. State police closed one road because of the danger.

Brown, Nixon Qualify

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California's June 7 presidential primary election shaped up today as a popularity contest between Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Brown and Nixon were the only two major candidates from their parties to qualify for the primary ballot in their home state. The deadline for county clerks to certify nominating petitions was yesterday.

The vice president was unopposed on the GOP ballot but Brown has minor competition from George McClain, old age pension promoter from Los Angeles.

Plane Ditches; 5 Safe

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—A twin-engined Canadian patrol plane, lost and low on fuel, ditched 200 miles west of Bermuda before dawn today. All of its five crewmen survived.

U.S. Air Force and Coast Guard search planes sighted the survivors on a rubber raft and signaled ships in the vicinity. The plane was a Canadian navy craft used for anti-submarine patrol and was enroute to Bermuda from Nova Scotia.

Race Violence Flares Anew In Two Cities

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Negro home in a white section of Atlanta, Ga., was bombed and a Negro man was shot by white teen-agers in Nashville, Tenn., in fresh outbursts of racial violence in the South last night.

The two incidents shattered an uneasy calm that prevailed over most of the South where Negro college students have been demonstrating against segregated lunch counters.

No one was in the Atlanta house when the dynamite charge went off. A Negro family had moved in furniture and planned to occupy the house in the near future.

However, residents of the all-white neighborhood were reported to be disturbed over the purchase of the home by Negroes. While the family was moving in furniture Tuesday, several white youths pelted the house with rocks.

In Nashville, police searched for five white teen-agers who shot Henry Stewart, 22-year-old Negro, in the arm. Officers said the youths shot Stewart from a speeding car.

CHESSMAN CASE HEADED AGAIN FOR HIGH COURT

U. S. Tribunal To Get Petition For Review Of Appeal Claims

An attack on Caryl Chessman's death sentence will be carried to the U. S. Supreme Court this week for the 16th time in 12 years.

Chessman requested Davis, veteran San Francisco criminal lawyer, to withdraw from the case in a bitter 10-page letter made public yesterday by the state Supreme Court.

Chessman, who has survived nearly 12 years in San Quentin Prison's Death Row and dodged eight previous execution dates, is now scheduled to die May 2. He was condemned for the "Red Light Bandit" kidnaping and sexual abuse of two Los Angeles women in 1948.

A. L. Wirin of Los Angeles, an American Civil Liberties Union counsel, said in New York he expects to petition the U. S. Supreme Court this week for review of appeal claims which California courts have rejected three times in three weeks.

The state Supreme Court brusquely announced the third rejection yesterday of the claims that Chessman's 12 years under death sentence constitute cruel and unusual punishment, and that life imprisonment was the maximum legal sentence for the original charges against him.

The Marin County Superior Court and the state District Court of Appeal previously had turned down the habeas corpus petitions which Chessman declared in his letter he had asked Davis not to file without personally visiting and consulting him at the prison.

Chessman called Davis' representation of him as a "wild roller coaster ride . . . that has continued to get bumpier."

He charged that Davis "disappeared" from the case between February, 1958, and October, 1959, and came back only when the case drew international attention.

Chessman was particularly bitter over Davis' claim that he will name the "real" Red Light Bandit. The condemned man wrote that if he had been willing to turn informer, he "could have avoided ever coming to Death Row."

STATE JOINS IN DELAYING TAX DEADLINE

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Tardy taxpayers note:

You can celebrate Good Friday and Easter without income tax worries.

The state, following the federal government's lead, decided yesterday to give taxpayers an extra three days to file their returns.

State Controller Alan Cranston said the Franchise Tax Board cannot legally extend the April 15 deadline, but won't start tacking on penalties until after midnight Monday, April 18.

He said it would avoid confusion which would result if the state and federal governments had a different deadline and "will permit taxpayers to observe Good Friday and Easter without bothersome worries about tax deadlines."

Marin Census Wrapup Expected By Tuesday

Marin County census enumerators hadn't cleaned up their work today as hoped. Latest hope is that next Tuesday will see the windup of the main job.

This word was obtained from census district headquarters in Santa Rosa by Mrs. J. Lee Chaille, crew leader for San Rafael.

"We're ferreting people out of nooks and crannies," said Mrs. Chaille. "It's the most complete census ever taken, as is shown by the fact that in Marin County several adults have been found who never were counted before."

One of the biggest sources of bother, Mrs. Chaille reported, has been failure of people to call back by phone in response to special slips left at home when the occupants were out.

She urged that anybody finding a slip lose no time in phoning to the enumerator in order to complete the census work in Marin as speedily as possible.

HEARING

But he added that the park should not be justified "on the basis of a dollar and cents benefit to anyone. . . . The real need is to preserve the area."

Marin County Supervisor Vera Schultz took the stand to express her stand "as an individual." All members of the board of supervisors were in the audience, although Supervisor William D. Fuselman sat just outside the door of the hearing room.

Mrs. Schultz said the board "has itself taken no official position" pending receipt of the completed land use and feasibility study being made by the National Park Service.

She said the people of Marin "desire to protect, as they share, this unique natural environment." But she warned the committee that the county must "safeguard its economic position (from) immediate tax loss," and that the federal government "should recognize its obligation to provide all services, such as fire and police protection, roads, and other services which would be required."

Opposition to the project, came from Supervisor James Marshall, in whose district the park is located.

Speaking "as a private citizen for myself and for the people whose very lives would be affected," Marshall declared, "I feel very strongly about the government taking over the ranches." He said the proposed leasing of the ranches back to the present owners "would not be satisfactory."

The supervisor, himself a rancher about five miles from the park boundaries, said the government should "seriously consider the scenic easement principle of preserving the ranches in private ownership."

However, he declared that if the "best interests" of the ranchers can be protected, he is "positive most of the opposition will disappear."

County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel presented a detailed analysis of what effect the park would have on the county's tax revenues. He said if the ranch area were leased back to the ranchers and if the public utilities were retained, the county would "suffer a reduction of .58 of 1 per cent" of the county tax base. However, it would be a loss of 25 per cent of the tax base of the West Marin Union School District, 14 per cent of the Tomales Union High School District, 10 per cent of the Pt. Reyes School District and 9 per cent of the Bolinas School District.

The assessor said that if all 53,000 acres were removed from the tax rolls, an owner of a $25,000 home in San Rafael would have to pay an extra $2.02 per year. But the added tax for such an owner in West Marin School District would be $138.96, and the Pt. Reyes School District would be wiped out.

However, if the ranch lands were leased back to the ranchers and the public utilities retained, the total tax loss to the San Rafael householder would be 79 cents; $7.52 in Bolinas; $8.86 in Tomales; $40.77 in West Marin, and $13.25 in Pt. Reyes School District.

Broemmel said he would not estimate, "because of too many unknown factors," what additional revenue would accrue from services provided to visitors to the park.

Sen. Clair M. Engle (D-Red Bluff) brought applause from the audience when he stated he believes "that local people and tax agencies should not be required to carry the full burden" of an area of national importance. He suggested federal in-lieu payments as long as the local governments were suffering a loss from such a project, but no longer.

Broemmel said he thought "it was a sound idea."

William F. Upton, chairman of the Marin County Planning Commission, read a statement from the commission and presented supporting data, but said the commissioners "prefer to withhold judgment and preference . . . until more complete and reliable studies are available to us."

California's other senator, Thomas H. Kuchel, sent a statement in which he urged preservation of the area as "a desireable addition to the safeguarded and cherished portions of our state which lure both visitors and those who would make their homes here."

Representative Clement W. Miller (D-Corte Madera) asked whether Upton thought the county planning commission could control development of the Pt. Reyes Peninsula if it remained in private hands. Upton expressed doubt that this could be done. The planning commission said he supported Senator Engle's proposal that an interim in-lieu tax be paid the county until restaurants, motels, etc., developed to serve the park visitors.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) urged that rights of ways for highways be reserved in any Pt. Reyes development.

A telegram from Will Rogers Jr., newly appointed chairman of the state Park Commission, was read, declaring "we in California are desperately anxious to preserve the Pt. Reyes shoreline."

Supervisor Leigh Shoemaker of Sonoma County said, "Never in my life have I been so much impressed with what I saw" as he was on the tour of the peninsula yesterday. He supported Supervisor Marshall's feeling that dairy ranching should be retained, but said "we have a moral responsibility to look out for future generations."

Ernest Schallinger, chairman of the citizens' committee for development of Marin County, read a resolution recommending the park.

James Fletcher, chairman of the county parks and recreation commission, also read a resolution urging preservation "but only if a study does not show an economic liability."

Charles DeTurk, chief of the state Division of Beaches and Parks, read a statement from Gov. Edmund G. Brown declaring the state "is determined the Pt. Reyes seashore not become part of a vanishing shoreline."

DeTurk added that there is a public need for this land "and that need should dominate all discussion."

Robert D. Calkins of the state Fish and Game Department said his department is interested in the area only so far as fish and wildlife are maintained for future generations.

Richard M. Leonard, a director of the Wilderness Society of Washington, D.C., asserted the area needs to be protected and preserved.

Mrs. Ralph Revnolds, representing the California Roadside Council, said if the whole area cannot be purchased outright, "at least there should be acquired scenic easements."

Douglas S. Hertz, president of the Bolema Club and secretary of the Pt. Reyes Land and Development Co., which owns 415 acres atop Inverness Ridge, and secretary of Bolema Palisades, Inc., which owns 1,100 acres from the ridge to the ocean, spoke at length against the park proposal.

"Let me eliminate certain confusion in the minds of various organizations," said Hertz, ". . . as to the difference between acquisition for conservation and for recreation." Much of the acreage, he said, is inaccessible and thus would have no value to the public. Hunters in the Bolema Club have great difficulty "fighting their way through intense chaparral growth," he claimed.

Based on recent purchases, the cost of acquisition "is worth like 50 million dollars" than the $6,500,000 mentioned, Hertz claimed.

"Here is an impending boondoggle of immense proportions, developing right in our own back yard, at a frivolous, ill-conceived waste of our own money," he declared.

Alvin McCabe Dies At Home Of Gunshot

Alvin T. McCabe, 50, a retired railroad worker and former deputy sheriff, was found dead this morning in the back yard of his home at 1113 Fourth street, Novato.

Mrs. Yolanda McCabe called the sheriff's office to report she had found the body of her husband about 6 a.m. A .22 caliber single-shot rifle was beside him. He had been shot over the right ear.

Deputy Coroner Charles H. Johnson said death was self-inflicted.

McCabe in recent years had worked as a part-time bartender. His latest place of employment was De Borba's Inn in Novato.

Notes addressed to his wife and Coroner Frank J. Keaton told of poor health and indebtedness. The note to Keaton said: "I have been sick for some time, but wouldn't give up until now. I have too many bills facing me and no way to take care of them."

Other survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Royal Johnston of San Francisco and Mrs. Maria Tumelty of Walnut Creek, and three grandchildren.

CENSUS CONTEST ENTRIES SENT IN FROM ALL CITIES BUT ROSS

Residents of every Marin city except Ross have some definite ideas of what the census will show for population of their home towns.

But on one in Ross — up to today — has hazarded a guess in the Independent-Journal's census contest as to how many people will be shown there by the federal census now under way.

One entrant even gave an estimate for a non-existent city: Kentfield. Since it is unincorporated, Kentfield will not be reported separately when the U. S. Bureau of the Census announces city populations some time next month.

There's still plenty of time for Ross residents—and others—to submit their estimates in the census contest. Closing date is next Wednesday.

There are prizes of $100 for the nearest-to-correct guess of the total county population, $25 for the nearest-to-correct guess in each city, and $25 for the closest estimate of the Independent-Journal's paid circulation on April 30.

Boys Admit Taking Radios

Two 12-year-old boys admitted to Mill Valley police yesterday having taken 13 transistor radios worth $650 from Brown's Home Furnishers at 38 Miller avenue Monday night.

They also admitted entering the store April 6 and taking two repeater B-B guns.

The youngsters were cited to juvenile authorities.

One boy told the officers he took the guns, wrapped up, to school one day and asked his teacher to keep them in the closet for the day, saying they were an experiment.

LOW BID

Spillway: $402,540 bid, $632,220 estimate.

High bidder was Parish Brothers, Inc., at $2,376,836.80.

It is expected that work will start May 1, to be finished by Mid-October to impound up to 7.5 billion gallons of water, said Seeger. Capacity of the now largest reservoir, Kent Lake, is 5.5 billion gallons. The new lake will be five miles north of Nicasio.

The board also approved application of the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce to hold its annual fish derby in Phoenix Lake on May 7. About 600 to 700 youngsters are expected.

It was decided that the 1960 fishing program on the five lakes of the district will be the same as last year, entailing a permit for $3 additional to the usual state license. Trout fishermen may cast their lines every day but Sundays, holidays included.

The board approved plans and specifications for North Marin balancing tanks excavation on the Smith ranch by White's Hill, and bids are to be received April 27.

LAND SALE

ket value of the land, and would not be enough to buy the property at public auction.

The GSA is willing to let the Ft. Cronkhite land go at a discount to the state, Phillips said, and added, "We don't feel we are interfering a great deal with the state park plans by putting the Baker land up for sale to subdividers."

He said that under the law, the services administration required to dispose of surplus land in a manner that will bring the best value and use.

"The Ft. Baker land is ideally suited for a real estate development," Phillips said. "It would be developed into a one-family residential or multiple residential area."

Officials of the state Division of Beach and Parks, however, are unhappy about the announcement. Calling the Golden Gate a place of "history and romance," they plan to push for state development.

One official has stated the state has second call on the land after federal agencies.

"We have no obligation to offer the land in such a manner," Phillips commented.

DROWNING

dioed for an ambulance and firemen. San Rafael firemen applied a resuscitator, and the ambulance rushed the victim to Marin General Hospital. She was pronounced dead on arrival there.

No one saw the girl fall into the lake. However, Tony Loftin, 14, of House 3, San Quentin Village, told officers he heard a splash. He said he was sitting on the other side of the lake.

He noticed the two women lying by the lake. He had seen the little girl between them, but, after the splash, she was gone. But Tony thought the splash might have been caused by a rock thrown into the water.

About 20 minutes later, the boy said, the women got up and began looking for the youngster.

The girl's father, Arthur Joseph Dorigo, is division manager of Sears, Roebuck and Co. in San Francisco. The family moved from San Francisco to Larkspur about two and one-half years ago.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Valente, Marini, Perata and Co. in San Francisco.

John Bargalotti Final Rites Held

Private funeral services for John Bargalotti, who died Tuesday at a local hospital, were held today at Keaton's Mortuary.

Bargalotti, 75, was a Northwestern Pacific Railroad freight clerk at the San Anselmo depot for 40 years. He retired in 1950.

He had lived at the Burchard Apartments, 1330 Fourth street, San Rafael. He was a native Californian.

He is survived by a brother, Louis of San Rafael, and a sister, Rosaland Vallier of San Francisco.

Thomas Shea, 77, Dies In Hospital

Thomas J. Shea, 77, a Novato resident for 17 years, died this morning at a local hospital. He had resided at 865 Atherton avenue.

Shea was born in San Francisco Dec. 21, 1882. He was a sheet metal worker until his retirement some years ago.

He is survived by a sister-in-law, Marie Shea of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the W. C. Lasswell funeral home, 6154 Mission street, Daly City. Burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.

Funeral Held For Marinite's Brother

Funeral services for Burton Fay, brother of Earl Fay of Belvedere, were held yesterday at Santa Rosa Memorial Park, Santa Rosa. Burton Fay died Saturday in a Santa Rosa hospital after a month's illness.

He was 71 and a native of Eureka. He had lived in Santa Rosa for six years and was a retired lumberman.

Besides his brother Earl, who is a printer for the San Francisco Shopping News, he is survived by his wife, Gussie Fay of Santa Rosa; a son, Donald Fay of Arcata, Humboldt County; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Jarett of Santa Rosa, and Mrs. Betty Jane Bloom of San Francisco; another brother, Russ Fay of San Leandro, Alameda County; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

'DON'T CALL ME HONEY'

Juanita Battles For Her Liquor License

Juanita Lois Musson,. 34, wearing a black muu muu and a cheerful smile, took the stand in San Rafael City Hall yesterday to fight for the right to continue serving beer at Juanita's Gallery in Sausalito.

She was called before the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, which alleges that she is unfit to have a liquor license because of her arrests for drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

Henry Long, supervising agent for beverage control agency, told hearing officer Ivores Dains that the hefty divorcee had six convictions between October of 1957 and December of 1959.

Before she launched into her loquacious defense, Juanita shook a water jug on the table before the hearing officer. "Is there any water in these jugs? I'm gonna need a shot before I start."

After gulping a cup of water, she spoke for a half hour, alternately defending her moral character and attacking Sausalito police officers, who, she said, "are out to get me."

In July of 1958, she was arrested for drunkenness. The arresting officer was George Alberigi.

"The minute he lays a hand on me, I go berserk," Juanita declared: "I'll wrestle Alberigi any time!"

"This has nothing to do with the case," Long objected.

"It certainly does," Juanita shot back. "Anytime anyone twists your arm and throws you down, honey, you'd resist too."

"Don't refer to me as honey," Long admonished.

The hearing officer said he was giving Juanita plenty of leeway because she did not have a lawyer with her.

"Give me plenty of rope and I'll hang myself," Juanita chuckled as she fingered her necklace.

She then thanked the hearing officer for letting her have her say, greeted Officer Alberigi and Chief Howard Goerndt, and ambled out of the hearing room.

Dains took the case under submission. A decision will come from Sacramento later.

Drake High Senior To Compete In Speaking Contest

The winner of this annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth contest will go on the 11th annual tour to the East.

The regional contest will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Odd Fellows Hall, in Sacramento.

Boys Slightly Hurt As Car Overturns

Three Novato youths in a 1931 coupe suffered cuts and bruises in a skid and overturn Tuesday on Highway 101 about 600 feet south of Lincoln avenue overpass in San Rafael. They were not hospitalized.

Robert Lewis Cook, 17, of 845 Wilmac drive, told the California Highway Patrol he was southbound in the outside lane about 45 to 50 miles an hour when the car drifted off to the shoulder and capsized. With him were Donald Cook, 16, of the same address, and Guy Sandel, 16, of 55 Hillside terrace.

Judge Fines Salesman For Drunken Driving

Clarence Gilbert Hughes, 53, of 4985 Ranch road, Corte Madera, must pay a $150 fine and remain on probation six months for his first drunken driving offense.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court sentenced Hughes, a salesman, yesterday for driving while intoxicated on Highway 101 on April 4.

NOTICE
MARIN MOTORISTS

A new rating plan from State Farm reduces rates for many careful drivers! It's a pin-pointed system for determining the rate that's fair for YOU personally. It matches you with one of nearly 100 driver classifications—according to your age, your sex, family members who drive your car, where you drive, how much you drive, and what you use your car for. It's more accurate in determining YOUR fair rate. And whatever your classification, you're pretty sure to pay less with State Farm than most folks pay elsewhere. Contact me today.

Two Marin Girls Win Show Prizes

Two Marin girls took horse show prizes yesterday in the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

Sue Weir of Novato won second for jumpers 18 years old and under and fourth for jumpers-president's course 18 years old and under.

Attends Auto Show

Frank E. Hawkins, owner of Redwood Motors at 826 Fourth street, San Rafael, left yesterday for New York where he is to attend an auto show. He will return Sunday. It was erroneously reported that Hawkins left last week.

THREE TICKETS ENOUGH, POLITE PEN PAL INFORMS METER MAID

San Rafael's efficient meter maids are accustomed to all kinds of excuses and outrageous outbursts from traffic violators. But this one took Meter Maid Edith Weldon by complete surprise yesterday.

She had issued three pink tags on a dilapidated model A Ford on Fourth street because it had no license plate in front.

But the owner of the car is apparently a gentleman more polished than the broken down relic he owns. In place of the front license plate was a large blue card with this polite note:

"To my 'favorite' meter-maiden. Dear Miss (?) Weldon. In reply to the correspondence which you seem to have started through your last three letters, I am writing this note. I have taken your past suggestions (in the form of pink notes) to heart and I am now in the process of obtaining a new license plate. Since I have a limited buget, I will not be able to get the license plate until tomorrow. Please accept this humble substitute. Your pen pal, BYS 272."

His Honor's Now A Grandfather

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court became a grandfather Tuesday night.

April 12 is getting to be a memorable date for Judge and Mrs. Haley. Their first daughter, Patricia, was born on April 12, 1934. Now they have become grandparents for the first time on April 12, 1960.

California Druids Denounce Britisher's Chessman Plea

California Druids don't want anything to do with James Christian Duncan, 72, a Britisher who wants Gov. Edmund G. Brown to spare the life of convict Caryl Chessman.

Duncan recently wrote Brown that he plans to march to San Quentin Prison in his white robes to plead for the convict's life. He asked Brown to accept him as "the oldest member of the Druid order."

Today, John R. Flor of Larkspur, noble grand arch, announced that the advisory board of the United Ancient Order of Druids of California will have no part of Duncan.

In a lengthy resolution sent to Brown, Duncan and several newspapers, the advisory board said Duncan's action "is abhorrent to our Druidic principles" and that his assertion he represents Druids is "without foundation."

The resolution also says the California Druids maintain "a position of non-intervention on questions of a religious or political nature or on questions concerning legislative enactments as defined by the Penal Code of California."

DURANTE PUTS HIS SCHNOZZLE TO WORK

Comedian Jimmy Durante had a big advantage as he and 5-year-old Eve Gardner of Old Bethpage, Long Island, engaged in an impromptu egg-pushing contest with their noses during an Easter egg coloring party yesterday at New York's St. Moritz Hotel. The colored eggs will be distributed Sunday to children staying in the hotel. (AP Wirephoto)

Castro-Led Forces Battle With Rebels In Mountains

HAVANA (AP)—Rumors persisted today of small clashes in the mountains of eastern Cuba between insurgent bands and armed peasants and troops reportedly led by Fidel Castro and his army commander.

Official sources in Havana remained silent on the rebel hunt. But Castro appeared to be making a personal effort to track down insurgent leader Manuel Beaton, a former captain in Castro's revolutionary army who reportedly took to the mountains with 50 anti-Castro guerrillas.

A government official in Santiago, capital of Oriente Province, reported that Castro-led forces combing the Sierra Maestra captured Beaton's second-in-command and two other guerrillas.

Maj. Rene Vallejo Ortiz, chief of the Agrarian Reform Institute in Oriente, said Castro has been directing troops and peasant militia since Monday.

Sewer Board Approves Pumphouse Remodeling

The job of remodeling the pumphouse of the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District has received final approval of the board members. It is expected to cost $6,000.

Board chairman Bruce J. Gillette said the approval was given at last night's meeting and that work on the pumphouse, on Bell lane, will commence right away.

The Russian alphabet is largely made up of what were originally Roman, Greek and Hebrew letters.

TWO NEW PRODUCTIONS

San Francisco Opera Plans Its 1960 Season

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Opera Company announced today it will present, for the first time in its history, Bellini's "La Sonnambula" and Berg's "Wozzeck" during its 1960 season.

The company has also scheduled revivals of Puccini's "La Fanciulla del West," and Wagner's "Lohengrin."

Other operas in the repertoire include "Die Frau Ohme Schatten," "Aida," "Simon Boccanegra," "Der Rosenkavalier," "Carmen" and "Cosi Fan Tutte."

The season will begin in San Francisco Sept. 16 with "Tosca." Performances of "Carmen" will be presented in Berkeley on Oct. 16 and in Sacramento on Oct. 23.

The company travels to Los Angeles Oct. 28 for a series of 18 performances, including "Madame Butterfly." Three operas will be presented in San Diego on Nov. 3, 10 and 17.

Singers making their San Francisco Opera debuts will be sopranos Anna Moff and Doris Yarick, mezzo-soprano Janis Martin, contralto Jean Madeira, tenor Ticho Parly; baritone Ned Romero, bass-baritones Robert Anderson and James Standard, and basses Kurt Boehme and Andrew Foldi.

Those returning after an absence include sopranos Brenda Lewis, Leonie Rysanek, Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Sylvia Stahlman, and Renata Tebaldi; baritone Tito Gobbi; and bass Richard Wentworth.

Sausalito Would Keep Playground

Vestrymen from Christ Church, Episcopal, Sausalito planning commissioners and members of audience, agreed last night that part of the present playground leased by the church to the city should be saved for Sausalito children.

The church plans to build a parish hall on its property on the site of the present tennis court, located across San Carlos avenue from the church. Adjoining the court is the present playground. In asking for a use permit at last night's planning commission meeting, the church had in its plans parking for 21 cars on the site of the playground. The number required for offstret parking is five.

The commission approved unanimously the permit to build the parish hall, contingent on determination by the city attorney that it is a permitted use.

A woman from the audience made a plea that the playground be saved since it is one of the few flat, well-protected and fenced areas where children can play.

Francis Constable, Sausalito architect of the parish hall, spoke for the vestrymen, saying, "This area could continue to be used as a playground." He said the entire area could be used as long as the church could have access.

Cyril G. Hansen, chairman of the church building committee, said arrangements could be made for the city to lease "at least a portion on somewhat the same terms we have now." He said it could be on a self-perpetuating lease on a 90-day termination clause.

Commissioner Carl G. Wooley said he was strongly in favor of retaining the playground and the other commissioners concurred.

The commission also:

1. Approved variance and a use permit for Lang Construction Co. to construct four apartment buildings on one lot at Sacramento avenue and Highway 101 service road.

2. Approved an application of Rob Rose to split two lots on Toyon lane, each having more than 8,000 square feet.

3. Held an informal discussion on proposed rezoning of land belonging to Roger Heiser, located between Hecht avenue and Sausalito boulevard, and set a public hearing for May 11. Heiser showed a model and plans of two apartment houses he plans to build with a total of 64 units, having three stories and roof deck parking. The area is zoned for duplexes.

Writer Protests Letter Quotations

Charles V. Snyder of 41 Westbrae drive, Fairfax, complained today that his letter to the Fairfax City Council protesting about dogs running loose was not quoted correctly in Tuesday's Independent-Journal.

A check with the original letter showed that Snyder did not write, as he was quoted, "Some law must be made." Instead, he wrote, "Some action will be expected!"

He did not write, "My neighbors loose their dogs on my property after I go to sleep, but that "they turn the dogs loose during the night when every one is supposedly asleep."

He did not write, "After complaining to one dog owner for the fifth time he threatened me with a gun." Instead, he wrote, "One owner even threatened to shoot me on my fifth complaint to him."

The inaccurate quotations, which were jotted down by a reporter during reading of the letter at the city council meeting, "twisted" his comments, Snyder complained.

In Ireland you can rent a horse-drawn, gypsy-type wagon to wander through country lanes away from the highways for $37.80 a week. The wagons, equipped with stove and refrigerator, have berths to sleep four.

SHE'S THE PRINCESS—Peggy Anne Perry, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Perry of 967 San Antonio road, Petaluma, has been named District 3 Dairy Princess competition to be sponsored by the American Dairy Assn. of California April 28 through May 1 at Los Banos.

Logger To Plead To Morals Charges

A 38-year-old logger who lives on a 110-foot boat at Gate 4 in Sausalito appeared in Marin court yesterday on charges of statutory rape and perversion involving a 15-year-old girl.

Daniel Elwin Huff won a continuance until April 22, when he will plead to the charges. He is currently free on $2,625 bail, and is represented by attorney Joseph A. DeGioia of Mountain View.

Sausalito Police Chief Howard Goerndt and Inspector Donald E. Midyett of the Marin County district attorney's office arrested Huff Tuesday. The logger is accused of committing the crimes on March 20 and 27 on the houseboat. He is married and the father of four children.

The girl said she was forced by Huff to submit to indignities under threat of violence.

Young Animal Lover Wins Scholarship

A Marin County teen-ager who loves animals so much she rides a bicycle 10 miles each day from her home to feed them has won a $300 scholarship award at the 1960 Junior Grand National Junior Livestock Show.

The money, from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, yesterday was awarded to Lauren Sievers, 19, of Lagunitas. The livestock show closed yesterday.

Miss Sievers, a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, will use the money to further her education next September at Chico State College. She has attended San Francisco State College for a year and now has a part-time sales job and does typing to get enough money to go back to school.

She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Sievers. Her father is a merchant mariner with American President Lines.

Mrs. Sievers said, "We live out here on a steep hillside under some trees, and the kids have to go 10 miles round trip by bicycle to Woodacre every day to feed their animals."

Miss Sievers won her scholarship on her 4-H Club record book and an interview. She exhibited a fat lamb and a Jersey calf at the livestock show.

Bar Owners Deny Illegal Beer Sale

Operators of Jim's Tavern in Larkspur vigorously denied yesterday that they had ever sold beer to minors, at a hearing before the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control.

Liquor officials accuse James M. and Phyllis Vercillino, the owners, of selling beer to an 18-year-old youth on Sept. 2, 1959. The Vercillinos denied the youth ever came to their tavern.

The hearing was held in San Rafael City Hall.

NOT IN THE TUNNEL — Dr. Barbara Moore, the British hiker who plans to cross the United States in 60 days, consults a map and Highway Patrolman Wallace Erskine on how to get through Sausalito. She could not use a tunnel on the Waldo grade because it is only for cars. (AP Wirephoto)

Woman Walker Heads For Sacramento Stop Tonight

By DONALD G. DAVIS

A woman vegetarian today swung off on her second day of her hike across the United States.

Dr. Barbara Moore, who performed all sorts of walking feats in Britain before setting out to tackle the United States, left Sonoma this morning after tramping across Marin yesterday.

She flashed through Vallejo after taking for breakfast no more than orange juice and a banana. She said she will be in Sacramento by nightfall.

With Dr. Moore it isn't a case of planning to be at such and such a place, or thinking maybe she would be there. With Dr. Moore it is will, will, will.

The determined 56-year-old, slightly built woman is not just trying to prove she can walk. There is more at stake.

"You can arrest senility," she said. "I've done it. I can have a baby. I can have one at 100. It's just theory when you talk about it and I'm walking to prove it."

Yesterday in Marin, she said she was too busy to talk, and left an Independent-Journal reporter and photographer in a cloud of dust, whizzed up the highway and sat down to chomp on an apple in comparative privacy.

Without slowing her pace, Dr. Moore huffed and puffed about her troubles. She had been detoured from Highway 101 on her walk north and south and had to walk through Sausalito instead of the Waldo Tunnel. The tunnel, she was told by California Highway Patrolmen, is for cars only.

She had been reported as someone miffed about the three-mile detour, but Capt. Theodore F. Parnow of the San Rafael office of the CHP said he had been told she was perfectly lovely about it.

By the time she reached San Rafael she was hungry. Someone, to whom she had entrusted her money, passport and food, had forsaken her, at least temporarily. She said something about a car "coming to meet me, but they just haven't come along."

"I've no time to talk. I've got to make Route 40," she said briskly.

She made Sonoma last night and left at 6 a.m. today without saying goodbye to her host. Only the barking of four dogs in the yard announced her departure.

Sometime after she left Marin, she apparently made contact with the car. Because this morning she was carrying a leather toilet article kit and complaining that a second expected car from New York had not arrived.

A five-foot seven-inch woman, weighing 133 pounds, the doctor makes an unusual sight as she pounds the pavement dressed in black jacket, slacks and red and white polka-dot scarf.

Russian-born Dr. Moore also is in pursuit of Mervyn Evans and Patrick Maloney, two British Royal Air Force sergeants who set forth on a similar cross-country walk Tuesday. The servicemen stayed in Sacramento last night.

Said Dr. Moore, "I'll beat them, no matter what."

NO BLISTERS — Mervyn Evans (left) and Patrick Maloney of the Royal Air Force rest in Sacramento where they spent last night at the end of their second day of a projected hike across the United States. They are a day ahead of Dr. Barbara Moore. She says she will catch them. They say they aren't competing. (AP Wirephoto)

Administration Plea For New Jobs Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration requests for more than 1,200 new government jobs were denied today by the House Appropriations Committee in an $8,142,223,900 omnibus money bill for the year starting July 1.

The proposed new jobs would have been scattered through more than a score of miscellaneous agencies whose appropriations are covered in the bills.

REQUESTS TRIMMED

New funds approved were $270,729,600 less than President Eisenhower had requested but were $1,108,360,200 more than the same agencies were given for the current year ending June 30.

Included were funds for a pension for Eisenhower starting next year, $5,322,902,000 for the Veterans Administration, 60 million dollars for airline subsidies, 150 million dollars for slum clearance and urban renewal grants, five million dollars to start an experimental program on housing for needy elderly persons, and $144,836,000 for public building construction in 20 cities.

PRESIDENT'S PENSION

The President's pension is provided under a law which now applies to Herbert Hoover, Harry S. Truman and the widows of Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Eisenhower had requested funds for about 8,200 new jobs in the various agencies, the biggest increases being 5,025 for the Federal Aviation Agency and 1,300 for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The committee cut 907 from the aviation agency and 373 from the space agency requests.

Young Gorilla Leaves Two Brides At Altar

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—It was supposed to be Terrible Tim's wedding night but he turned timormous Tim at the sight of the brides-to-be. Weeping and wailing Tim fled back home to "mama."

After all, it's asking a lot of a fellow to cut the apron strings when he's just 13 months old. A gorilla couldn't do it. And that's what Terrible Tim is.

This thing all started last June when a Kansas City veterinarian, Dr. Deets Pickett, captured Tim and two females in Africa. The girls, Jeannie, now 22 months old, and Katie, 25 months, were shipped straight to the Kansas City Zoo.

Tim was a puny 5-pounder at the time, so Dr. and Mrs. Pickett took him into their home temporarily.

Tim responded to the Picketts' tender care, gaining 17 pounds in 10 months.

Still, when the Picketts took Tim to the zoo last week he found himself grossly overmatched. Jeannie weighs 38 pounds now and Katie, at 45 pounds, is a muscular frump.

"We didn't realize until we got him at the zoo that he was just a baby," Zoo Director William T. A. Cully told the City Park Board last night.

Cully decided to leave Tim in the cage overnight, hoping he would adjust. But soon an attendant was on the telephone pleading for help. Tim was crying and having one temper tantrum after another.

"I brought him home with me but he wouldn't eat," Cully said. "He just ran all around the house, leaping over furniture and squalling."

What's obvious, said Cully, is that Tim needs loving attention all the time and no ape can handle the job. So Tim is back home with Mrs. Pickett and he is doing very nicely, thank you.

Dr. Pickett suggested to the board that the zoo provide Tim with human companions 24 hours a day until Tim pulls himself together and faces life like an ape.

Bike Riders Hit By Cars

Two small boys came to grief on bikes hit by autos in separate accidents yesterday afternoon.

Both were in "good condition" in Marin General Hospital today.

Charles B. Langlais, 6, suffered a broken leg when he pedaled out of a private drive at 375 Summit drive, San Rafael, near his home at 275 Summit drive. Sue Schall, 31, of 1436 Lincoln avenue, was driving east at an estimated 30 miles an hour in the car which struck him.

Michael J. Clifford, 7, of 25 Alta Mira court, Kentfield, was struck at the intersection of Toussin street and Geary avenue in Kentfield by a car driven by John F. Allen Jr., 51, of Corvallis, Ore. The car was almost halted at the time of impact and the child's injuries were minor.

Rating System Explained To Novato Fire Commissioners

Further discussion of Novato's proposed fire alarm system was held last night by fire district commissioners, with Fred Kaiser, representative of the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau, present to explain the bureau's rating system.

The proposed alarm system, which would raise the department's rating with the underwriters' bureau, would place 19 alarm boxes throughout Novato's downtown district and at each school in the district.

No cost estimate for the system has been given and it will probably be six months before a decision on the installation is reached, said Fire Chief George J. Cavallero.

Votes from the recent fire commission election which returned Commissioner Peter J. Ferrarese to office were canvassed. Two absentee ballots brought Ferrarese's total vote to 249. His opponent, California Highway Patrolman Keith C. Craig, received 114 votes.

Ferrarese will be sworn in for his new term by the Marin County court clerk prior to the commission's next meeting April 27, at which time the new board will be organized.

Corte Madera Fire Budget Approved

Corte Madera volunteer firemen last night approved a tentative 1960-61 budget of about $17,000, including some $6,000 worth of capital improvements.

The proposed improvements include installation of five additional hydrants in the town and such additions to the fire trucks as installation of a three-way radio and power steering. Capital improvement funds come from the local sales tax.

About $11,000 of the tentative budget is earmarked for operating expenses.

YMCA Members Slate Car Wash

As part of a world service drive, each club has promised to donate $20. The county pledge is $800. In order to raise the funds one of the clubs will wash cars at a dollar each at the Union Gas Station at Second and Lincoln in San Rafael from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow.

Members will pick up cars. Anyone interested may call Paul A. Miller at 138 Mission avenue, San Rafael.

EVEN TEMPER EARMARK OF SAFE DRIVER

You probably are if you're politically conservative, have moderate habits, intellectual interests, a happy home life, a tolerance toward your fellow man and an even temper.

Woman Walker!

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Say what you will about women drivers, but, in Connecticut at least, they make better pedestrians.

The Connecticut Safety Commission reported that during the past five years four out of every five pedestrians killed by a motor vehicle were men.

Hundreds Hit Closing Of HAFB Flats

About 500 postcards and 28 letters have been received by the Army Engineers protesting the proposed closing of Hamilton Air Force Base tide flats to fishing to provide a safety zone for firing practice, the district engineer's office in San Francisco reported today.

Col. John S. Harnett, district engineer, said efforts will be made to find a solution mutually acceptable to the Air Force and the protestants. If that fails, a hearing on the application will be scheduled, he said, but it will be at least 30 days before any hearing is held.

PROTESTS

Among those protesting by letter, said Colonel Harnett, were the state Department of Fish and Game, state Division of Small Craft Harbors, state Land Commission, Marin Rod and Gun Club and Associated Sportsmen and Wildlife Inc. As today was the final day for protests, others might be received in late mails, the district engineer noted.

A compromise appeared possible following a meeting yesterday betwen representatives of the Air Force and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

CLUB MEETING

Paul Ware, rod and gun club secretary, announced Hamilton representatives would attend the club meeting tomorrow night at the Pt. San Quentin clubhouse and answer questions from the membership regarding the Air Force's application to close the area behind the base rifle range to boat traffic.

The area in question is a two-and-one-half mile stretch of water and mud flats in San Pablo Bay.

TOUR AREA

Rod and gun club representatives were shown the range and other base installations yesterday by Col. Estes Sherrill, wing director of operations, and his assistant, Capt. Kenneth H. Kronlund.

Colonel Sherrill said the Air Force is willing to suspend operations of the rifle range during the peak of the bass fishing season and offered the range for the use of civilian riflemen.

minute to make the flight, stayed with the helicopters for a return to the San Francisco airport. He was scheduled to fly out of the airport later in the afternoon for Yosemite Park.

Before he left, Senator Byrd, often called the guardian of the Senate's purse strings, declared: "I was very much impressed with what I saw of Pt. Reyes. If it comes up in the Senate, I've seen it and will be able to say something about it. The hardest thing will be to get it up before the Senate."

Nature continued to put on a show for the visitors. Not only were the wildflowers in bloom and the grasses and trees green as the cars drove from the ranch toward the ocean, but the animals cooperated as well.

Several deer were spotted. An obliging bobcat raced along just ahead of the senator's car. Then the caravan stopped quickly and members grabbed for their cameras. A six-foot mountain lion was stalking something through the grass along the hillside, not 100 yards from the cars. But he was startled by the arrival of man, and turned and loped into the safety of the underbrush before a single shutter could click.

The cars stopped at the U ranch of the Bear Valley spread and all except the drivers walked along the beach about half a mile, then cut back through the fields to the cars. Senator Moss picked a wild strawberry (too green to eat) and examined the wildflowers and other plants.

The party included all of the Marin County Board of Supervisors except William Fusselman; Planning Director Mary Summers, who flew in from Los Angeles and just had time to change into a pair of trousers (no skirts allowed on a helicopter); Sonoma County Supervisor Leigh Shoemaker, and Lawrence C. Merriam and George L. Collins, regional director and planner respectively for the National Park Service, plus staff members of the Senate committee and the park service.

They went to the West Marin schoolhouse at Point Reyes Station to see a motion picture of the proposed park, prepared by the Sierra Club, then went to Inverness Lodge for a dinner hosted by the county supervisors.

In brief speech after being introduced by Chairman Walter R. Castro, Senator Moss called Pt. Reyes "One of the most beautiful and varied of the seacoast areas I've ever seen." The senator is chairman of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Subcommittee on Public Lands.

Representative Miller said he is "devoted to the area" but that he would "listen to the evidence" in today's hearing. "If the results are favorable, I will go all out for it; if not, I won't press further. However, I believe that the salvation of the area will be such a park, but I won't stand for anything that doesn't safeguard the ranchers."

Wirth was more positive. "I've seen this area before, as long as 25 years ago, and my opinion has not changed. We will submit a factual presentation to the committee, but admittedly we're biased. We believe in parks; we're in favor of Pt. Reyes, and we'll recommend its establishment," he said.

Then the party broke up to get some rest in preparation for today's public hearing on the proposal.

West Marin Lions Choose Officers

Novato Jaycee Election

STOCKS TODAY

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed generally higher today in fairly active trading. Some wide gains and a number of small losers were posted.

Volume for the day was estimated at 2,600,000 shares compared with 2,730,000 yesterday.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point dotted the list of key issues. Wider moves were made by an assortment of stocks which drew speculative demand.

Pins To The Rescue

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—Winchester's Rescue Squad had its crash truck on exhibit at a picnic, at which a Richmond safety engineer was a special guest. The engineer ripped the seat of his trousers while scrambling over the vehicle. The Rescue Squad quickly came to his help with safety pins.

Youths Lose In 'Game' With Officer

Three juveniles fram Sausalito played hide and seek with a Mill Valley police officer last night in their trimmed-down Model A Ford and turned out to be the losers in the game.

William Walsh was patroling on Throckmorton avenue in the business district at 8:45 p.m. when he saw three young men in a Model A Ford which had no fenders, improper tail lights and no license plate light. When he drove toward the car, the driver turned on West Blithedale avenue to escape. Walsh said he followed but the car sped away from him at speeds of 50 and 60 miles per hour in the residential section.

Walsh searched and found the ancient Ford on Blithedale terrace off Eldridge avenue. The three juveniles were lying on the floor of the car.

The driver was cited for speeding, driving without due caution, failure to yield to red light and siren and no front fenders, tail lights, license light, hand brake nor wipers.

Walsh said when he asked the driver why he did not stop, the boy said his father told him never to get mixed up with police.

Meeting Postponed

The Larkspur Recreation Commission postponed its scheduled meeting last night because of lack of a quorum, Secretary John Barry reported.

Resuscitator For Belvedere Asked

Purchase of a new resuscitator which has been in use on a trial basis by the Belvedere Volunteer Fire Department was recommended at last night's meeting by Chief Lawrence T. (Buck) Mersereau.

The resuscitator, which Mersereau feels is an essential item of equipment, would be available to both the fire and police departments.

The recommendation for purchase will be sent to the city council.

Should Donations Of Blood Be Given On Good Friday?

Tomorrow is Good Friday, the anniversary of the day on which Jesus Christ died on the Cross.

Tomorrow too, a mobile blood procurement unit makes a regular visit to Marin County to accept donations for the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank.

Isn't this a peculiar day on which to make such a trip? Is the need for blood so critical that a scheduled trip couldn't be cancelled on such a holy day?

We asked these questions and got some disquieting information.

Although Marin County residents have been increasing the amount of blood they are donating, the amount they are using is increasing at a much more rapid rate. In February this year, for example, donors gave 198 pints of blood as compared with only 99 in the same month a year ago. However, Marin's three general hospitals used 376 pints of blood in February this year as compared with only 186 pints in February 1959.

Thus while In February 1959 Marin used 87 more pints than it donated, this February our people needed 178 more pints than we gave even though we doubled our giving.

The same situation existed during January and December, too, only the donations in those two months did not increase as much as they did in February.

Actually, over that three months period, Marin hospitals have needed and used 80 per cent more blood than a year ago while the donors have contributed an increased supply of only 36 per cent.

There are many reasons Marin hospitals are using more blood. Major one, of course, is the increasing population. Another reason is improved facilities at all three hospitals which, with more physicians in Marin, have increased use of the county's surgical and other facilities.

An added factor to this larger need is the necessity for a large reserve supply. A year ago the three hospitals were adequately supplied if they together had 200 pints of the various blood types on hand. Today they must have 400 pints in their inventory to meet the daily requirements and anticipated emergencies.

So you can see why the mobile unit must come to San Rafael on Good Friday. The need for blood is great.

Come to think of it, it might be quite appropriate to make a blood donation tomorrow. If you think so too, the unit will be at the Elks Club between 2:30 and 6:30 p.m.

A Flower For Easter

Lilies are traditional as the Easter flower and lovely they are. A common Marin wildflower which resembles an Eastern Orthodox cross when its four-petaled blossom opens is another reminder of the Resurrection holiday.

We refer to wild mustard which is blooming now in almost all parts of Marin. The picture of a cross which they present is so striking that the botanical family to which they belong is called Cruciform. That some of these are veined blood-red aids the illusion that they are Nature's reminder of the Easter story.

Wild mustard comes in many colors —from the purest white to a reddish brown, with side colors of violet and pink. It is almost always in bloom at Easter time in Marin.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

HOLY THURSDAY

At the Last Supper, the Divine Master stressed over and over again that love of others for His sake should be the distinguishing mark of His followers.

Not only did He institute the Holy Eucharist as an abiding example of God's continuing love for man, but He also said:

1. "By this will all men know that you are My disciples, if you have love for one another."
(John 13:35)

2. "If you love Me, keep My commandments."
(John 14:15)

3. "He who loves Me, will be loved by My Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him."
(John 14:21)

4. "This is My commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you."
(John 15:12)

5. "Greater love than this no one has, that one lay down his life for his friends."
(John 15:13)

See that all that you think, say and do is dominated by a divine love for mankind, and the more meaningful and dynamic your life is bound to become.

Deepen in me, O Holy Spirit, such a love for others that I may always seek their good.

That Rut Middle-Aged Man Rebels Against Is Actually His Refuge

To the outside eye the average middle-aged man looks about as settled as an old farm barn and as romantic as a broken umbrella.

He has a slightly seedy look of responsibility and respectability, and his face wears the vaguely harassed air.

He is a dreamer. And the dreams he dreams are every bit as wild and unrealistic as those of any adolescent boy.

Pause at any office water cooler in the land and sooner or later you will hear some careworn codger give wistful voice to this classic daydream of masculine middle age: "Boy if I was just a bachelor again and had my present income to spend on myself. Men get married too young. I'd like to have a year off from marriage — just one year."

It is too bad some philanthropic foundation doesn't now and then issue grants to middle-aged men to test the truth of their dreams. Nothing would frighten them more.

FOR THE FINE fancy freedom the ordinary middle-aged man claims he craves is the last thing, which, in fact, would give him real satisfaction.

When a man has a mortgage on his house and has made a down payment on his ulcer, it is too late for him to essay the role of a wandering Casanova with either competence or enjoyment. It is too late also for him, in most cases, to abandon happily the discipline of his daily job.

If he were given the chance to live out his fondly held dream, within a week or month the pitiable wretch would be clamoring to return to the chains of his old duty.

One of the pleasantest things about dreams is we do not have to make them come true — and find out they are really only nightmares.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Surprised At What Appeared In I-J

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

When I read my paper Friday (April 8), I was surprised. An article reporting on the discussions of the Citizen's Advisory Committee of the Tamalpais Union High School District credits me with quotes, some of which I said and some of which I did not say.

I don't believes I said "Low income families in the redevelopment projects have low average intelligence quotients." I said something more like "There is concentrated here a large number of low income families. The average IQ (or in effect ability to advance academically) of low income groups is lower than average." And it is lower still than average for the Tam district.

I don't believe this is a socialogical surprise or even newsworthy. This is one of our educational problems. And it is one of the reasons for slum clearance, dispersal and redevelopment.

The purpose of this committee is to report to the others what the "grass roots" feeling is in his own area. I knew what I should honestly say would not be popular. I said what I did where I did because that is the proper place for it. It's a lot easier to say nothing now and sabotage it later. I said what I know to be true now, based on statistical facts, and what I believe will happen, based on the information presented. I don't see how you can ask for more.

A statement I made which was not quoted was to the effect that there is a great deal of personal respect and understanding between people in the two communities who have come to know each other, and better integration than one will find in most of Marin, and I invited them down to see; this in spite of the fact that we squabble every so often, usually about the financial problems of our common districts.

And when I say that, based on the information given us, the educational level in the proposed high school will not be as good as the other high schools, I am as much concerned about the kids from Marin City as I am with those of Sausalito.

I know, as a former school teacher and a present parent, that pupils extend themselves if they have to and relax to what is par for the course if they don't. I believe those who have wings should be encouraged to fly and not be allowed to become dodo birds. I know that teen-age people are very strongly influenced by their schoolmates, and so does every other parent.

It is a really tough job to attempt to stimulate pupils whose background reflects the limited environment which was the lot of their parents. It takes time and effort. And pupils who don't require so much attention look good by comparison (especially to themselves!).

Another very disturbing factor to me, again based on facts presented to us, is that the high school at Marin City is apt to be filled with pupils from that area alone, and will accidentally end up a segregated school in an already segregated community. To me this is a violation of the basic principle of redevelopment. Segregation, even accidental segregation, merely compounds an already difficult socio-economic problem for the people caught in it.

While it is true that it is not the responsibility of the Tamalpais Union High School Board to attempt to integrate the educational program in its high school in an already segregated community, it is their responsibility to cope with the results of it. Unless we are quite sure this will not happen we should not take the first step toward it.

A twin campus program with physically limited Tam High School was proposed as one possibility. Another is to select a site which will provide for expansion as needed on such a scale that segregation cannot be the result.

If the population forcast figures have been revised since the fact sheets were issued the question will be asked: "What kind of school will this be, and for what children?" We need to really know the answers. . . .

We have up to three years to make a firm commitment so the housing authority may receive its credit of $500,000 against its federal loan (not reported in the article). We in fairness should try to do it sooner than that. And we must seriously consider the redevelopers desire to have a high school on the project which will upgrade it.

I favor using the Marin City site if segregation can be avoided. If it can't, I favor a larger site elsewhere. We have some time, and we should not make a hasty decision for or against it when a little more planning could possibly obtain better results.

The other needs on the ballot are immediate, for pupils who are already here, and I can recommend their passage. This is why I do not favor placing the whole package on one ballot. . .

Gas Economy Run Had A Marin County Angle—I Made The Trip

In response to virtually no public demand whatever (and this is something into which I mean to look without delay) I hasten to put down a few little-known facts about the Mobilgas Economy Run of last week.

One of the general misconceptions is that the 2000-mile run had no Marin County angle to speak of. Well, I am a loyal citizen of Marin County and I was there.

It may be added that there is nothing like travel through the wilds of Southern California, Kansas, Oklahoma, and the frigid steppes of Iowa and Minnesota, to send one back determined to stay in Marin County however much that may be against the public interest.

THE RUN also traversed parts of Arizona and New Mexico, states for which I have a certain kindly tolerance and where there are educational things to be noted.

In Tucumcari, for instance, the local Chamber of Commerce put in each room a nice beaded bolo-type necktie with its uniting disc bearing the ancient Indian Thunderbird recently adopted by Ford.

Turn this device over and on the back you find stamped the words "Made in Hong Kong."

To me this was proof positive of the anthropological theory that the American Indian originated in Asia.

SOME MIGHTY fine economical driving was done by operators of the 56 contesting cars who showed sound sporting spirit with nobody putting sugar in anybody else's gas tank. One reason was that every car carried an official observer who wouldn't even let anybody put gas in the gas tanks except at proper times and places.

The same sporting spirit was in evidence in our Comet press car of Clymer Publications in Los Angeles. Nobody killed anybody.

Clymer, our host, is an old time motorcycle racer who drives a car like a motorcycle and goes around corners dragging one foot.

Fred Hayward, editor of the Horseless Carriage Club's magazine admires antique cars and is convinced that man was made to go no faster than 55 miles per hour even down-hill.

As is notorious, I am a fearless four-gear artist and I never did solve the mystery of that Comet's automatic transmission. There must be SOME way to make more complications and general fun.

ANYWAY, we tootled along at our various paces and beyond any question set a Run record for economy spelled backward, which is ymonoce and obviously nothing to appeal to any red-blooded American. Sounds pretty Russian if you ask ME.

We made jack-rabbit starts, opened our windows when it was hot, ran our heater when it was cold, didn't look ahead and told stories instead of tending to business.

Those devoted boys and girls who were contesting, on the other hand, really slaved to save gasoline. They started slow, ran to the tight average, looked 'way up the road to keep from being suckered in behind a truck up a hill, kept their feet light on the throttle and lived pure lives.

Hardly sounds worth while to imitate them, but no question about it, they set a mighty fine example for the American driver. And why an oil company sponsors the idea of saving fuel really beats me.

Up to the 1960 Mobilgas Economy Run, I thought nobody but airplane pilots got only head winds. But believe it or not, four out of our five driving days to Minneapolis the run drew head winds, or at the very least some mighty tough quartering winds.

This was along with flood, heavy traffic and other matters supposed to afflict every run.

New Unemployment Law Will Cost Employers 43 Million Dollars

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Another ride on the well-known government gravy train, at the expense of California employers, gets under way this week. The State Department of Employment announced that some 67,500 unemployment insurance beneficiaries will be entitled to an additional six to 13 weeks of benefits, starting now.

The department was careful not to put in its press release the amount of money this will drain out of the unemployment insurance fund. But the best estimates available indicate the charge could go as high as $43 million.

THE ADDITIONAL free ride for the rocking chair contingent results from a 1959 legislative act, adopted under the Gov. Edmund G. Brown program of "responsible liberalism."

The act in brief provides that the extended benefits shall be paid when unemployment covered by the code equals or exceeds six per cent of covered employment.

Irving H. Perluss, director of the department, said the officials computation is that the average of weeks of unemployment claimed during January through March of 1960 of 222,146 was 6.02 per cent of the average of covered employment of 3,689,966 for the four calendar quarters which ended Sept. 30, 1959.

THUS, FOR TWO hundredths of one per cent, employers of California are being forced to pay out up to $43 million in benefits which would have been saved except for the "responsible liberalism" program of Governor Brown.

The additional payments, it is believed, will have a tremendous adverse effect on the merit ratings of some employers. These ratings call for decreases in the amount of unemployment contributions paid if the employment in the concern affected is reasonably regular.

However, if additional benefits are paid, the added funds out of the employer reserve could easily affect the reserve accounts employers maintain with the department. Higher taxes are required if these fall below certain levels.

SOME INDICATIONS are to the effect that the added benefits will be recurring, year after year, as the quarter ending March 31 usually is the lowest employment period in the state. Christmas help has been laid off, and the agricultural season has not yet gotten under way, so naturally, unemployment is higher than during the other quarters of the year.

Unemployment insurance when originally adopted was designed to bridge the gap between jobs, for workers who were actually out of jobs, and needed insurance for grocery and other expense money.

The original intent of the law, adopted in 1935 as a depression measure, never was to provide unemployed individuals with a living while they pick and choose their own jobs.

MANY EMPLOYER representatives decry the fact that the government has turned unemployment insurance into a device for supporting the idle while they refuse work, and relax on government money gouged out of the employer, until a job comes along they will consider taking. Several investigations over the past years have proven this policy is growing, rather than decreasing.

Few people, many employers point out, would be without jobs today if they really wanted to work.

Leftist Asked To Become Italian Premier

ROME (UPI) — President Giovanni Gronchi turned today toward the left and asked former Premier Amintore Fanfani to try to form a government and end eight weeks of political crisis.

Fanfani served as premier only 15 months ago, but was ousted by the conservatives in his own Christian Democratic Party because of his leftist tendencies.

DECISION RESERVED

Fanfani reserved decision on whether to try to form a new government which would have to depend on splinter groups in the National Assembly to stay in power.

Even though the new premier-designate is considered of the left, he still can expect opposition from the powerful Communist and leftwing Socialist parties in Parliament.

The "little professor" also would get bitter opposition from all parties right of center and from some factions within his own party. Fanfani delayed his decision until he consults those party factions.

HIS STATEMENT

"Given the difficulties and the extreme delicacy of the situation," Fanfani said today, "I was not able to take upon myself the duty of assisting the work of giving a government to the country."

Fanfani first tried as premier in 1954 but was rejected by the Chamber of Deputies. After the 1958 general elections in which the Christian Democrats won a plurality, Fanfani captured leadership of his party and became premier July 2.

Radio System Hailed As Air Collision Preventer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said today it has found a low-cost radio system that could eliminate 99 per cent of mid-air collisions.

More than that, the service said, the system also would perform navigation and traffic control chores. The Army reported the proposed setup would pave the way for eventual automation of flight control.

Three scientists at the Diamond Ordnance Fuse Laboratories here evaluated a number of proposed collision-avoidance systems. They endorsed one called NATCAS, which is short for navigation, air traffic control and collision avoidance system.

They said NATCAS operates under all weather conditions, is low in cost and simple in design, preserves military and security, and is suitable for all sizes of aircraft.

NATCAS would enable traffic controllers on the ground to keep a constant check on all planes aloft. Planes also could be controlled by automatic signals from unattended radio devices on the ground.

The system would warn a pilot of the danger of collision and indicate what action to take.

Foreign Ministers Wind Up Meetings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Western foreign ministers wound up a three-day strategy session today with general agreement on Allied policy for the May summit meeting in Paris with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

After forging a revised German-Berlin plan and reaffirming their demand for controlled disarmament, the Western powers put together a number of secondary suggestions for reducing tension in the cold war.

Leaving the final two hour talk, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said it had been a "very satisfactory meeting."

Also sitting in on today's conference with Herter, de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak.

One of the principal ideas under discussion today was a British plan, viewed without too much enthusiasm by the United States, to ask Russia to join in an agreement to restrict arms shipments to turbulent Africa.

Pony Express Men Missing

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Three California horsemen reriding the old Pony Express trail through Nevada have not been heard from or sighted since they started across the deserted trail from Salt Lake City, Utah, last Saturday.

Jack Nolan, a 28-year-old Culver City gunsmith, picked up the traditional mail pouch from another rider Saturday at 3:20 p.m. and reportedly headed across the state line.

The trail through Nevada runs south of the Ruby Mountain range, north of Austin and then into Carson City, the only major population center it meets in Nevada.

The team originally estimated the ride through Nevada would take five to six days.

The trail, which began in St. Joseph, Mo., ends in Sacramento.

Dixie Board To Sign To Buy School Site

Dixie School District trustees are expected to sign a contract next week for the purchase of 10 acres of land on which a new school will be built.

The land, part of the Freitas ranch, will cost $6,300 an acre.

The site is adjacent to the Terra Linda High School site on Nova Albion way in Terra Linda Valley. Negotiations for purchase of the site have been going on since August of 1959.

The final contract is expected to reach the board in time for its April 20 meeting, Supt. Dennie B. Willis reported today. The part of that meeting devoted to signing the contract will be public.

A second portion of the meeting, for teacher contract consideration, will be closed, Willis said.

Willis said construction of the new school will not begin until some time in 1961, with eight to 10 classrooms planned to begin the project. At a later date, the classrooms is expected to be brought up to 20.

Construction funds will be gained through a state loan, as the district is bonded to its limit, Willis said.

The board did not hold its regular board meeting last night for lack of a quorum. The next regular meeting will be April 27.

Chandelier Available

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A local banker has replaced a half-ton chandelier with modern fluorescent lighting as part of a remodeling program. Now the bank can't decide what to do with the chcandelier.

Run Through Glass Door Injures Boy

A San Francisco youth suffered multiple cuts yesterday when he ran through a plate glass door at a Belvedere home.

Aluminum-Domed Shop Center Set

Sam Neider, San Francisco real estate investor, has announced plans for a shopping center and bowling alley to be housed in aluminum geodesic domes at Strawberry Point on Highway 101.

He said that it will be the first aluminum shopping center in the United States. One of the Bucky Fuller designed domes will be about 200 feet in diameter, 75 feet high and will hold several stores, Neider said. Stores will be placed in a half circle around the large dome and there will be a mall between stores and dome.

A second, smaller dome, will house a bowling alley. The domes are to be purchased from Kaiser Industries.

Work on the project will begin by fall, Neider said, provided plans are approved.

Safeway Stores has taken a survey of the area and indicated it would like to place a store into the center, he said.

The center, Neider said, will be part of a development in the Strawberry Point area consisting of Harbor Point Beach Club, for which tennis courts have now been constructed; Harbor Point subdivision; Harbor Cove, next to De Silva island and facing Highway 101, and Harbor Vista, the hilly area immediately behind the proposed shopping center.

The center will have one-half mile frontage on the highway. Entrances will be via the service road.

Neider said he plans a small but complete shopping facility.

"It will have everything," he said, "a place to have one's watch fixed, shoes repaired, cleaning and laundry done and book rentals made." These are in addition to the market and other services.

Brown Signs Bill Permitting School Science Property

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More California school children will have a chance to observe nature at first hand under a bill signed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The measure, introduced in the 1960 legislative session by Assemblyman Myron H. Frew (D-Dinuba), permits county school supervisors to acquire property for outdoor science and conservation programs.

It also permits school authorities to exchange property received as a gift for other property held by federal, state and local governments.

Vandals Take Canopy From Display Plane

Somebody has sabotaged the Navy jet plane which is being groomed for public display at San Rafael's Albert Field.

The fighter, donated by the Navy and under alteration and repainting at Dave Wheeler's Marina, was stripped of its canopy sometime this week.

Recreation Director Joseph Rodota issued an appeal for anyone with any information on the canopy to call the recreation department or police.

"I doubt if we can ever get another canopy to replace the missing one," said Rodota. To the practical jokers who took the canopy, it may seem funny, but to the youngsters who are looking forward to the jet plane, it is an irreplaceable loss, Rodota declared.

BLIND BEGGAR CLIENT

Hallinan Returns To Court, Loses Case

Attorney Vincent Hallinan of Ross, suspended from the bar for three years, returned to the San Francisco courtrooms yesterday to defend a blind beggar.

He lost.

Hallinan, a veteran trial lawyer who was once sent to jail for contempt during an arduous defense of longshore leader Harry Bridges, got his three-year suspension from the state Supreme Court for income tax violations.

Of his latest client, accordionist Robert F. Greenswalt, 39, Hallinan said:

"This man is not a beggar. He's a wandering troubador who gives entertainment to people and asks nothing in return."

But the jury of seven men and five women found Greenswalt guilty of begging, as charged.

Greenswalt was allowed to remain free on $21 bail until Municipal Court Judge Byron Arnold considers Hallinan's request for a new trial. Hallinan contends the city ordinance against begging is illegal.

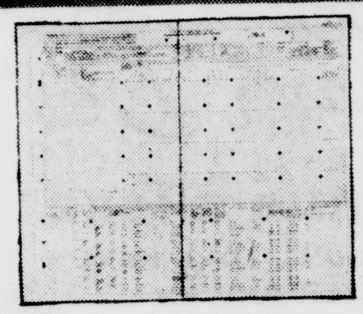
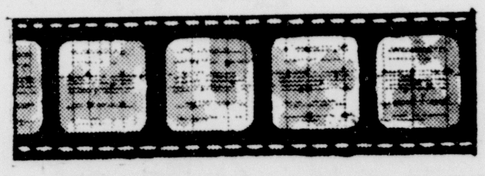
EVERY HOME IN AMERICA will get this census questionnaire. Watch the mail for your questionnaire. Filling it out in advance will save you time when the census taker calls. There are several simple questions about the persons in your household, and a few questions about the house itself.

U. S. Department of Commerce
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS
CENSUS ENUMERATOR
Official Credential
EXPIRES JUNE 30, 1960

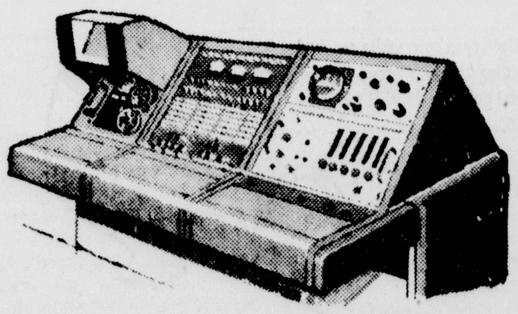


YOUR CENSUS INFORMATION will be transferred to a master sheet by the census taker. Most of your answers will then appear simply as a series of dots on paper.

CONFIDENTIAL PICTURE OF YOU. Under the law your census information is strictly confidential. No person, no government agency—not even the Treasury Department or the FBI—can find out anything about you from your census report. Modern processing further removes personal identity by reducing your report to a pattern of dots on microfilm.



This "FOSDIC" (Film Optical Sensing Device for Input to Computers) will automatically "read" the microfilm dots and transfer data to magnetic tape for electronic tabulation and computing. Four of these machines will do the work of 2,000 clerks. Census information will be available faster than ever before to help plan for better living.



CENSUS COUNT DETERMINES YOUR REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS. All who work and plan for America's better future—educators, scientists, engineers, businessmen and clergymen—need the 1960 Census information.

Giant Candlestick Lights Up Tonight

By JACK HANLEY

HANLEY

An era of baseball that died when they began needling the ball has been resurrected by the natural elements prevailing in Candlestick Park.

All of baseball's heirarchy have been conspiring against the pitchers for more than three decades and now nature has come to their aid. The hitters are moaning and the pitchers are smiling.

Candlestick is forcing a game of baseball that the present generation never saw. The big smash, the homer, was the thing to be admired hereabouts and thereabouts throughout both major league circuits since the fabulous Babe Ruth did magical feats even with an almost lifeless ball.

Ruth's prodigous homers prompted ball club owners into a silent, gentlemen's conspiracy that transformed baseballs into spherical jackrabbits. No harm was done, except to the pitchers. The sporting public, filing through the turnstiles, certainly wasn't duped. That's what the fans came to see — homers and more of the same.

EVEN FENCES were moved in or torn down like the old high barrier in Seals Stadium's left field to encourage the homer production.

Now, in the mysterious way she operates, Mother Nature has equallized all that in Candlestick. She is blowing and blowing a benign breeze on the pitchers and against the hitters. It's been a long time since the pitchers had a friend and the one they got on their side now is a mighty powerful one.

Bill White, the Cardinal center fielder, looked like a crazy ballet dancer as he tried to get under a couple of powerful shots off Orlando Cepeda's bat. He couldn't catch up with the first one that fell in for a triple He did get the second but only after crashing into the wire fence. In any other park, except perhaps Pittsburgh's Forbes Field, both of Cepeda's tremendous blows would have been homers.

HANK SAUER, a pretty fair home run hitter before age finally turned him into a scout, said that if the wind blows like it did opening day "Ten homers won't be hit in left field all season."

Bill Rigney, having properly evaluated the situation on Monday during the Giants' first practice session in Candlestick, played for a one run game Tuesday by ordering Jimmy Davenport's first inning bunt.

"It looks like that's the way we'll have to play it — start bunting right from the first," said Rigney.

Candlestick is going to be a low scoring park with a premium placed on base running. And that is something the present generation may appreciate more than the slam-bang game which still is in vogue elsewhere, but not Candlestick.

Relief Work For Spahnie

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Charlie Dressen, the Milwaukee Braves' manager, has a new job for Warren Spahn, his ace lefthander.

He plans to use the 38-year-old veteran in the bullpen—at least for the series with Philadelphia which starts tonight and continues Saturday and Sunday.

"I want to keep all my pitchers working," Dressen said last night. "I don't intend to start Spahnie again until next week but I want him to be ready to go in and help if we need him."

Spahn, who had a 21-15 season last year and won 20 or more games a year 10 times, pitched the opening game for Milwaukee against the Pirates Tuesday but was lifted in the eighth inning. Don McMahon, a big righthander relieved him and got credit for the victory. Spahn gave up seven hits and two runs before he was relieved.

Dressen also plans to have Juan Pizarro, a young lefthander who has shown promise but has lacked control this spring, in the bullpen with Spahn.

Dressen plans to start Carl Willey, a big righthander against the Phillies tonight and use Bob Buhl and Lew Burdette in the games Saturday and Sunday.

San Jose State Romps

SAN JOSE (UPI)—San Jose State swamped Long Beach, 21-1, yesterday in a college baseball game. The Spartans' John Jurevich whacked two homers.

Ripney Hails McCormick . . . 'Never Better'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I never saw him pitch a better game. He's getting stronger all the time."

Mike had a no-hitter going into the top of the eighth inning when Stan Musial slapped a hit to left field on a pitch Mike didn't even think was a strike.

Musial was erased on a double play but Leon Wagner homered in the inning and Alex Grammas collected a ninth inning single. That was all the damage. Mike didn't walk a batter and struck out four.

He said he was getting more spin on his curve ball and getting it over the plate.

"Before, the hitters would take the curve and I'd have to throw a changeup or the fast ball. They can't do that anymore," he said.

Even though he just reached voting age Sept. 29, Mike has been a Giant since 1956 when the club shelled out a $50,000 bonus to sign him as a San Gabriel prep.

BAD PITCH

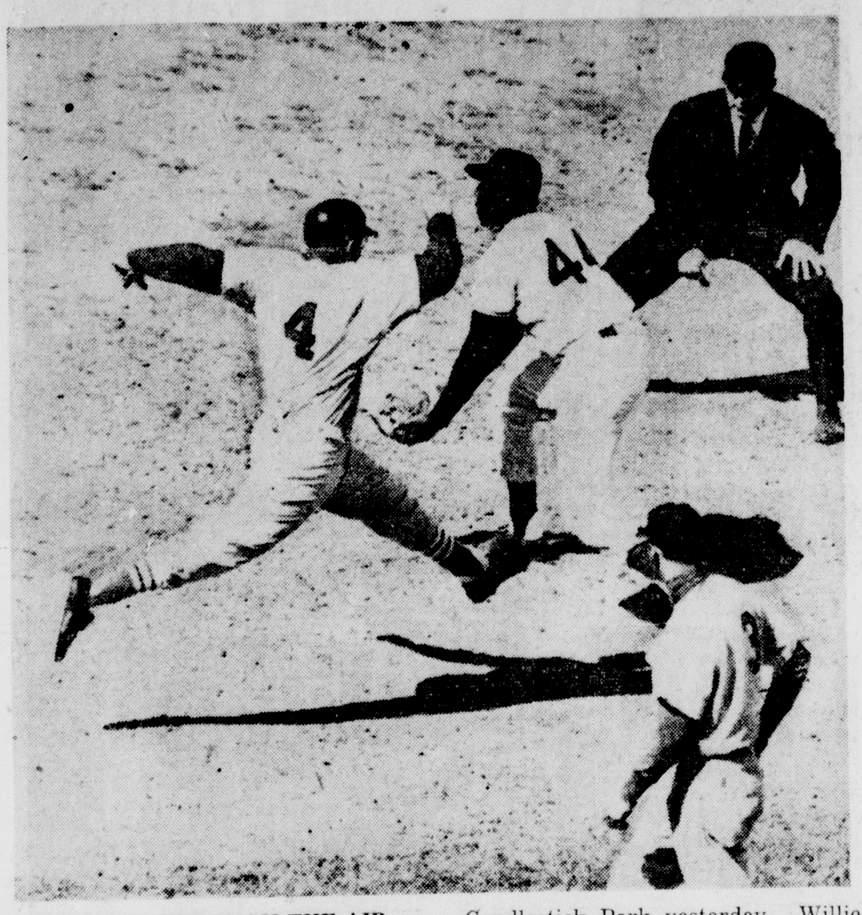
He added, "Musial is one of the greats, but I feel I made a bad pitch."

The young hurler said Musial seemed fooled on two curves but with a count of two balls and two strikes he tapped an inside fast ball.

Stan said his first hit of 1960 felt great because at 39, "I'm a young man—not an old one."

McCormick posted a 12-16 record last season, but on several occasions lost low scoring games by one-run margins. This time the Giants saw to the run-making early, scoring three in the second and two in the third.

McCormick retired the first 17 men to face him. Then relief pitcher Ernie Broglio was safe on second baseman Don Blasingame's error.



HE FLOATS THROUGH THE AIR—Cardinals' Bob Nieman has both legs off the ground but he didn't have enough altitude to make first base safely in this fifth inning action at Candlestick Park yesterday. Willie McCovey already had the ball when photo was snapped. Umpire is Ken Burkhart and No. 3 is Cardinal Coach Harry Walker. (AP Wirephoto)

Sherry Loses As A Starter, May Return To Relief Role

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It's still too early to tell whether much relief is in sight for Larry Sherry, the premier pitcher of the 1959 World Series.

Last year, Sherry brought the Los Angeles Dodgers the kind of relief perennially promised in the exclamatory ads of the aspirin pushers, but he grew weary of this method of pain killing and asked for a chance to become a regular starter.

Last night — with nine straight victories behind him, including two in the World Series—he got the start and stumbled. The Chicago Cubs beat him 4-0 on homers by Frank Thomas and Ernie Banks and five-hit pitching by Glen Hobbie, who had never before managed to master the Dodgers.

Tonight the Dodgers meet St. Louis in the opener of a three-game series that will be interrupted by Good Friday. Left-hander Johnny Podres, 14-9 last year, will start for Los Angeles. Right-hander Ron Kline, who was 11-13 with Pittsburgh, will go for the Cards, who just lost two in a row at San Francisco.

One defeat will not dictate Sherry's destiny.

"I thought he pitched a good game," said Dodger Manager Walt Alston. "And this isn't going to change things one way or another.

"That home run ball he threw Thomas with two men aboard in the eighth was just about a perfect pitch—low and outside. Sherry couldn't have put it in a better place if he had walked it up to the plate.

"And I don't care who you are, you can't win a game unless you get some runs.

"My concern with Sherry is not whether he can go long enough to be a good starter. He came in early a couple of times last year and was still pumping in the ninth. My concern is where he'll do the club the most good.

"I know which way I'm leaning, but I haven't made up my mind yet. What I've been thinking is that Sherry might be able to save two or three games a week in relief—and he's not likely to win two or three as a starter."

Rigneymen Send Sanford Against Chicago's Drott

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Oh, to be in San Francisco now that April's here!

After two games, the Giants are undefeated. Willie Mays is hitting a juicy .625 and the pitching staff has turned in three-hitters back-to-back.

"The club is looking good," Manager Bill Rigney enthused after yesterday's 6-1 thumping of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"They don't appear ragged at all from the hot spring training in Arizona. I think the boys perked up fine in this new ball park."

The Chicago Cubs move into Candlestick Park tonight where they'll face Jack Sanford in the first of a three-game series. He will be opposed by Dick Drott, the fireballing Sub right-hander who is overdue to have a fine season. Game time is 8:15 o'clock in Candlestick's first night time venture.

Lefty Mike McCormick, taking his cue from Sam Jones who held the Cardinals to three hits on opening day, turned back the Redbirds with the same number of safeties yesterday.

SPOILER STAN

Mike didn't allow a hit until the eighth inning when Stan Musial led off with a single to left field. This was old stuff for "The Man" who last April wrecked no-hit bids by Glen Hobbie of the Cubs and Sanford.

After Musial's single, Bob Nieman hit into a double-play but Leon Wagner followed by clouting his second home run here in as many days.

"That McCormick has sparked up since I last saw him," said Wagner, who is an ex-Giant. "He just used to rear back and throw. Now he works the corners more."

Mays had a great afternoon at the plate. He smashed a two-run double off losing pitcher Wilmer Mizell in the second inning and collected a total of three singles in five times up. Mays got his third hit of the day when he deposited a neat bunt down the third base line in the sixth inning and easily beat it out.

"I think I've only bunted twice before," Mays said. "I still prefer to swing."

And swing he did in the eighth inning when he towered a long drive to right field which looked like a fifth hit. But Wagner caught the ball close to the fence.

KIRKLAND HOMERS

A two-run homer by Willie Kirkland accounted for more Giant tallies in the third inning. Kirkland unloaded after Orlando Cepeda had led off with a double.

All told, Mizell was clubbed for five runs and six extra-base hits before Ernie Broglio relieved him with none out in the third.

Yes, nearly everybody is happy in Giantville. The one exception could be Willie McCovey who struck out three times yesterday and hit into a double play.

MAUCH TAKES OVER

Quits Phils Job Surprise! Sawyer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Eddie Sawyer unexpectedly resigned today as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and was succeeded by Gene Mauch.

Mauch, 33, has been manager of the Minneapolis Millers, a Boston Red Sox farm, in the American Association.

"I have an announcement to make that will be a shock and a great surprise to you," Carpenter said. "And I might add a great disappointment to me.

"I spoke to Eddie Sawyer on the phone last night and he resigned as manager."

Sawyer then spoke for himself.

"I just don't care to manage a major league club," he said. "I would like to stay in baseball but have no plans at this time."

SECOND TERM

This was the second term as Phils manager for Sawyer, a 49-year-old former professor at Ithaca College in upstate New York. He first took over the Phils in 1948 and guided the 1950 "Whiz Kids" to the National League pennant. He was let go on June 28, 1952 and succeeded by Mayo Smith.

Sawyer returned as Phils manager in July of 1958. The club finished last under his leadership in 1959, but that season was written off as one in which the Phils were experimenting largely with younger players.

The same policy was in effect this season. The Phils generally were picked to finish last in the National League race. Philadelphia lost its season-opening game to the Cincinnati Reds Tuesday, 9-4.

Mauch was in infielder with Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Milwaukee.

Giants' No. 1 Female Fan Opens Season

By JOHN R. WARD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Don't let these wise guys kid you. The Giants' 1960 baseball season doesn't really open until tonight

That is because the club's most rabid female fan—Mrs. John (Roberta) Morrison—wasn't present Tuesday and yesterday when the hometown heroes did in the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Well, I'll be there tonight," Roberta declared. "And those Chicago Cubs better look out. Why I'll bet Willie Mays wallops two homers against them and Cepeda (Orlando) and Kirkland (Willie) ought to get at least one apiece."

During one Giants-Cub contest last year she taunted Chicago players—and fans—with such abandon that one gentleman from Chicago, sitting two rows below her, dared to object.

Then she proceeded to give him such a bad time he left the stadium. And other Chicago visitors moved uncomfortably from the neighborhood of Mrs. Morrison's seat.

Last year the Giants played in Seals Stadium. It could become as cold as a gambler's stare out there at night. Everybody took blankets and vacuum jugs of hot coffee. But not Roberta.

"It gets kinda windy down at Candlestick Park, Roberta. Are you going to take a blanket this year?"

"Not on your life," she retorted. "Whaddaya think? I'm going down there to see a ball game—not to go to bed."

Veteran Benefits To Change July 1

Veterans today were advised that provisions of the new pension act which will take effect July 1 require that benefits be reduced to $40 a month after two months of Veterans Administration hospitalization.

Formerly pension benefits were reduced one-half or to $30 a month if the veteran had no dependents and remained in a V.A. hospital or domiciliary for more than six months.

In releasing the information, W. P. Duhamel, Marin veterans service officer, said more information is available on the program at his office at 519 Fourth street, San Rafael.

Camp Unit Plans Training Program

The Northern California Section of the American Camping Assn. will hold its annual camp counseling day training program May 21 at Camp Lilienthal in Fairfax.

Zella Davis, a Girl Scout executive, is in charge of a committee that has arranged to cover such topics as camp-inspired music, adventuring in nature, camp crafts, relationships among camp staff and campers, and American Camping Assn. standards.

Hart Stops Kalingo In Video Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky Kalingo, the Philippine welterweight champion, is going back to Los Angeles where it's warm after being cooled off in Chicago in more ways than one.

Sugar Hart of Philadelphia, seventh rated contender, scored a fifth round technical knockout over Rocky last night, spoiling his scheduled 10-round national television debut in Chicago Stadium. Hart weighed 152, Kalingo 145.

Dr. Irving Slott of the Illinois Athletic Commission examined the 24-year-old Kalingo between rounds and ruled he was in no condition to continue. He was dazed, and a cut in scar tissue over his left eye was bleeding freely.

"During most of my training in Chicago, the weather was cold and I'm not used to it," said Kalingo. "I caught cold in my head and I always felt tired. By the third round, I could hardly get my arms up. When I moved in to punch, I couldn't draw back. That's when Hart connected.

"I want to go back to California where it's warm. I would like to fight Hart again there, or in Hawaii."

WISCONSIN TRAGEDY

Fighter Near Death; Dad Absolves Sport

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — University of Wisconsin boxer Charlie Mohr remained near death today but his father said, "Don't blame the sport."

Charles Mohr Sr. was asked if he blamed boxing for his son's very critical brain injury and he said, "Absolutely not."

The father, who has remained around the clock at the hospital with his wife, two daughters and numerous friends, said boxing had always been Charlie's main interest and that he and his wife had approved their son's participation in the sport.

Mohr left the ring under his own power, but collapsed in the dressing room. He was rushed to the university hospital and has been unconscious since that time.

Dr. Manucher Javid, who performed surgery on Mohr late Saturday and early Sunday, said the young boxer suffered "acute sub-dural hematoma, with marked brain damage and with irreversible damage to the mid brain." He said Mohr could continue in his present state indefinitely.

The future of boxing at the University of Wisconsin will be taken up by the school's athletic board as a result of the injury suffered by Mohr.

The Madison Capital Times, afternoon daily here and a long-time foe of the sport, came out Tuesday for its abolition after Mohr was hurt. Other sources friendly to boxing in the past have said the sport may be on its way out at Wisconsin.

LINCOLN QUITS BASKETBALL POST AT SRHS

Bob Lincoln, coach of San Rafael High School's varsity basketball team, has announced his resignation from the San Rafael faculty to accept a similar position in the Hayward School District. The resignation becomes effective at the end of the present semester.

Lincoln, who guided San Rafael to the North Bay League championship in the 1958-59 season, said he tentatively is scheduled to be assigned to Castro Valley High School's physical education department. "It is my belief I'll be named head basketball coach over there," Lincoln said.

L.A. Practice Hurler Elected To Council

TORRANCE (AP) — George Vico, batting practice pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers, has been elected to the Torrance City Council.

Vico, former first baseman, went up to the Detroit Tigers from Portland in the late 40's and hit a home run in his first time at bat in a major league game. He later played for several Coast League teams, including Hollywood.

USF Clobbered, 29-9

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Los Angeles State rolled over USF, 29-9, in a wild baseball game yesterday. Tom Calabese of the winners collected two doubles and a homer while knocking in four runs.

Olympic Stars Quizzed On Personal Life

ROME (UPI) — What makes Sammy run . . . and jump . . . and pole vault?

Looking ahead to this year's Olympic Games at Rome, the organizing committee has airmailed thousands of highly-personal questionnaires to men and women athletes throughout the world.

In addition to the usual queries dealing with name, birthplace and nationality, the form has divisions dealing with drinking, smoking and whether the athletes were breast or bottle fed as babies.

The question on sexual behavior has a sub-division devoted to temperament. Married athletes are asked whether they are making a success of their union and whether it is "good, mediocre or bad."

The "social level" division is indicated by three cross marks, apparently upper crust, lower level or in-between

The first revelation of the survey was printed in the official Olympic Bulletin, which admitted that some of the questions of the special committee are "unusual."

More than 7,000 athletes from about 90 countries who are expected to compete in the 1960 Games will receive the questionnaire.

The form for women athletes is printed on powder blue paper with the coat-of-arms of the she-wolf of Rome and is headed, "Medical Scientific Form For The Olympic Athlete."

One of the leading questions on the female questionnaire asks if the applicant feels she has grown the same as, is superior to, or is inferior to persons of her same age. It also includes queries dealing with diseases from which she suffered, traumas and operations.

The organizing committee neglected to state whether candidates will be obliged to answer all questions, but the survey is expected to touch off an uproar in athletic circles.

Tacoma PCL Debut Postponed—Rain

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—Wet grounds today caused postponement of the scheduled split doubleheader between the Tacoma Giants and the Portland Beavers which was to have marked the return of the Giants to the Pacific Coast League for the first time in 55 years.

The two games will be played Saturday, the first starting at 1:30 p.m. and the second at 8 p.m. Opening day tickets will be honored at that time.

Reed Witt Upset In Orinda Tourney

Reed Witt, Larkspur's young tennis champion, was a surprise loser yesterday in the annual Orinda Country Club Junior Tennis Tournament.

Upsetting the top-seeded Marin County ace in the boys 18 and under age division was Nick Hoogs of Berkeley. The score was 6-4, 1-6 and 7-5.

Heat Is Off Rodgers; Maybe He'll Arrive As Valuable Utility Man

CONNOLLY

It could very well be a Horatio Alger or Dick Merriwell story. I mean, of course, the lowdown on Andre Rodgers, Giant utility infielder, whom stout hearted Horace Stoneham figured to be a savvy guy and who was rushed too fast while still a preliminary boy.

Andre turned out to be a monumental 1959 flop as a batter, as an infielder and above all as a fighter. He even admitted over the radio that he "froze" at bat and in the field.

As the 1960 season wears on don't be surprised if the mighty flop player of '59 becomes the standout performer this season in utility roles.

Andre hit the Giant front office like a hurricane. Boss Stoneham and his "brain buster scouts" bluntly, boldly and sharply advised the Giant boss to insist on Rodgers becoming the 1959 regular shortstop.

Stoneham bowed to his own advisors and Rodgers was ordered to take over at shortstop, Spencer was sent to second base, Danny Boy O'Connell to the bench to make room for the kid who was expected to shine like a 100-karat diamond. Scouts, advisors to Stoneham and even Skipper Bill Rigney were genuinely sincere in the belief that Andre could cut the mustard.

AND WHAT happened?

Rodgers laid the biggest egg outside of an Easter bunny parade that has ever been dropped in the National League since Rube Marquard was named the $100,000 lemon.

And now after an elapse of a year, the ghost of the same Andre Rodgers begins to appear again. But this time the kindly and soft hearted Stoneham isn't demanding that Rodgers play regularly.

RODGERS began his sixth year in professional baseball this week. He busted in in 1954 and in 125 games at Olean, a Giant farm club, went to bat 440 times, clouted out 126 hits, including 9 homeruns for a .286 average.

In 1955 at St. Cloud, another Giant farm club, he played in 123 games, went to bat 452 times, hit 175 base knocks and collected 28 homers, for a 387 average. He also drove in 111 runs.

At Dallas in 1956 he earned the call to New York in 1957, then to Minneapolis late in 1957 and back to S.F. in 1958, being shipped later to Phoenix to establish his best season in top flight ball.

Whenever Andre played regularly he was a potent factor in home runs and driving in runs. He was top among the leaders in everything, including fielding.

SO IN 1960 Andre COULD arrive.

Manager Rigney stated cautiously that he has a warm spot in his heart for Rodgers. He thinks he might be an all around utility infielder replacing Jimmy Davenport at third base in emergencies or Eddie Bressoud at shortstop or even Willie McCovey at first base.

So you see Andre has a lot of fellows pulling hard for his success.

And maybe now that the stage-fright period is past, the Bahamas kid could come through. He was a much better batting prospect at Phoenix than his teammate, McCovey, so why shouldn't he deliver?

Henry Hank Vows He'll Be Champion

"I wouldn't want to fight Sugar Ray because he's too old," said Hank. "You can get hurt when you're too old. And Robinson has always been my idol."

The hard-punching Detroiter, who can't buy a fight in his home town, said he thinks he can kayo any middleweight in the world, including National Boxing Association Champion Gene Fullmer.

"I'll keep knocking them out until I'm ranked No. 1, then they'll have to give me a title shot," he said. Hank, winner of six straight fights, four by knockout, is ranked No. 3 by the N.B.A. and No. 4 by Ring Magazine.

His last start was a six-round kayo over light heavyweight contender Sixto Rodriguez of San Anselmo, Calif., in a nationally - televised affair in which he broke his right hand with the final punch. But the hand has healed and Hank is scheduled to meet Rory Calhoun in a 10-rounder April 25 at San Francisco's Cow Palace.

"He's had to fight light heavy weights to get recognition," said Manager Jim Bowlin, a Detroit car dealer who has handled Hank since he turned pro in 1953 when just 17. "But he'll never move into the 175-pound division. He's a natural middleweight.

NO HURRY

"If he has to wait for a title shot, then he'll wait," Bowlin said. "He's the youngest ranking middleweight and the guys at the top are all up in years."

Hank, who has 20 knockouts in 52 victories against 10 losses and a draw, is a masterful combination boxer.

He came to Detroit as a child from Greenville, Miss., and is married and the father of five children.

"Hank's got the middleweight division all sewed up," said Bowlin. "The only thing that can beat him now is overconfidence."

RIGHT IDEA, WRONG PARK

San Francisco Giants' fan Al Malatesta couldn't get a ticket to Tuesday's opener at Candlestick Park, so he did the next best thing—got a folding chair, cushion and transistor radio and took up a position exactly where the third base box seats were last year at Seals Stadium. Malatesta is partner in the new Quo Vadis restaurant scheduled to open in San Francisco next month.

Finsterwald Tourney Pick

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y., were the early favorites in a field of 150 pros and amateurs opening play today in the $17,500 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

Finsterwald, the 1959 winner, copped the Los Angeles Open and has placed third in his last three tournaments. Nieporte took the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., two weeks ago.

Slammin' Sammy Snead, the millionaire golfer from White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., will be looking for his seventh win here. The gallery favorite finished in the money in last year's tournament on the par 71 Starmount Forest Country Club course.

Eighteen holes will be played daily through Sunday with the big cut coming after the second day.

Absent was Masters Champion Arnold Palmer, who has played here twice, the last time in 1957. Doug Ford, 1958 winner, notified tournament officials he would be unable to play because he is undergoing dental treatment in New York this week.

NOVATO

Golf Trick Shot Artist To Perform

Marin County golf fans will be in for a special treat on April 24 when the famed trick shot artist, Count Yogi, is scheduled to perform at the Indian Valley Golf Course in Novato, it was announced yesterday.

Jim Perrin, professional at the Novato course, said Count Yogi, who has been featured on a number of television shows, will play a nine-hole match and follow it with an hour-long exhibition.

In the "best ball" match the Count will team with LaVerne Carroll, 20-year-old member of the Indian Valley club, against Perrin and Club Champion Fred Volz. Said Perrin, "The Count said he guarantees we will lose to him and his partner. Well, we'll see."

Count Yogi has been widely-acclaimed for his bag of magical tricks on the fairways. Perrin said no admission would be charged to the exhibition.

Champs Tourney To Be Televised

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Finals of the eighth annual $42,000 Las Vegas Tournament of Champions golf matches will be nationally televised by NBC on May 8, network spokesmen announced today.

Sports Commentator Chick Hearn will handle the stroke-by-stroke coverage of the event and Braven Dyer will broadcast color.

RECREATION REPORT

Hunt, Fish For Fun, Not Just For Food

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Extensive plans for recreation in California submitted recently by a committee working to evolve a "master plan" for fun in this state, appear to take hunting and fishing into consideration, but to offer the public a wholly new concept of the purposes of this sport.

For the plan, which is not yet available in book form, contemplates education of the public into the satisfaction of the hunt, and emphasizes less concern with the game bag.

For years now, the game bags of Californians have been dwindling. Time was when a hunter or fisherman could go forth and bring home enough meat to make the trip worth while.

That time is gone forever, with the increase in population, the lessening of the areas in which the public can hunt and fish, and with the increasing number of hunting and fishing licenses issued

The study committee which developed the recreation report, headed by Ed Dolder, who formerly was a public information man for the state division of beaches and parks, and who now is considered, by some people at least, as something of an expert on recreation, apparently recognizes this fact in its suggestion that the joy of hunting be placed over and above the bag limit. The suggestion also indicates there may be an idea in the heads of those responsible for fish and game development that even the present pitiful bag limits be cut down even more.

It may be well to review the antecedents of modern hunting and fishing. In the early days of the nation, the hunter went forth to bring home a deer and furnish meat for the table. The Pilgrim fathers hunted wild turkeys to furnish a Thanksgiving repast.

Over the years, hunting and fishing developed into a so-called "sport" rather than a meat-for-the-table operation, until in this present day and age, the fish and meat actually brought home from a sportsman's trip is probably the most expensive food that a family can buy.

So hunting and fishing has developed into a recreation whereby the sportsman, with a high-powered rifle and perhaps a couple of dogs, pits his skill against an unsuspecting buck deer, which has about as much chance as a snow-ball in the nether regions of escaping, once his trail is whiffed out.

Now the state wants to maintain its all-powerful bureaucracy in educating the public to go into the hunting and fishing areas, and have no concern about the bag limits it might bring home.

A good question is, whether it's worth going forth at all under these circumstances. Why waste time pitting skill against the woods knowledge of the deer, the pheasant, or the quail if the pleasure of the hunt is more important than the game which is brought home for the table?

Like many another early day recreation, hunting and fishing are fast becoming sports of the past in California, and will continue so as population increases. Meanwhile, bureaucracy will continue to attempt to pick up the pieces at the public's expense.

St. Vincent's '9' Boasts Unbeaten Baseball Record

St. Vincent's School for Boys of San Rafael is compiling an enviable record in practice baseball games and appears ready to make a strong run for a championship in the Marin County CYO League starting later this month.

The St. Vincent's team ran its consecutive win streak to five games by beating the Big Rec Team in San Francisco, 17-2 on Saturday and outslugging Mission Delores, 17-11 Sunday.

Sunday Terry Clarity poled a home run and Abury Lessard drove home six runs to highlight the victory.

Thus far this season St. Vincent's team, composed of fifth and sixth graders, has scored 60 runs on 59 hits while opponents have managed only 16 runs and 15 hits.

Freighter, Fishing Boat Collide Out Of San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Japanese freighter and a fishing boat collided about 15 miles off the Golden Gate today with damage to the fishing boat's bow and steering gear.

No injury was reported among the crewmen.

The freighter, the Nevada Maru, sailed from San Francisco at 1:30 a.m. for New York. It collided with the Martiri at 3:01 a.m., seven and one-half miles southeast of the San Francisco lightship.

The Nevada Maru and Coast Guard vessels stood by while the Martiri, which carries a crew of five, proceeded under its own power toward San Francisco.

HAMILTON RING CHAMP UPSET IN TOURNEY

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—Ken Suhovsky scored an upset yesterday in the Air Force Boxing Tournament semi-finals by outpointing the defending welterweight champ.

Suhovsky, 1959 Eastern Golden Gloves champ from New York, used two-handed flurries to beat Dean Harrison of San Francisco and Hamilton AFB. Harrison was last year's inter-service runner-up and Pan-American trials champ.

Harrison was thrown off stride and forced to counterpunch instead of following his normal aggressive style against Suhovsky, who is competing from Kessler AFB, Miss.

Redwood Loses In South S.F. Tourney

Redwood High School's Giants suffered a 5-0 blanking at the hands of Serra High yesterday in the consolation bracket of the South San Francisco Invitational Baseball Tournament.

The Giants were held to two hits.

In the championship round Balboa nipped Westmoor 5-4 and San Mateo downed Santa Rosa, 6-3.

Angluin-King Favored In Marin Golf

Dave Angluin and William King of San Rafael assumed the favorites' role this week as they entered the semi-final round of the Marin Golf Club's men's two-ball championship tourney.

They'll meet Doug Cowan and Stan Mertel, also of San Rafael, in one of the semi-final matches that will be played before next Monday. The other semi pits Gordon Wardlaw of Kentfield and Ron Gemmell of Mill Valley against Bill Rutherford of Larkspur and Col. McConnell.

The Angluin-King duo upset tourney medalists Colin Hill and Syl DeMaestri by a 2 and 1 margin last week. The Cowan Mertel team scored a 3 and 2 margin over Herb Prodger and Patrick McGrath; Wardlaw-Gemmell edged Jack Countryman and Bob Vannucci, 2 and 1 and Rutherford-McConnell won 5 and 3 over Ed Wright and Nate Blumenfeld.

Scorer Changes Mind, Gives Moon A Hit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The official scorer has changed his ruling on a first inning play in the Tuesday Chicago-Los Angeles baseball game, giving Dodger Wally Moon a base hit.

The change takes an error from Ernie Banks, Chicago Cub shortstop. In the play, Dodger Jim Gilliam slid into second base as Moon's hit went by Banks, then advanced to third.

2 Of 3 Boys Trapped On Trestle Die

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A train was thundering toward him at more than 70 miles an hour. Twenty feet above a creek on a railroad trestle, Billy Messer, 9, had only one chance to live.

Trapped on the tracks and killed were Kenneth Ellis, 11, and his brother, Dennis, 7, who lived across the street from Billy in surburban Fridley.

FBI Arrests 2 For Airliner Bomb Jokes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A construction company sales engineer and a mild-mannered glass worker yesterday became the fourth and fifth persons arrested within the past seven days for joking that bombs had been planted on airliners.

Julius Roudolph Radwanski, 38, of Huntingdon Valley, Pa., was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation last night at Columbus, Ohio, for allegedly telling an airline clerk his suitcase was heavy because it had a bomb in it.

Glass worker William A. Grant, 45, of Belmont (San Mateo County) was arrested by the FBI earlier yesterday in San Francisco.

Both were freed on bail. They face possible one-year prison sentences and $1,000 fines if convicted.

Radwanski's bag was searched, but no bomb was found. His Columbus-to-Pittsburgh flight was delayed 32 minutes.

Grant was seeing his wife off on a San Francisco-to-Los Angeles flight when he asked a ticket agent about taking out an insurance policy for his wife. The agent told him his wife would have to sign it. The agent said Grant then commented, "Well, I guess the bomb won't do any good, then."

That flight was held up 33 minutes while Mrs. Grant and her luggage were searched.

Enlists In Navy

John B. Bedock, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Bedock of 61 Sais avenue, San Anselmo enlisted in the Navy yesterday at the Marin County Navy Recruiting Office at 1116 Fourth street, San Rafael, for a four-year tour of duty. He is being sent to the San Diego Naval Training Center for nine weeks of recruit training.

Wheel, Tire Stolen From Parked Auto

Charles Bruce Moyer of 113 Bolsa avenue, Mill Valley, left his car parked at East Blithedale avenue and Tower drive Tuesday morning to commute to work. When he returned in the evening, he found the right rear of the car resting on its brake drum.

Someone had stolen the wheel and tire worth about $80, he told sheriff's deputies.

Worship Topic For Lutheran Altar Guild

"Worship" is being emphasized in April by the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Peace Lutheran Church, which is located at Tennessee Valley road and Highway 1, Mill Valley.

The league's Altar Guild, which handles all properties pertaining to worship, will present a program at the League's monthly meeting Wednesday.

Topic of the program will be: The History and Biblical Background of the Lutheran Liturgy. Following this topic a corporate communion service will be held. "All ladies of Peace Lutheran Church are welcome to attend this program," said Mrs. George Blackmore, Altar Guild chairman.

Other guild members who will participate in the program are Mesdames Charles Campomenosi, Fred Mauroni, Donald Tauer, Russ Troup, John McPartland, Fred Schmidt, Miss Etta Peterson, and Capt. Marguerite Tussey.

Mrs. Robert Weil, church organist, will also participate by interpreting how music fits into the liturgy.

Lodge Supper Party To Be Wednesday

Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge No. 305 and Mt. Tamalpais Lodge No. 399, IOOF, will give a public pot luck supper and "ham whist party," Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows Hall in Mill Valley.

On the committee for the 6:30 p.m. supper will be Mesdames William Roberts, John Luetke and Richard Bennett, and in charge of the 8:30 p.m. whist party will be Frank McKay, Herbert Maxey and Al Hughes.

Proceeds will go to the Odd Fellows' and Rebekahs' blood bank fund.

Tennis Women Make Plans For Tourney

Should there be a wind Tuesday morning, any kite-like objects seen in the sky may be Mill Valley Tennis Clubwomen carried off by the open umbrellas they will be carrying as handicaps in a "Crazy Tennis" Tournament.

Invitations read "Tennis???? —10 a.m.—3 on a side (instead of doubles)—Bring an umbrella."

Planned by women's social chairman Mrs. C. Philip Seymour as the activity to precede the club's regular monthly luncheon, the matches will include players at every level of proficiency. Tennis togs or casual dresses will be order.

Mrs. Melvyn Klyce will be in charge of the unusual tournament, and her assistants will be Mesdames David Stephens, Aubrey Harwood and Eugene Crawford.

Sherry at 12:30 p.m. will precede the 1 o'clock luncheon to be served under the direction of Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Lloyd F. Postel.

Luncheon reservations must be made by noon tomorrow, either with the club managers or Mesdames Semour or Klyce.

New P-TA Formed At Hall School; Tea Is Planned

An installation tea will be held on Thursday, April 21 at 3:15 o'clock in the multi-purpose room of the Henry C. Hall School in Larkspur.

The family of Henry C. Hall has been invited to attend the event. A new P-TA has been formed at the school which has been served this past term by the Larkspur-Corte Madera school unit. This new group will have Mrs. Myron Kaplan as its first president.

Serving with Mrs. Kaplan will be Mrs. Arthur Storhaug as vice president; Mrs. Carl Osterlye as corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jerome Kay, recording secretary; Mrs. John Offenbach, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Easter, auditor; Mrs. Abe Kupperberg, historian; and Mrs. John Lippitt as parliamentarian. Installing the new officers will be Mrs. Kenneth Dunn who is extension chairman for the Ross Valley P-TA.

Besides installation of the new officers, the program will consist of offering for acceptance the by-laws of the new group, and the signing of charter members. A suggestion box will be available at the meeting for anyone wishing to offer ideas for programming, future projects, etc.

Refreshments will be served. Hostesses for the afternoon will be mothers of fourth grade students.

Dessert-Card Party

A dessert-card party which will be held simultaneously in many homes throughout the Belvedere-Tiburon area will be held by St. Hilary Women's Club on Wednesday, June 8 starting at 1 p.m. Co-chairmen will be Mesdames Joseph Keller and J. H. Kinser.

CLEO BARRY WEDS AT HOME RITES

The bride wore a white brocade gown designed with scoop neckline, fitted bodice and full short skirt. Gardenias and forget-me-nots were in her bouquet.

A reception at the home immediately followed the noon ceremony. When the newlyweds left for Lake Tahoe on the honeymoon trip the bride was wearing a small black and white check sheath.

The bride who has another sister, Margo Barry, who resides at home, is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin and is employed by the First Western Bank in San Francisco. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Owens of Port Washington, N.Y.

The new benedict, an employee of Borden's was graduated from Drake and attended College of Marin. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Eling of Kentfield. He has two sisters, Mrs. Larry Vivier of San Anselmo and Geraldine Eling of Kentfield. He is the grandson of Mrs. Rose Mamas of San Francisco.

Corte Madera Section Has A Brunch

More than 150 members of the Evening Section of Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club and their guests enjoyed a Sunday morning brunch recently in the sun drenched patio of the Corte Madera Recreation Center with Mrs. Ernest McCutchen as chairman. Mr. McCutchen, the chef, was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stanich, Bob Mason and Andy Vireno.

Proceeds of this annual fund raising project will go to the health and welfare fund for children in the community.

At the recent meeting of the evening section Mrs. Philip Trau was elected chairman; Mrs. McCutchen, co-chairman; Mrs. Richard Mills, secretary; and Mrs. Wilbur Williams, treasurer.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mesdames McCutchen, Peter Fitzhugh, Richard Mills.

SRHS Class '52 To Hold Reunion

The event will be held in August. Those interested or who have information concerning former classmates are requested to call Mrs. R. T. Le Fevre or Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Putnam.

Novato Club Bazaar Termed A Success

Eight hundred and forty-eight dollars was cleared by the various groups who participated in the Garden Bazaar put on by the Garden Group of the Novato Community cluz at the Brice Market on April 7-9. The bazaar was so successful that the Garden Group is already planning a similar but larger bazaar for the spring of 1961 and is considering having a one-day sale next fall.

People throughout the community were most generous in their donations as well as their patronage. Mrs. Ray Foster received the $10 award offered by the Garden Group to the largest donator.

'Island Holiday' Chairmen Named

Committee heads have been announced for the "Island Holiday" hour-long cruise and barbecue on Angel Island, Sunday, May 15, by the Grape Booth Guild of Sunny Hills.

Publicity chairman for the forthcoming Hawaiian event is Mrs. Edward Davis, assisted by Mrs. Irwin Kaufman. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Donald Miley, 70 Idlewood road, Kentfield, according to Mrs. J. W. M. Schorer, general chairman of the fund raising event to benefit the 61st Sunny Hills annual grape festival, to be held this year on Oct. 1. President of the Grape Booth Guild is Mrs. George Andrews.

Novato Camp Fire Groups Host Dad-Daughter Dinner

It was the fifth annual dinner to be held here and was attended by 200 dads, daughters, Camp Fire Guardians, leaders, and District Board members. Special guests from the Marin County Council were Mrs. Edward Zeller, San Rafael, president; Mrs. Paul Talbot, San Anselmo, and Mrs Hartley Sater, San Anselmo, camp chairmen, and Mrs. Sandra Keene, field director.

After dinner, which each girl provided for father and herself, the special guests were introduced by Howard Dank, chairman of special events. Mrs. Zeller gave a short talk expressing her enthusiasm for the growth of the Camp Fire program in Novato. Mrs. Sater spoke on Day Camp activities for this coming summer and Mrs. Talbot gave the fathers and girls an informative outline of the daily routine at Camp Kilowana, the resident camp on Mt. St. Helena. Mrs. Keene then showed slides taken at the summer camp.

Following this camp information, a program was presented including a skit by the Tam Lo Kon Da Camp Fire Girls, a demonstration by the Ko Pi Ya Camp Fire Girls, songs by the Dancing Blue Birds, the Swans Blue Birds, and the Tulip Blue Birds, dances by the Hummingbird Blue Birds and the Miwok Blue Birds, and a puppet show by the Mea Zo Ton Camp Fire Girls.

Table decorations for the evening were made by the girls including place cards, place mats and center-pieces. These followed the theme chosen for the dinner and resulted in colorful tables and gave a festive air to the evening.

Marin World Wings Auction Set April 20

The Marin Unit of the San Francisco Bay Area Chapter of World Wings International, Inc., (eight-year-old organization of ex-Pan American World Airways stewardesses) will hold its first auction of the year at the home of Mrs. Paul C. Vogelheim, 150 Woodbrine drive, Mill Valley, Wednesday evening, April 20.

Co-chairmen and co-hostesses for the event are Mrs. R. J. Burkhard of Greenbrae and Mrs. Vogelheim. Aiding the North Marin co-chairman is Mrs. R. E. Hall of San Rafael and aiding the South Marin co-chairman is Mrs. M. W. Schoder of Mill Valley Mrs. W. F. Cozad of Novato and Mrs. Thomas H. Kewin (Marin County chairman of World Wings), served on the committee planning the event.

Members will meet at 8 o'clock at a Mill Valley exchange shop (228 E. Blithedale) which is their headquarters for receiving items to be donated directly to Sonoma State Hospital and the Senior Citizens Center in San Rafael. (The purchase of any item put for sale by a member in the shop goes toward aiding Sonoma's Volunteer Services.) The purposes of meeting at the shop will be to familiarize new members with the facilities and to give all members an opportunity to present and discuss more efficient and fruitful means of handling current projects as well as a chance to advance ideas involving future plans.

At 9 o'clock, the group will progress to the home of Mrs. Vogelheim for the auction. Mrs. Vogelheim has had previous experience as an auctioneer at fund raising events so that the evening promises to be both entertaining and financially successful. Members will bring for auction: clothing, jewelry, bric-a-brac, and small furniture, as well as their own creative art productions such as paintings, mosaics, needlework, mobiles and artificial floral arrangements. Half the auction price will be deposited in the group's fund which goes directly to the rehabilitation of teen-age residents of Oak Lodge at Sonoma State Hospital. The other 50 per cent is returned to the member who contributed the article to go toward the purchase of materials and supplies to encourage that member's pursuing her own creative talents toward the production of more items for future auctions. Any items not sold at the auction will be presented for sale by the owner to the Mill Valley exchange shop previously mentioned. Dessert and coffee will follow the auction.

Final Leadership Training Series Will Be April 26

Tuesday morning, April 26, the last formal session will be held of the current leadership training series sponsored by the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters, and the P-TA Council.

The announcement was made by the branch's status of women chairman Mrs. Robert E. Eddy, who has served as coordinator of the series which started last October.

The meeting is set for 10 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Edmond Gross, Mill Valley P-TA Council president.

For the past three months, Dr. Samuel N. Le Count, director of adult education at the College of Marin, has been assisting the group at its bi-monthly sessions and will be the leader at the final one.

He announces that the group will explore the statement that "Individuals show an apathy towards any kind of community action, particularly in the realm of local government."

In addition to the discussion at each session, individual participants have been giving reports on their research. At a recent meeting Mrs. Horace O. Schwartz of the P-TA Council discussed methods of evaluating the work an organization has done.

Using the "Adult Leadership" magazine as a guide, other members have covered different aspects of organization work, according to Mrs. Eddy.

She also reported that the success of the group has prompted plans for another workshop. It will start in the fall, and current participants will continue attending. Invitations will also be extended to newly elected officers and chairmen of the three sponsoring organizations. Further details will be announced.

Garden Party Planned By Women's Club

A garden party is being planned by the St. Hilary's Women's Club to be held at the Belvedere Lagoon home of Mrs. Robin McCrea on Thursday, April 21. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m. followed by a social hour of fun and prizes.

Summer straw hats which have been decorated by the members will be on sale according to Mrs. C. J. McDermott, president. Those attending are asked to bring a cellophane or saran wrapped gift as a donation to the Village Salvage Shop.

Purpose of the affair is to help parishioners become better acquainted. Hostesses will be members who live in Strawberry and Bayview Heights.

St. Brigid's Final Slide Series Set

Two prominent Sausalitans will provide the material for the final "picture show" in the St. Brigid's Guild series that is scheduled for Wednesday April 20 in the Guild Hall of Christ Episcopal Church, Sausalito.

Starting at 8:15 p.m., and open to the public, the program could well be titled "Olympics Re-visited." In two parts, the first will be Marvin Becker's color and sound movie showing the readying of Squaw Valley for the VIII Winter Olympics. Readers of the Independent-Journal will have seen the story of Becker's assignment as official Olympics photographer in last Saturday's Marin Magazine section of the I-J. The 28 minute film has been seen by millions and includes sequences filmed during the North American Ski Championships.

The second part of the program comprises the best of Dr. Emmet L. Rixford's color slides taken during the skiing, skating and hockey events while he and Mrs. Rixford were at Squaw Valley.

Mrs. Robert F. Crowell, president of St. Brigid's promiss a treat for those who were unable to make the trip, for those whose viewing was limited to black and white TV, and pleasant memories for those who did attend in person. Mrs. S. C. Stapp, chairman for the evening, has asked Robert Gunn to be master of ceremonies and Carl W. Spring will operate the projectors.

Twin Cities P-TA Installation Tea Planned April 20

The Larkspur-Corte Madera unit of P-TA will hold an Installation Tea on Wednesday, April 20 in the school cafeteria at 3:15 p.m.

The new president will be Mrs. H. C. Stephensen. Other officers to be installed are Mesdames Martin Van den Akker, vice president; Frank Miller, corresponding secretary; Christian Hansen, recording secretary; Gilbert Slusher, treasurer; Wayne Hansen, auditor; Ralph Potter, historian; and Mrs. James Lewis, parliamentarian. Serving as installation officer will be Mrs. Primo Pinotti.

Speaker for the afternoon will be Prof. Gunnar Sausjord, professor at San Francisco State College. Professor Sausjord's topic will be "Comparative Education" in which he will discuss the areas of difference between European and American education.

Garden Section To Tour Arboretum

A tour of the arboretum is the main part of the program. Those planning to go are to meet at 10:30 a.m. at the Arboretum information booth, or in case of rain, at the Academy of Sciences at the Morrison Planetarium.

Planned as a "fun affair," will be a contest with unusual plants from the arboretum awarded as prizes for those wearing the best hats of their own design made from any fresh fruits, flowers or vegetables.

Garden section chairman Mrs. Robert Ayers announces that no reservations are necessary but that members should bring a "nose bag" lunch, and coffee will be served.

Those wishing transportation have been requested to call Mrs. Howard Lieben.

Dorcas Circle Plans April 21 Style Show

Against a background of tinted tree branches with crepe paper blossoms, 30 models will show their own creations in the Spring Silhouettes Fashion Show in the Novato Community Methodist Church. The event, sponsored by women of the Dorcas Circle, will take place at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 21.

While the show is being presented for the benefit of the church, at the same time it has served as a creative project for circle members. Each model has selected outifts which she has made for herself.

Leading the fashion parade will be Mrs. Betty Farrar, professional model from San Rafael. Other members of the church who are participating include:

Mesdames Alton Fountain, Kenneth Crabtree, Jack Lewis, Ray Dougherty, Robert Harmon, William Wilson, Herbert Johnson, Paul Vincillione, Dotty Harmon, William Sheppard, Lee Ann Namur, Wwain Jaeki, James Collings, David Burden, and Dan Anderson.

Many children's fashions will also be shown this year, with the following young people taking part: Susan Ball, Bobby Means, Paula and Sharon Vincillione, Amy Johnson, Tammy Sheppard, Robin Halpenny, Judith and Jan Burden, Donna and Deirde Anderson, Lynn Cartwright, Charlene and Karen Dougherty, Sharon Bowen, Foncine Grant, and Bobbette Fleishman.

Mrs. Robert Williams will present the commentary during the program, while Mrs. Lowell Swift will provide organ music. Other committees include Mrs. Paul Vincillione and Mrs. William Wilson, coordination; Mrs. Jack Lewis and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, publicity; Mrs. Kenneth Crabtree, Mrs. Ray Dougherty, Mrs. Frank Eaton, refreshments; and Mrs. Robert Harmon and Mrs. Jack Macado, decorations.

Following the show, refreshments will be served in the church social room.

Tennis Club Spring Dance Set April 23

The Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club will be transformed into a "Japanese Garden," when the Belvedere Tennis Club holds its annual spring dance on Saturday, April 26. Decorating the club will be a fountain, parasols and showers of spring flowers according to decorations chairman Mrs. Alexander Tarics.

Invitations to the black tie affair have been sent to 150 members and guests by Mrs. Warren Finke. Mrs. Albert Seidel, in charge of reservations, reports a full house is anticipated.

Other committee heads who are assisting general chairman Mrs. Martin Stuart are Mesdames John Hoefer, Bruce Manheim and Gerald Jampolsky, cocktail and dinner arrangements and James W. Clark, publicity.

Patients at Haven Cottage, Sonoma State Home, were treated to a pre-Easter party Saturday when Girl Scouts and Brownies of Novato presented the children with decorated baskets filled with candy and staged an Easter egg hunt on the grounds of the hospital.

Novato Scouts first became interested in the Sonoma State Home during the Christmas season of 1958. A Friendship Service Project was started in Intermediate Troop 144 at which time the Scouts voted to "adopt" a cottage of 40 girls. Plans were made under the direction of Mrs. John Coulter, Troop Committee chairman, which included cookies, gifts and Yuletide songs.

The Girl Scout Laws in part read, "A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others. A Girl Scout is a friend to all." After permanent adoption of Haven Cottage, Scouts of Troop 144, who were 12 years of age at that time, realized the significance of the Scout Law in connection with the work they were doing. At Sonoma State Hospital the girls could see a real need and could experience the joy of being helpful with those whose capabilities were limited.

AT CHRISTMAS

In preparation for Christmas of 1959, Troop 144 held a Silver Tea to collect money for the purchase of gifts for the cottage which had grown to a total of 64 girls. Scouts of Troop 350, under leadership of Mrs. Henry Thorn, made cookies which were taken to Sonoma by Troop 144 along with other refreshments and gifts. During February of 1960, Troop 144 assisted the girls of Haven Cottage in making valentines and in March they helped the patients with crayon coloring. Girls of Troop 309, under leadership of Mrs. H. B. Farmer, joined Troop 144 in order to give all the patients a manicure. The nail polish was particularly appreciated by a little blind girl who enjoyed the feel of the smooth nail coating.

The following Brownie Scouts made and donated baskets for the recent Easter party: Troop 319, directed by Mrs. Leo Chaiko and Mrs. Milton Rapini; Troop 423, directed by Mrs. A. S. Butti and Mrs. Frank B. Henry Jr.; Troop 263, directed by Mrs. Roy Kanaff and Mrs. Glenn Simmons; Troop 298, directed by Mrs. Louis Skiownek and Mrs. L. A. Herbel; Troop 325, directed by Mrs. Orrie Bennett and Mrs. E. F. Jorgensen; Troop 314, led by Mrs. David Milano, wrapped eggs and tied ham with ribbons for the hunt, and Troops 144 and 309 dyed eggs for the hunt.

Other troops in Novato which have donated baskets to be used in hospital wards are Troop 361 under the co-leadership of Mesdames Ronuls Garskis, Arthur G. Jones and R. W. Parfitt; Brownie Troop 294, directed by Mrs. Amos Brown and Mrs Robert Sherman and Brownie Troop 212, under the leadership of Mrs Roland Vetter and Mrs. Robert Morse.

IS COORDINATOR

In addition to being Committee chairman for Troop 144, Mrs. Coulter also acts as coordinator for Sonoma State Hospital activities among all Girl Scouts in Novato. Mrs. H. B. Farmer coordinates community activities of Novato for the hospital. Troop 144, under leadership of Mesdames Eugene DeBrecht, Ray Patterson and Earle Stewart, visits Haven Cottage once a month to visit with the patients. Members of the troop are Linda Cole, Gail Coulter, Kathy DeBrecht, Jean Fagnani, Norene Jordan, Sheila Locke, Cathy Owens, Jane Patterson, Marie San Filippo, Peggy Sorenson, Jackie Stewart, Charlene Jones, Dorothy Wigner, Judy Stewart, Lee Zepp, Judy Stinar and Marion Mahaffy.

Mrs. Nelson King President Of Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae

At a recent meeting of the Marin Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae held at the San Anselmo home of Mrs. Kenneth Dunn, Mrs. Austin Burch, outgoing president, handed the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Nelson King of San Anselmo. Other new officers assuming their duties this month are: Mrs. William Findeisen, vice president; Mrs. Stanley Borgus, recording secretary; Mrs. James Mahan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dunn, treasurer; Mrs. Eugene Monceau and Mrs. Robert Banfield, alumnae recommendations co-chairmen; Mrs. Victor Rowe, Panhellenic representative; Mrs. Robert Sisler magazine chairman; Mrs. Merritt Robinson, publicity chairman and Crescent correspondent.

The officers have planned an interesting year including a barbecue in early June to be at the Allen Olingers' home, a salad luncheon and swimming party in September, and a few night meetings with programs.

A monthly bridge group which includes husbands has proved popular this year. The next party will take place at the Kent Woodlands home of the Peter Phelps' on Friday, April 22 at 8 p.m.

The regular 12:30 dessert meeting will be Tuesday, April 19, at the Greenbrae home of Mrs. John Neuenberg.

Hostess duties will be shared by Mrs. Arnold Gustavson. Philanthropy projects will be discussed. This year in addition to giving money for camperships to Dr. Olney's Diabetic Camp in the Sierra, the group will again staff the Coffee and Iced Tea Booth at the Sunny Hills Grape Festival. The national philanthropy of the sorority is maintaining two camps for underprivileged children, one in British Columbia, the other in Colorado.

Any Gamma Phis are welcome to the bridge group or regular meetings and may make reservations with the hostesses.

Final Plans Given For Guild Dance

Plans are progressively real beat for the "Party Pad" dinner dance to be staged by the Sleepy Hollow Guild of Sunny Hills at their annual dinner dance, 7:30 p.m., Saturday, April 30. Locale will be the Sleepy Hollow Center.

Additional committee members include: Mesdames Frank Spicer and Russell Chatham, hors d'oeuvres; Mesdames Harry Allen and Edward Ranahan, entertainment; Mesdames Harold Parish and John Gaylord, arrangements; Mrs. Peter Helms, prizes; Mrs. Lyle Bramson, refreshments; Mrs. Russell La Belle, press relations, assisted by Mesdames George Peet and Harold Lang.

Tickets for the "Party Pad" may be obtained for the first time for friends of Sunny Hills and the Guild, as always before the party has been for members only. They may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Ballachey, 1320 Butterfield road, San Anselmo, or from Mrs. Alfred Porter, 5 Luzanne Circle, San Anselmo. Reservations are limited, so, first come, first served.

Proceeds will go towards support of Sunny Hills Grape Festival to be held for the 61st time this first Saturday in October, at the grounds in San Anselmo.

MV Branch AAUW To Be Represented On Meet Program

The Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women has been honored for the second consecutive year with an invitation to be represented on the program at the state division's annual convention, according to president Mrs. Joseph C. Brewster.

Publicity chairman Mrs. Ross S. Shade will participate in a publicity roundtable on Thursday evening, May 12, opening day of the three-day convention to be held in San Jose.

Mrs. Shade, a Connecticut College philosophy graduate, will discuss "Planning for the Year." She considers the invitation an "appropriate swan song, since July 1 will mark the end of my fifth year as an AAUW branch publicity chairman."

She said that the topic assigned her will "prove how valuable hindsight can be, because I could have done a better job knowing what I do now."

Mrs. Brewster said that branch convention delegates will be named at a later date.

Hill Intermediate P-TA Hears Talk On Scholarships

"Why be so concerned with scholarships? Because there is a need to urge youngsters on," said Mrs. Ruth Mayo, head of the Novato High School counseling department, who spoke at the Hill Intermediate P-TA recently to give parents information on scholarships.

Mrs. Mayo said there were two kinds of scholarships, those for money, to be used as the student sees fit, and those for tuition to a particular college or for particular training. There are national scholarships which are highly competitive, and local ones which are less competitive.

During the business meeting before the program the installation of officers was made. Those installed were Mrs. W. J. Groves, president; Mrs. J. F. Giari, first vice president; Robert Paterson, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Henshillwood, treasurer; Mrs. Vernon Hales, secretary; Mrs. George Pelmear, historian; John Laycock, auditor; and Mrs. Charles Coniglio, parliamentarian.

The meeting was opened by the Tam Lo Kon Da Camp Fire Girls giving the flag salute, and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mesdames Don Murray, R. E. Thomas, and K. E. Baldwin.

Junior Museum League Spreads 'Easter Dreams' At Focus Show

Not everyone was dreaming about the Giants at Candlestick Park on Tuesday! A happy group of mothers and children, plus a generous sprinkling of aunts, grandmothers and grandfathers, too, were enjoying "Easter Dreams," an hour of fashion and fun at Rickey's popular Fashion Focus luncheon honoring the Junior Museum Service League.

Spreading the Easter dream dust along with Peter Rabbit were seven attractive Junior Museum Service League members, one sub-teen daughter and two high-schoolers, delightfully outfitted by a charming Belvedere shop to spell spring success whether sunning or swimming, sailing or shopping or sallying forth after dark on important evenings.

Other assorted children from four to 12 were completely Easter dreamy in the newest wash and wear delights for Sunday time or funday time selected by Bobbie Bell to keep young ladies and gentlemen always "best dressed."

Tuesday's "Easter Dreams" really began at the entrance where black and white bunnies lunched on lettuce nodding a reminder that Marin's Junior Museum is a fascinating place to learn more about the wonders of nature and wildlife in our county.

Not just at Easter time, but the year round the Junior Museum Service League is busy raising funds to supplement the yearly Jr. Museum budget so that many more children and adults can develop a deep appreciation for the wonderful world around them.

Special Fashion Focus guest was Peter Rabbit (known around her regular habitat at Katherine Branson School as Barbie Scott) who hopped around to give Easter goodies to the children delighted to discover that "seconds" were completely permissible at the smorgasbord.

Fashionable Easter dreams included:

"Easter Sunday," the perfect day for Fred Rothschild's green gold silk suit, with patent accessories for Mrs. J. W. Scott, squired by son Charles and son Richard.

"Travel Time," the wrinkle free answer for Mrs. Clyde Stevens, a delightfully flared skirt in Midriff Magic's new lacy look Arnel jersey, elasticized waistband to cinch the matching sleeveless blouse; traveling companion, daughter Shelly, pretty in blue and white silk cotton sashed, and edged with lace trim.

"Town Time," Franklin Wraps heavy wool jersey, jacket, short and saucy, to top an Acrilan classicly pleated ivory sheath, Mrs. Jack Countryman to show it becomingly.

"Come for Dinner," a twirling skirt of white pique dropping from a square necked bodice in a contemporary swirl of charcoal, spice and cinnamon, Mrs. Marion Scott to model it with daughter, Pamela, a beguiling picture in pink cotton batiste with pink eyelet apron and fetching hat.

"Spring Dance," delighting the stag line, Darby Stevens, a student at Miss Hamlin's, waltzing in Lorrie Deb's delightful summer formal, the white, almost strapless, bodice a pretty foil for a skirt bordered in yellow and brown toned poppies.

Next Tuesday, "Spring Fever" invades Rickey's at the Fashion Focus luncheon to be spread with the fashion flair of the Blessed Sacrament Women's Guild and fashions for a frolicking spring from a San Rafael style shop. Reservations may be made by calling Rickey's.

Planners Eye Slope Policy In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Planning Commission, meeting in the firehouse recreation room because the city council chambers were taken by the people taking part in the election tabulation, discussed a slope policy for Mill Valley Tuesday night.

The policy, concerning subdivision lots which are increased in width and size according to increases in natural ground slope, came before the commission in March in relation to the Garden Hill property of jeweler Manuel Gomez.

Gomez was unable to attend Tuesday night's meeting and asked that the discussion be continued until April 26. This was so done. The commission recommended to the city council that subdivisions containing five or more lots be held up pending the outcome of discussions on the slope policy.

The commission also:

1. Granted a use permit to Stenmac, Inc. for establishment of a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. station on a portion of the American Legion property at 465 Miller avenue. The commission continued a request for subdivision of the same property into two lots.

2. Denied request for a variance to Spiliotis and Co. of San Rafael to permit construction of a 25-unit apartment project at 230 Miller avenue.

3. Approved plans for a plumbing office and shop for Dill and Sederberg at 290 Camino Alto.

ROOM FOR LAMPS—The Bowman Electric Co. show room is decorated and carpeted in a neutral background to display this array of electrical fixtures. All shapes and shades of woods, plastics and even baskets are included in this group. Shown also are two types of air conditioners.

Bowman Electric Firm Opens New Quarters

Owner Joel P. Bowman said complete installation of fixtures and equipment in the new building is still about a week away, but the show room is completed and open to the public.

Bowman moved his firm from 5768 Paradise Drive in Corte Madera because of the need for larger quarters, he said.

A native of Tennessee, Bowman has been a Corte Madera resident since 1923 and is a graduate of Marin schools. He became a journeyman electrician in 1940 and a licensed electrical contractor in 1946, establishing Bowman Electric Co. in the latter year.

From one truck and a helper, Bowman Electric Co. now has 16 service trucks and 30 employees. Four of these trucks are occupied with emergency repair work throughout the county. Eight trucks are engaged in installation of electrical equipment in new residences, and four trucks in new commercial work.

Bowman estimated that his company installs 60 per cent of the electrical work in new Marin residences, averaging about seven residences per day.

A new 24-hour service, seven days a week, is now being installed and service telephone numbers will be announced in Novato, San Rafael, Corte Madera and Mill Valley, he said. This service will be available for any electrical emergency, large or small.

South Marin Scouts Set Jubilee Camporee

The overnight competitive camp is expected to draw about 275 Boy Scouts from a dozen troops in Southern Marin. The camporee is part of the national program of conducting an annual outing celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scouts, according to Roy Whitford, Marin Council staff adviser to the district.

Competitive events, particularly a hike which will feature stops at which Scout patrols, composed of five to eight boys, will be tested in basic camping skills, will highlight the camporee. Explorer Scouts from Posts 2 and 34 will act as judges at the testing points, Dale Tupper, 133 Locust ave., Mill Valley, adviser to Post 34, announced.

The 40th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense) which has headquarters at Ft. Barry, made arrangements for the use of the Ft. Cronkhite area by the Scouts. Special hiking trails have been established by the Explorers. Along the trails the Scouts will be tested on measuring distances without using measuring instruments, rope lashings, fire building, map reading, compass reading and first aid.

The hike will take place on Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

From 2 to 3:30 p.m., guided tours of the 40th Brigade's Nike Hercules air defense missile base at Ft. Cronkhite will be conducted for the Scouts.

Invited civic and community leaders will join with the Scouts and Scouters to participate in the Golden Jubilee Camporee. This event will feature troop competitive skits, songs, stunts and a special anniversary skit, according to Tupper. "Parents are also invited to the campfire ceremonies," he said.

Sunday will be highlighted by a game period—the "Fun-O-Ree" — appropriate religious services, a fire fighting demonstration and awards to participating patrols.

"After that, at about 2 p.m., it'll be up to the Scouts to get tired scoutmasters home," Whitford said.

Veteran Telephone Worker Retires

A 42-year telephone career concluded here with the retirement of D. E. MacDonald, veteran Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. repair foreman in San Francisco.

MacDonald retired on Bell System pension April 1, after having accumulated telephone service dating back to 1917.

He started his phone career in Erie, Pa., and came to work for Pacific Telephone in September of 1945.

MacDonald lives at 1798 Grant avenue, Novato, with his wife, Loraine.

Marin Doctor To Talk On Tranquilizer Drugs

Dr. Edward E. Shev of San Rafael, head of the encephalography department at Marin General Hospital, will speak on toxic effects of tranquilizer drugs to the 12th annual meeting of the American Academy of Neurology April 30 in Miami Beach, Fla.

He has recently returned from Europe where he presented a paper at a medical meeting in Marseilles, France.

Youth Practicing With Fishing Pole Snags Automobile

A 12-year-old Novato boy, who said he was just practicing how to cast with his fishing pole, snagged a shiny new car on Chase street in Novato Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bennie M. McKay of 671 Peach street complained to sheriff's deputies that the boy became "sassy" when she stopped to reprimand him. Sgt. Edward Levine said that her 1960 sedan showed small scratches on the grill and right front fender where the line, leader and sinker landed.

Sergeant Levine reported that the boy's mother promised to punish the boy. She explained it was an accident, and her son was just practicing how to cast. Officers told the boy to practice his casting off the public highways.

Today is Thursday, April 14, the 105the day of the year, with 261 more to follow in 1960.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775, the first abolition society was organized in Philadelphia with Benjamin Franklin as president.

In 1828, the first edition of Noah Webster's Dictionary was published.

In 1865, John Wilkes Booth crept into an unguarded box at Ford's Theater in Washington and shot President Abraham Lincoln, wounding him fatally.

Here's Proper Way To React To Letters From The Teacher

What do you do about letters-from-the-teacher?

You know the letters? They start, "I regret to tell you that your boy again is causing trouble in my classroom." I've sent such letters. I've received 'em. They make me uncomfortable. You, too?

Some parents always jump to their son's defense. The teacher is wrong. She has it in for their boy. He couldn't have done those things.

Are you like that? I hope not. If so, you are your son's worst enemy.

Other folks go to the opposite extreme. They take a strap and start walloping before they investigate. The teacher is always right, and their child wrong in their minds. They whip first, and ask questions afterward. That's not right, either.

I hope you'll take letters-from-the-teacher seriously. But I hope you'll talk things over with your son before you punish. Try to be fair-minded. More than 99 times out of 100 you'll find he is guilty. But he should see that you are trying to be just. Then draw your own conclusion. Punish him if it seems necessary. You want him to be a good citizen. You don't want him to cause trouble at school. Take appropriate steps to guide him.

If you conclude the teacher has made a mistake? Then go see her. Try to find a polite way to tell her. If you aren't too defensive you may be able to get your point across.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "My boy is 3. He is healthy, but has bad eating habits. Often he eats nothing at mealtime, but eats piecemeal for hours afterward. What can I do.?"

K.N.D

(A) Talk with your doctor about these suggestions: (1) Have a regular mealtime. Give your boy good food, properly prepared. Let him have a reasonable period in which to eat. (2) If he refuses, try not to fret. But don't let him eat anything until the next meal. He'll come around.

Safe School Bus Drivers Honored

Seven school bus drivers with a total of 35 years of accident-free service behind them were honored yesterday by the North Marin Assn. of Insurance Agents at a luncheon at Novato Joe's.

From the San Jose School District, Ann Avilla, eight years without an accident, and Lois Catteyson, five years.

From the Novato Unified School District, Lena M. Blaski, nine years; Florence D. Price, seven years; Margaret L. Anhorn, three years; Antone A. Mello, two years Valerie E. Hansen, one year.

During this time, the drivers have maintained records free from claims of any kind, pointed out William E. Cole, servicing agent for the Novato district and chairman of the meeting.

Guests of honor included Novato Supt. William J. J. Smith and representatives of the San Jose and Novato school district boards.

The San Jose district driver awards were made by Carl Hall, safety engineer for the Royal Indemnity Co. Awards to the Novato district drivers were given by Phillip W. Herman, Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. safety engineer.

Marinites To Be Judges In Contest

Two persons from Marin have been selected to serve on a six-judge panel to select Bank of America Achievement Award zone winners from among 32 public high school seniors in Solano, Marin, Napa and Sonoma counties.

4-H Club Winners

The Novato Aggie 4-H Club has won $30 for placing second in a national Farm-City Week contest. Sponsored by the National 4-H Club News, the contest was based activities during a week in November.

Semiconductors: They're Small, But A Big Industry

There already is more than what might be called "normal" talk about semiconductors in Marin. There is going to be a lot more, because the Fairchild Semi-Conductor Corp. will have a plant in operation this fall in San Rafael.

Business Week magazine recently carried a lengthy special report on the semiconductor industry—an industry that has annual sales of half a billion dollars.

Semiconductors were invented about a dozen years ago and the industry's basic recipes were written by Bell Telephone Laboratories. They are small devices. Some are small as peas; some are so small seven of them can be placed on the face of a dime. It is an industry full of brains, with more persons carrying doctorate degrees than in any other industry in the nation.

Semiconductors at first were crude transistors—a device to control and amplify electrical signals—but now are so refined that they can be used in everything from midget radios to mammoth computers.

In this, the fastest growing part of the electronics industry, innovation makes for growth, and improvement depends on personnel and refinement of old techniques. It is an expanding business in an expanding market and profits are high.

In a plain electrical conductor, current flows through a copper wire like water through a pipe, but in a semiconductor electrons can be—in a sense—frozen. By addition of energy, current will flow again. The semiconductor's ability to carry current, however, depends on impurities.

There are two types. In the N-type, the semiconductor contains an impurity the atoms of which have an extra electron. Perhaps only four out of five of the atoms of an impurity will fit into a semiconductor made of silicon. The extra atom is available to carry current.

In the P-type there is an impurity that contains one less than enough atoms to "stick." This leaves a hole roughly equivalent to positive charges and will absorb an electron, then reappear. By jumping along, electrons carry current.

Most semiconductors are of the type that contain a crystal of both N-type and P-type regions. This brings up a device called a diode. This is a one-way electrical gate. Inside a semiconductor crystal which has an impurity there is a "junction" where the impurity changes from N-type to P-type. Current in one direction puts a negative charge on the P-type crystal and a positive charge on the N-type. Extra electrons are pulled away from this "junction" area, but when the current is reversed electrons will flow toward the "junction," permitting current to pass.

Then we get to the transistor. This is a sandwich. The two outer layers are either both P-type or N-type, and the center is the opposite type of these. No current can flow from the top to the bottom layer, except when a small amount of current is injected into the center layer.

The result of this is that a bridge is created permitting a much larger current to flow from top to bottom. This process is known as amplification—one of the big things a semiconductor does—and the current can be increased up to 40,000 times.

Semiconductors, or to be more accurate, semiconductor components — transistors and diodes and the like—started out because there was a crisis in the electronic industry. Business Week quotes Dr. Aniel Noble, executive vice president of Motorola, Inc., as saying "equipment had to have so many components of limited reliability that the total system's reliability was zero—it wouldn't work."

Semiconductors have, in many ways, taken the place of the vacuum tube, hailed as quite a discovery in its day.

The market today includes orders from the military that represent about half the new industry's income. Thousands of transistors may go into a single missile. On the civilian side, the little units are vital, and compared to vacuum tubes cheap, for computers. The semiconductors can do a job that would require literally thousands of bulky tube parts.

In time, semiconductors may be used to eliminate interconnections or to transform a radio chassis from a big collection of parts to something the size of a thimble. Big collections of circuits may be combined into an arrangement called "solid state" circuits—elements that can control current without moving parts, heated filaments or vacuum gaps.

Research built the industry and the starter was the Bell laboratories. Early transistors worked but scientists were not sure how, and the first ones were weak and fragile. Metallurgists and chemists were working with something that one of them said was "like trying to separate a pinch of salt evenly distributed through a trainload of sugar when you didn't even know the impurity was salt."

By 1951, an improved transistor was made to work. There was another breakthrough three years later when a way was found to purify germanium, a metal used in some semiconductor manufacture. Ways were found, too, of improving the "sandwich," and in 1955, the diffused base—or mesa—transistor was developed. Under a microscope little mounds left by an etching process look like the flattened hills or mesas of western deserts.

Mechanization has increased yield at factories, and factories and companies have increased.

In the Bay Area, the Shockley Transistor Corp. provided the brains and men for another company: the Fairchild Semiconductor Corp. that is building a plant in San Rafael.

Four years ago, William O. Shockley, one of the three Nobel prize-winning inventors of the transistor, set up on his own after leaving Bell. He gathered young scientists, but in 1957, eight of Shockley's young Ph.D.s, somewhat unsettled under what they called the company's "stultifying pace" moved out.

Under the leadership of Dr. Robert N. Noyce, they got financial backing from Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp. which wanted to diversify its manufacturing. Fairchild Semiconductor began to make money in 1958, and last year sales were more than seven million dollars.

Recently, there was a similar movement within Fairchild. One of the employees, who worked there only a year, took with him eight Fairchild people when he left to form Rheem Semiconductor, a division of Rheem Manufacturing Co. A factory was built near Fairchild on the peninsula. Fairchild has filed a suit against some of its former employees saying they took with them some confidential material.

Both firms are turning out silicon products.

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

RABBITS ARE ROMPIN'

Summer in Marin! What could be lovelier? And what could be lovelier than your own home in the western part of the county. Woodacre, of course, ideally located within minutes of San Rafael, and a short drive to many of the finest recreation spots in the area. Here is a 2 bedroom plus den, plus an unfinished room off the 3 car port. Drapes included, of course, as is the TV antenna. Solidly constructed for year round living, close to schools and stores, or could be your very own, and private, summer retreat. See it soon!

JUST MOLLY AND YOU?

Then how about this 2 bedroom home, (but all large rooms) close in, level, (no steps) with a large formal dining room, gleaming hardwood floors, central heat, plus your own cozy fireplace. Lots of brickwork, and a sprinkler system in the front yard for the lazy gardener. Sunny patio, too. Remember, its close in, its level, its immaculate. Not too many homes like this one available. Ideal for beginner home or retired.

METICULOUS 4 BEDRMS.

Here's a home that's lovely any way you look at it. A gigantic living-dining room with a floor to ceiling fireplace, bar nook includes built in bar, sink. Extra, extra storage spaces throughout. All 4 bedrooms are twin size, and both baths have vanity sinks. Electric kitchen with family dining area plus huge covered outdoor dining patio. Beautifully landscaped in flowering shrubs and plants. 2 car garage. Playyard for the small fry. Close to Redwood Hi for the teeners.

Ross Players Rehearsing 'Sabrina Fair'

Rehearsals are under way for the Ross Valley Players' third major production of the season, "Sabrina Fair," with John King as director. It will open for four weekends starting April 28 at the Barn of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The play, a four-act comedy, concerns itself principally with Sabrina Fairchild, daughter of the wealthy Larrabee family's chauffeur. After an absence of several years, she returns from Paris to the estate and proceeds to have a profound effect upon each member of the Larrabee family.

Marine Corps To Close S.F. Offices

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Offices here for the Marine Corps Department of the Pacific will be closed in June for economic reasons, the department announced yesterday.

The administrative headquarters is commanded by Maj. Gen. Francis M. McAlister. He has a staff of 94 Marines and four civilians.

Most functions now assigned to the San Francisco office will be assigned to Washington, D. C. Others will be transferred to Treasure Island and to the 12th Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment district, San Francisco.

Reserve Squadron To Hold Air Force Night

The 9364th Air Reserve Squadron will hold an open house Air Force Night starting at 7:45 p.m., April 20, at Bermuda Palms, San Rafael.

Lt. Col. O. R. Street of San Anselmo, commander of the squadron, said parents and young men interested in the Air Force Academy will be shown a film on the school.

Marin's Share Of Tax Funds Raised

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—State Controller Alan Cranston announced today he has apportioned $76,843,122—half to the 58 counties and half to the 363 cities—from motor vehicle license fees.

The apportionment was an advance distribution of 75 per cent of the estimated total of fees which the state will collect during the six-month period ending May 31.

Marin County received $310,745, as compared with $307,501 for the same six-month period of 1959, ending May 31.

Apportionments to Marin County cities included: San Rafael $58,003; Belvedere $6,202; Corte Madera $18,602; Fairfax $16,496; Larkspur $18,356; Mill Valley $33,140; Novato $50,910; Ross $8,431; San Anselmo $41,065, and Sausalito $20,006.
